

"AMERICA'S FINEST FLOURING MILLS"

Costs more PER SACK
Costs less PER LOAF

AUTHORITIES concede that the FISHER FLOURING MILLS COMPANY has the most perfectly constructed, best arranged and modern equipped plant ever built in this country. It employs only the most experienced millers and uses selected Eastern Hard Wheat and choice Western Soft Wheat in producing

FISHER'S BLEND FLOUR

Naturally, it costs more to turn out this new, high-grade blend than it does to make simpler and less carefully handled flours. Hence, its price per sack is slightly more. Inasmuch as it is not flour but loaves of bread that we eat, and as FISHER'S BLEND makes more loaves, in proportion to its cost, than does any other flour, housewives and others using it have the satisfaction of knowing that they are really getting more and better values for their money. FISHER'S BLEND costs more as flour, but it gives more, both in quality and quantity of loaves, and is therefore actually more economical to buy and use than are the cheaper brands.

GRANGE ADVOCATES EXTENSION

Agricultural College Has Many Calls for Help from State.

"The greatest demand now being made upon the college is a demand for more extension work," says the report of the committee on the Oregon Agricultural College presented at the State Grange convention at Roseburg. "That is," it continues, "greater service to the people of the state who are unable to come to the institution for the regular residence work."

The demand is coming not only from the farms but from the shops and more particularly from the great body of business and professional men of the country who realize that the prosperity of the city depends primarily upon the farms. There is a complete appreciation of the scope of the work which can be done along this line.

Such states as Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota, Illinois, Kansas and New York have already demonstrated what can be done through extension instruction. The production of these lands of these states has been enormously increased, farm life has been made easier and more pleasant, the farming communities have been improved, the rural schools have been revolutionized and the tendency for the boys and girls to go from the farms to the cities is being rapidly overcome.

"Oregon is practically the only progressive state in the Union which is not doing high grade work along this line. The college is doing very much, in fact everything in its power, but is absolutely handicapped by the lack of funds. It should have an appropriation sufficient to hire instructors who will have nothing else to do but work among the farmers of the state. There should be itinerant schools with portable laboratories and a staff of instructors to go from place to place and give instruction."

"Valuable assistance is being rendered the agricultural interests of the state through the work of the cooperative branch of experiment stations and demonstration farms recently established. The three day farming stations in Eastern Oregon and the horticultural stations in Umatilla and Rogue River Valleys will doubtless prove of great benefit to those interested. Notwithstanding the fact that dairying is the greatest single revenue producing agricultural interest in the state, no provision has been made for practical dairy farm demonstrations elsewhere than at the home station at Corvallis. We believe that the dairy interests of the state are entitled to and should have a demonstration farm under the direction of the dairy department of the college, where the most approved methods of milk production would be demonstrated under practical conditions. Such a farm should be self-sustaining when once established, and would increase in value with the general advancement of the state.

"There should be more bulletins written in the language of the ordinary farmer. There should be more exhibits of the results and methods of the best agricultural products. In the advancement of this work, we ask the influence of the State Grange. The Oregon Countryman, a monthly magazine published by the students of domestic science and agriculture, disseminates much of the best thought of student and faculty. We recommend this publication to all persons interested in the farm and the farm home. The teachers in our public schools will also find much of interest and help in this magazine.

"The summer school, of six weeks duration, is attracting more and more the teachers of the state each year. This is going far toward the training of those who must carry on the instruction in the technical work which is being installed so rapidly throughout the state. The winter courses, of six weeks duration, are designed to give to the busy men and women of the state the most practical instruction possible. These courses are attracting more of the men and women of the state each year, and are very much appreciated by those in attendance.

"Your committee respectfully asks the complete support of the State Grange for the advancement of this work. We respectfully request that our legislative committee be instructed to aid in securing appropriations in order that the complete mission of the college may be realized."

Strawberry Crop Is Best for Years.

"The strawberry crop this year is the finest I have ever seen, and they are coming in rapidly already," said J. Lawson, the Eugene fruit man, recently. Continuing, Mr. Lawson said: "As a whole the fruit prospects for Lane county in the vicinity of Eugene were never better. The cherry crop, with the exception of the extra early varieties, promises to be unusually large. There are only a few early cherry trees and the crop is of no importance commercially, so the shortage is of no moment. The standard varieties of white cherry and the black cherries will produce heavily unless all signs fail. There will be a big apple crop. The Baldwins and Spitzenbergs, which furnish the bulk of the apples in the county, will give an unusually heavy yield. Other varieties except Northern Spies will have a full crop. The Spies were hurt by cold rains, and will yield but a third of a crop, but there are not very many trees of that kind around Eugene.

"The peach crop will be fair and the pear crop good. The only fruit which shows decided indication of a shortage is the prune. This will probably yield but little if any more than a third of a crop this year. It is too early to say anything definite in regard to grapes, but indications so far are favorable."
