Time is money. It costs you about a dollar in time every time you read all the live news in one issue of The Sentinel.

Cook Bay claims the largest saw log. The C. A. Smith Co. has sawed a giant spruce log estimated to have weighed over 18 tons, that scaled 19,600 feet of lumber. It was 75 feet long, seven feet in diameter at the butt and five feet eight inches at the top. This is thought to be the largest log ever hauled on a train anywhere.

HOME ENDORSEMENT

Hundreds of Cottage Grove Citizens Can Tell You All About It.

Home endorsement, the public expression of Cottage Grove people, should be evidence beyond dispute for every Cottage Grove reader. Surely the experience of friends and neighbors, cheerfully given by them, will carry more weight than the utterances of strangers residing in faraway places. Read the following:

Mrs. J. H. Shortridge, Cottage Grove, Ore., says: "Since I publicly recommended Doan's Kidney Pills two years ago, I have taken them off and on and they have always benefited me. I was all run down from kidney and bladder trouble and often my back was so weak and lame that I could hardly get around. I had headaches and the kidney secretions annoyed me. After I had taken a number of remedies without benefit, I was told about Doan's Kidney Pills and deciding to try them, I procured a supply at Benson's Drug Store. The contents of three boxes improved my condition in every way. I have often told other persons how effective Doan's Kidney Pills are in cases of kidney complaint."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other. J18-25

DON'T KNOW THEY HAVE APPENDICITIS

Many Cottage Grove people who have chronic appendicitis, which is not very painful, have doctored for years for gas on the stomach, sour stomach or constipation. The New Era Druggist states if these people will try simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as compounded in Adlerika, the German appendicitis remedy, they will be surprised at the quick benefit. A single dose relieves these troubles instantly.

KNOWLES & GRABER

Get Rid of the "Going Abroad" Germ-- See the Wonders of Your Own Land First

The Eastern Man Knows Little of the United States, but He Is Well Informed About the Interesting Places and Things of Europe

The Eastern man lives so close to the Atlantic coast that he forgets his country has any other boundary line.

In a dim, distant way he heard there are cities and rivers and forests out West, but that there is anything of interest there he doubts.

He does not know if St. Louis is situated at the mouth of the Rio Grande or at the headwaters of the St. Lawrence, but he does know (note his pompous tread) just how much enjoyment there is in a trip up the Nile.

The big trees of California awaken no desire to see them.

"I am more interested," he says, "in the Black Forest of Germany."

He knows that somewhere in the West there is a town devoted to the flouring industry, but speaking of flour reminds him of loaves of bread you can get abroad that are half a yard long.

The petrified forests of the West fail to awaken his interest, and any allusion to that great freak of nature, that immense chasm across Mother Nature's face, the Grand Canyon of Arizona, is met with his opinion that such descriptions are exaggerated. Down in the bottom of his heart he thinks this Grand Canyon of Arizona is so narrow a real live man from New York could jump it and have breath to spare.

Somewhere up in the State of New York they are building a dam. "Wonderful, wonderful!" he exclaims, and refuses to credit the immensity of the great irrigation ditch that is making the cactus covered plains of the West blossom like the rose.

Up there in the Dakotas there are ranches so immense the owner says a week's good-by to his family when he starts to cross one, and a prosperous farmer's domains are so extensive he does not know their exact acreage himself. But all this and more counts for nothing with the Easterner.

He has been abroad. He is going again. The chateaus of France are more interesting to him than the cliff dwellers of New Mexico.

In a patriotic red, white and blue way, he knows the political and agricultural possibilities of the land lying west of the Mississippi, and the war horse in him prances and paws at any hint of foreign invasion. But that there are any scenic delights out there worth his while is something beyond his two-by-four comprehension.

He is infected with the European habit.

He is infected with the going abroad germ. He goes every time he can afford the time and money, and just as often when he can't.

He sends his wife and his daughters that they may not be socially handicapped when they meet other wives and daughters who have been "over." When he can't send them his wife and daughters get up alluring pamphlets showing pictures of Napoleon's Tomb and the Coliseum. These they send out West, with the information that they have engaged in conducting tourists' parties at so much per.

These pamphlets announce that the woman who will take tourists under her travel wing at so much per is well versed in all the foreign languages, and is a lady of culture and refinement. It is a rare opportunity, the pamphlets say, to see Europe with so much culture thrown in.

In some sections of the United States, notably the rural sections, the charge is made that some women become missionaries so that they may get a trip abroad with expenses paid, to say nothing of the farewell teas given by the church sewing circle before they depart.

In the East the woman who wants to go abroad adopts the role of guide, and beckons to the untraveled of the West to come with their pocketbooks, and go under her wing.

If the charge against the missionary is true, which it isn't, it can at least be said of her that she doesn't expect to take her family along.

The cultured and refined Eastern woman hopes to make enough out of the Western purse to take her entire family and the dog.

It is anything and any means to see Europe in the East. It is the Promised Land of the tourist, who sails away leaving greater scenic delights in his own country uncredited and unseen.

He has put his own land last. The fact is recorded to his humiliation and shame.—Editorial from Chicago American by Frances L. Garside.

Creswell Notes.

Albert Winzenried died at his home in Cloverdale Tuesday at 11:30 p. m. Funeral services were held at 12 o'clock Thursday at the Pleasant Hill church. Deceased had been a resident of Lane county a greater part of his life. Diabetes was the cause of his death, from which disease he had been a sufferer for several years.

The afternoon of Tuesday, July 16, was enjoyably spent by a party of children who gathered at the home of S. S. Morris, in honor of the birthday anniversaries of Beulah and Leon Morris. Ice cream and cake were served.

J. H. Wilson has received a cablegram announcing the death of his father at London, England. It was quite a shock to the son, as he did not know that his father was seriously ill.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Hewitt and son arrived in Creswell Monday night from Elma, Wash., where they have been visiting relatives. They will remain here until fall, when they will return to Leaburg, where Mr. Hewitt will teach school again this year.

At the regular meeting of Honor Rebekah lodge here last week, the following officers were installed: Mrs. Minerva Gillmore, N. G.; Mrs. Genevieve Louk, V. G.; Mrs. Ora Steele, secretary; Mrs. Louise Steele, treasurer; Miss Genevieve Thompson, warden; Miss Clara Schneider, conductor; Mrs. Emma Weeks, R. S. N. G.; Mrs. Emma Sly, L. S. N. G.; Mrs. Lou A. Richardson, R. S. V. G.; Mrs. Clara Wallace, L. S. V. G.; Mrs. Della Nash, I. S. G.; J. F. Weeks, O. S. G.; Miss Emma Hager, chaplain.

Dr. J. L. George and family leave today for Tillamook, and other points north. After a vacation of a few weeks Dr. George will go to Los Angeles, where he will take a postgraduate course, and may ultimately locate in Eastern Oregon or Idaho.

J. A. Hoshor, of Olympia, Wash., has purchased 200 acres of the Geo. Hawley place and 100 acres of the R. D. Hawley ranch north of town. The land has one-half mile frontage on the county road running south as far as the David Frances place.

Clifford A. Harrington, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Harrington, is here on a visit with his parents and relatives. Mr. Harrington comes from Panama, where he is employed by the government as a civil engineer on the Panama canal. He has the supervision of installing the Gatun lock, a very difficult piece of engineering.

The effete East is looking for a productive country. Send your friends out there copies of The Sentinel and let them know how things grow in this salubrious clime.

11,249 SCHOOL CHILDREN IN LANE COUNTY

Interesting Statistics About Public Schools Contained in Recent Annual Report.

NOVEL WAY OF BUILDING UP CREAMERY BUSINESS

Independence Concern Buys Cows For Customers and Gets Pay Out of Profits.

The Independence Creamery, located in the town of Independence, has for several years been loaning money to its customers for the purchase of dairy cows and the creamery has now outstanding on such loans about $15,000. This sum means that from the loans now in force something like 300 cows have been brought into that section through the instrumentality of the creamery. But that means only from the present active accounts, while for several years this policy has been pursued, during which time upwards of 1000 cows have been thus purchased.

The Independence Creamery is a very successful concern and it might be worth while for one to go to the root of the matter and see if this cow buying feature has not had much to do with this success. If it has, and we are told that is true, then would it not be well for other institutions of the same sort to follow the example? It is said that in any community where the milk can be secured from 500 cows a creamery can be successfully operated; is that we have not more creameries is that neighborhoods where that many cows can be reached are not always to be found. The Independence concern was confronted with the same difficulty—there were not cows enough in the vicinity to make the business profitable; so it overcame the obstacle by purchasing cows for those who would become producers of milk.

The managers of the concern say that they have never lost a penny from the loans they have made for this purpose. They have received 8 per cent interest on all they have loaned, so as a money-making scheme the capital thus invested has paid for the dairymen who have received the loans and for the community where the cows have been placed. These results are almost beyond calculation.

It might be well for capitalists and bankers to look into this matter very carefully. It would seem from a superficial examination that the Independence Creamery has shown the way for the upbuilding of many sections of Oregon by the installation of a business which is the greatest community-builder known—dairying. Oregon is very far short in the production of dairy products, and yet we have many favored localities where the dairy cow will thrive as in but few other sections of the country. A helping hand from those who have money to invest would put many more creameries in successful operation, and, above all, would increase our population where most we need such increase—on the land.—Oregon Journal.
