FOUR REAL STAR FIRST BASEMEN

Daubert, Merkle, Konetchy and Hoblitzel Wonders.

ARE QUARTET OF SLUGGERS.

Every One of Them Can Whistle the Ball For Keeps and Run the Bases Well, Besides Being All a First Sacker Should Be.

Star baseball players of any kind are exceedingly rare, but big league managers assert that crack first basemen are the scarcest commodities in the land. Any one doubting this statement may have it confirmed by asking either Barney Dreyfuss or Fred Clarke of Pittsburgh. After trading Kitty Bransfield to the Phillies in 1905 the Pirates were engaged in a continuous search for a first sacker until the spring of this year, when Clarke hit on the brilliant idea of converting "Dots" Miller into a first baseman. The Kearny (N. J.) boy has played the best first base the Pittsburgh bugs have seen in eight years, but "Dots" has not yet shown class enough to displace any one of the "big four" of the National league—Fred Merkle, Jake Daubert, Dick Hoblitzel and Eddie Konetchy.

Some first basemen this quartet. Every one is a star of the first magnitude, and all are young men with their best days still ahead of them. All are lusty clubbers, as all first basemen should be, and hammer the old ball all over the lot. However, unlike some of the slugging first basemen of old, all these four men are among the leading speed merchants in the National league.

It is hard to decide which one is the star of the quartet. Manhattan fans swear by Fred Merkle, and Brooklyn fans can see only Jake Daubert, while Cincinnati and St. Louis fans believe "Hobby" and "Koney" have no superiors.

Perhaps no ball player, unless it is Rube Marquard, had a harder time to make good than Fred Merkle, and Fred deserves all the good things that have come to him in the last two years. Everybody knows the unfortunate "bone" Fred committed in 1908 and how it cost the Giants a championship. The fans did not forgive Fred for that lapse for a long time, and many managers laughed when Merkle was under discussion. "McGraw actually believes he can make a first baseman out of that fellow," said a prominent manager in 1909. But McGraw made a first baseman of Merkle, all right.

Jake Daubert is another star who had to fight his way to the front. Turned back by Cleveland as not of big league caliber, Jake got a chance with the Superbas in 1910. No one considered that Daubert had a chance to beat out "Home Run" Tim Jordan, but Daubert played such great ball that he simply could not be kept out of the game. He is now in his third year with Brooklyn and is getting better all the time.

Dick Hoblitzel, the clever first baseman of the Redlegs, is the most brilliant performer on Hank O'Day's roster. Cincinnati fans have to thank the old outlaw Union league for Richard. The Union league sprouted for a few months in 1908. After leaving college Dick made his professional debut with the Unions. He landed with the Reds the following season and has starred for Garry Herrmann's team ever since.

Eddie Konetchy is the oldest one of these four players in big league experience, though he has been in the National league only since 1907. Konetchy, like Daubert, has been handicapped by playing with a second division team.

CLOTHING AS QUICK CURE

Doctor's Medicine Produces Relief for One Nervous Woman.

She had been feeling worse and worse for nearly a year, she was saying. Things had been getting more and more "mixed" up. It wasn't suffering; it wasn't just "strain." She didn't know what else to call it; she hoped the doctor would understand.

The doctor smiled and then he spoke cheerfully.

"What you need," he pronounced, "what you need is some new clothes!" The woman gasped and looked at him. Then she flushed a deep crimson and raised her hand awkwardly to her ugly collar.

"What's that got to do with it?" she demanded.

"Everything," said the doctor. "I can't afford expensive clothes," she said, dully, pulling at the mended fingers of her shabby gloves.

"Clothes are not so expensive as a sanitarium," remarked the doctor. "Neither," he added, "are they so expensive as six months in Europe. And they'll do you quite as much good. What you need is clothes. Go get them. I want you to buy yourself a lot of new dresses. You'd better throw away every dud you have and get a complete new outfit. Get frills and earrings and smart shoes and a regular peach of a hat."

He was sitting at his desk three weeks later, when the door opened and the woman came in. He bowed a little stiffly. This was a stranger. This was a little woman whose graceful plumpness gave her lack of height a certain piquant charm.

"I believe," she said, "I really believe you don't know me."

Then the doctor recognized her. But he admitted to himself that her voice too, had changed. It had lost its rasping quality, it seemed to have gone back to a certain softness that it had lost.

"Yes, I know you," he smiled. "You were here three weeks ago."

The woman laughed. "I came for you to see me," she reminded him, "and I came to thank you, too. How did you know? I'm not breaking down. Life's worth living again. And last night I heard Jack tell Meg that home was the jolliest place in the world. And Meggie said that mother was perfectly dear! I know that they can thank you—you and the clothes!"—Dress Magazine.

Rough Rider Balks T. R.

"I followed Teddy up San Juan Hill," declared William S. Roberts, a Lane County farmer, lately, "but now he can follow me. I vote for no third term candidates and vote for no bolters. The republican party is good enough for me. Along with the rest of the boys, I used to think Roosevelt was the biggest man in the world, but this third term party business is too much for me. I'll have to bolt Teddy."

Mr. Roberts was a cowboy on the plains in the days when Indians were plentiful. He acted as a special messenger for General Miles in the Indian wars and took an active part in the battle of Wounded Knee. He enlisted in the Rough Riders from Guthrie, Okla., fighting through the Spanish War. A short time ago he came to Lane County and settled on a ranch four miles west of Eugene. Mr. Roberts has always been a great admirer of Roosevelt, and still thinks him a great man, but does not think the Colonel should seek the Presidency again, as he is doing.
