Some Money Still Spent.

East Oregonian: A story from Chicago says that in a talk before the republican national committee Bruce Dennis of LaGrande, chairman of the republican state committee of Oregon extolled the Oregon system. It prohibits the use of money in campaigns he said and brings on political decency. Dennis predicted to the committee that the system will continue to spread until all the states have adopted it.

Fine talk from the chairman of the republican state committee! Mr. Dennis is doing better than Former Chairman George who called an assembly to annul the direct primary law and to save the state from the Oregon system.

But in his statement regarding campaign expenditures Dennis forgot about Ben Selling's campaign for the senatorial nomination. Selling's campaign proves that considerable money was spent even under the Oregon system.

A permanent financial success depends upon your ability to put aside a consistent proportion of your present income for future investment. Speculation, even though it is temporarily successful, causes you to depreciate the value of money and destroys the foundation upon which your finances should stand. Spray's Column

The way the dirt did fly out at the Knox hill Saturday was a sight to see; the farmers out that way want to come to town. There was a very bad hill to pull going home, but thanks to the good people it is no more. If all the people in Cottage Grove and vicinity had the road building grit they have had east of town we would soon have good roads.

Good second hand roller feed mill for sale.

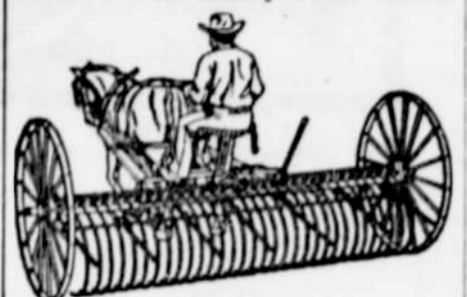

Wood to give away for the cutting. W. A. Hemenway.

Old growth fir, also ash grub wood at Spray's.

Frank Garoutte bought one of them John Deere Moline wagons last week. He saw Rogers' and Arms' wagons, and Frank knows a good thing when he sees it.

Wagons, buggies, plows, harrows, cultivators, discs, binders, mowers and rakes at the big hole in the wall.

I have just received a car load of McCormick binders, mowers and rakes direct from the factory which enables me to sell them at as low a price as any good machinery can be sold and on terms to suit the purchaser. Good, new machines save time and labor as well as hay and grain. When you buy a McCormick you buy as good a machine as can be made. We have them in stock all set up. You can see what you are getting. We also keep on hand all extras for the McCormick.

Joe Damedwood wants to buy a gentle pony.

Here we have a Moline wagon made by the John Deere Plow Co. This is a first class wagon, well finished, good material and guaranteed by the John Deere Plow Co. The price is right, when you come and see us at the big hole in the wall.

Now is the time to look over mowers and binders to see what repairs are needed to be ready for harvest.

Cupid flour is as good as the best—$1.40 per sack. J. F. Spray, phone 162

I have Planet Junior and John Deere planters and cultivators. With planting and good cultivation you will be surprised at how your land will produce.

MAYS PARDONED BY PRESIDENT

Former State Senator Wins Fight for Liberty, Following Conviction in Land Fraud Cases.

Pardon for Franklin P. Mays, former state senator for Multnomah county, Oregon, has been granted by President Taft, on the ground that the government prosecutors had used improper methods in securing his conviction for land frauds at Portland in 1907. This is the second pardon in the Mitchell-Hermann land cases, Willard N. Jones having been pardoned by the president several days ago.

The pardon of Mays causes no surprise locally, as it is considered a natural step following the pardon granted to William N. Jones convicted in the same cases, by the same jury and under the same circumstances.

The same reasons are assigned for the pardon of Mays as for the pardon of Jones, being in effect that the jury box was packed by Francis J. Heney, the government prosecutor, and William J. Burns, the detective, who so connived that every member of the jury that tried the two men was known in advance to favor the government.

Mays was sentenced to four months' imprisonment and to pay a fine of $10,000 in the summer of 1906 for his part in the Blue Mountain land frauds. In this fraud he was the chief factor. United States Senator John H. Mitchell, who died before his case came to trial; Willard N. Jones, who was pardoned ten days ago; George Sorenson, who turned state's evidence and escaped sentence; Binger Hermann, who escaped through a hung jury; H. A. Smith, who died before he was indicted, and J. N. Williamson, who was never tried owing to lack of convicting evidence, were the other defendants in this case.

The scheme employed was to secure cheap school lands and then have the surrounding lands formed into a forest reserve. Then the conspirators were to exchange these lands under the lieuland act for land in other sections. This new land could be sold for a good advance over what the school lands cost. Sorenson acted as agent for the conspirators and secured the dummy entries by getting hangers on in saloons and others to sign applications by paying them small amounts. The conspirators would then complete the filing. The school land office was so anxious to get rid of the school land and receive money for it that they winked at the practice and completed the filings without any protest.

The conspirators secured about 20,000 acres of school land in this way, but the creation of the forest reserve took so long a time that the lieuland law was repealed before the land could be exchanged. Williamson's connection with the case began with the report that the forest reserve was to be created and he could not be connected with the original conspiracy.

Mays has escaped serving his sentence and paying his fine owing to the fact that the application for his pardon has been hanging fire. On orders from the United States Attorney General, District Attorney McCourt from time to time asked the local federal court for stays of sentence and finally asked and received a stay to endure until further action of the court.

The petition for the pardon was submitted by Charles H. Carey, Mays' former partner, and was accompanied by statements of various physicians that his physical condition was such that he could never last out his time of sentence.

A Cut and Dried Affair

A Lion who had long reigned with supreme power over the forest, one day called a convention of all the beasts and announced his intention of abdicating.

"I am growing old and feeble, and I must soon pass away," he argued. "All things considered it is better that my successor be nominated and installed while I am living to give him the benefits of my experience and advice." There was a general joy among the beasts, for the Lion had lorded it after his own fashion. The Elephant was pushing his nose into the Crow, and the Giraffe was doing a heap of thinking way down his throat, when the Lion continued:

"After serious reflection and solemn consideration I have decided that my own son shall succeed me. The office will not only be kept in the Family, but the Family will keep in office. There being no further business before the meeting we will adjourn."

"But why the need of this convention?" protested the Rhinoceros.

"Well, there wasn't any particular need of it," replied the Lion, "but it is customary to call one in order to collect the expenses of nomination. Brother Giraffe, pass the hat!"

WAS NOT PAROLE STUDENT

Victim at San Quentin Had Been Discharged After Serving Sentence.

Salem, Or., June 12.—That Warden Will Hoyle, of the San Quentin penitentiary, is absolutely incorrect in his statements to the effect that Alvin Lynwood, who was shot and killed by the now notorious guard, Grubb, of the California institution, "is one of Governor West's parole students," is now affirmed by the records as they appear on the books at the penitentiary here, which show, in part:

"Lynwood was sent to the penitentiary by a decree of the circuit court of Marion county for the crime of obtaining money under false pretenses on July 14, 1910. He served his full time and was released on July 14, 1911. He lost all his merit time on account of bad behavior in the prison. He was known in Salem as 'Glen S. Burton.' He was arrested after his liberation from the Oregon prison by federal authorities on the charge of being a deserter from the army and sent to San Quentin. He was never paroled by the parole board of the Oregon institution, nor was his parole ever considered for the reason that the prisoner relinquished all rights to the consideration of a parole or pardon by bad conduct while in the prison."

After serving his time in the Oregon penitentiary, Lynwood secured a position in a logging camp at Springfield, Oregon. He soon left this location and migrated to Vancouver, where he enlisted in the navy. After serving a short time in the navy, the ex-convict eked out a living by forging checks and living off the earnings of fallen women. After passing several "phony" checks in Seattle he was apprehended and taken into custody at Vancouver as a suspect. Hearing of his arrest, and wanting him in this county on the charge of forging checks, Sheriff Harry Minto went to Vancouver and secured possession of the fugitive. Later, the federal authorities took Lynwood into custody on the charge that he was a deserter from the army, and after being taken back to Bremerton, convicted by courtmartial and sentenced he was taken to San Quentin on account of McNeill's island, the federal prison, being full and the Folsom institution being unable to accommodate him.

Prior to Lynwood's trial in this city on the charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, Mrs. G. G. Lynwood, the mother of the prisoner, requested that an examination be made as to the soundness of mind of her son. Dr. A. E. Tamiese, of this city, made the examination of the prisoner, and reported that he was not only insane, but a degenerate of the worst type, and unfit to be at large in any respect.

In an interview with Dr. Tamiese last night, he said in part: "When I examined Lynwood in the county jail at Salem he was in a very poor condition, mentally and physically. He was continually bothered with illusions, fearing attacks from imaginary enemies, holding aloof from his best friends, and, in fact, displayed symptoms of a very insane man. After reporting this investigation, I was summoned to Bremerton to testify as to the youth's sanity. I testified that he was a degenerate and an insane one at that. I learned that at one time, while the prisoner was in Bremerton, he impersonated Lieutenant Gilcore, and after engaging a fine pleasure boat, invited the Sunday school classes of the various churches of that city to join him in a grand picnic. I am convinced that Lynwood was a degenerate of the worst type, and in the first place he should not have been committed to the penitentiary. At the time of his commitment the people of Salem, acquainted with the boy's condition, thought it a pity to imprison the youth on account of his insanity and irresponsibility."
