NEWSPAPER READING FOR PROGRESS

Jonas Jackson reads the newspapers. Artemas Stubbs does not. From this mere statement can you not form mental photographs of Jonas and Artemas?

Which one would you pick for a winner?

If you were an employer, which would you hire? If a voter which would you vote for?

To say that a man reads the newspapers is a recommendation.

It proclaims that he is up to date; that he keeps in touch with what the world is thinking, saying and doing; that he has ideas, even if acquired ones; that he has at least a certain sort of culture and education; that he is alert and informed--in a word, that he keeps up with the procession.

The intelligence of a community may be judged from the amount of newspaper reading it does. America reads more newspapers than any other nation.

Who can measure the influence for progress that has been exerted by the American press? Take your home paper.

Train Saves Woman by Fighting Cougar.

That railroad trains are beneficial to the people in many different ways is the belief of Mrs. Townsend, of Carter, who is positive that the timely arrival of the Oakridge train saved her from the clutches of a big cougar that was just crouching to spring at her.

Mrs. Townsend was walking up the track, and as she was passing the big cut near Thomas Blakely's she suddenly became aware of a large cougar that was crouching in the brush near the track watching her intently, switching its tail like a cat about to spring. Just as the beast seemed to be gathering itself for a leap, the Oakridge train came roaring around the curve, and the unexpected sight frightened it, and it bounded away up the hill, disappearing in the timber.

John Hill and his pack of hounds and several of the neighbors and their dogs took the trail of the big cat and followed it all day, treeing it several times, but not getting a shot at it. It finally made its escape into a big body of timber between Winberry and Big Fall Creek. It is believed that it killed two of the dogs, as they have not yet returned.

Mrs. Townsend says that the cougar was an unusually large one, with a very long tail. She firmly believes that the prompt arrival of the train saved her life, or at least saved her from very serious injury and fright, and consequently she is a warm friend of the railroads.

Wettest Town in America.

Winthrop, Mo., said to be the "wettest" town of its size in the country, is to be limited in the number of saloons. It has 53 inhabitants, including women and children, and the county court has just issued licenses for four additional saloons.

Winthrop now has six saloons and six wholesale liquor houses. The members of the county court declare they will issue no more saloon licenses.

Winthrop is just opposite Atchison, Kans., where there are no saloons. A bridge connects the towns, and at night is nearly always crowded with persons going to Missouri to get a drink.

Mrs. Fred Wentworth and children Audrey and Dean are spending the summer here.

Miss Laura Larson of Cottage Grove is spending a few days with the Misses Mary and Ethel Powell.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bainbridge of Cottage Grove are camping near Lorane.

Monday evening Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Jackson entertained a number of their friends in honor of their daughter, Mrs. Harvey Currins. The evening was spent playing five hundred and with music and dancing.

TALES OF THE TOWN

MANY MATTERS OF MORE THAN PASSING MOMENT.

A J. Stewart returned Tuesday from an outing at Newport.

Armstrong is cleaning up his stock of photo mountings at big reductions. Better hurry or he will be cleaned out.

James Owenbury of Albany returned home Monday from a visit with Wm. Hawley at Lorane.

O. G. Gilbertson, who has been at a local hospital several weeks suffering from a smashed foot injured at the Champion mine, is able to walk around on crutches.

Alex Lundberg was down from Champion Tuesday.

Have you seen the new electric vibrator at the Sanitary Barber Shop. If W. E. Nixon, Lee Nixon, Elmer Kent and families and Har-ey Crowell left Monday for an outing at Winchester Bay.

Must move 'em during August. A lot of special mounts which I wish to discontinue carrying. Prices cut clean to pieces. Armstrong, Photographer.

Joe Darnwood was in the city this week letting folks know that crops are fine in his neighborhood.

Mr. Newlywed.—There are so many good reasons why you should carry a policy in the Western States Life Insurance Co., that to advance them all would require this entire column. Why not let me call and point some of them out to you? H. K. Metcalf, Phone 107-L.

Henry A. Woodard of Los Angeles visited relatives here a few days this week.

Buy your paints and oils from the Swengel Hardware Company. Best pure stock only.

Slash 'em! Cut 'em! Trim 'em up to a fare-you-well. That's what Armstrong is doing to special mounts which he wishes to clean up.

Cottage Grove won in the ball game at Lorane Sunday, the score being 10 to 7.

The building in the street, recently occupied by the Sanitary Barber Shop, has been torn down and removed.

J. N. Jones and B. H. Lee were in Eugene Tuesday.

A handkerchief shower was given to Mrs. F. D. Wheeler at the residence of Mrs. Compton last Thursday afternoon. Much amusement was caused by the reading of palms of the several ladies present by Mrs. Robbins, who proved a good guesser. After ice cream and cake had been served, Mrs. Wheeler asked Mrs. Wheeler to have a drink of water, producing a large pitcher full of handkerchiefs, which she proceeded to shower over her. Mrs. Wheeler thanked the ladies in her usual graceful manner. Those present were Mesdames Sutcliffe, Lewis, Job, Wheeler, C. M. Shinn, H. J. Shinn, W. Hart, H. Hart, Orpurd, Conner, Monroe, Hall, Hermon, Beager, Robbins, Abrams, Miller, Burkholder, Porter, Cook, Robbins, Brund.

Leah Perkins and Mabel Veatch gave an afternoon Saturday complimentary to Misses Allie and Flo Phillips. The time was spent in playing travel. A bowl of sweet peas was awarded to the one having the highest score. Refreshments of nut and olive sandwiches, ice tea, sherbet and margarites were served. Those invited were Misses Allie and Flo Phillips, Armored Sutcliffe, Myrtle Kem, Belle Burkholder, Audra Rinehart, Jennie Smith, Ursula Lockwood, Neita and Hazel Hazelton, Ipha and Atha Withersheim, Lillian Veatch, Blanche and Mabel Veatch, Leah Perkins, Willie McGee, Lauretta Atkinson, Mesdames Roy Smith, Chas. Adams, Armand Wynne.

The Woman's Club entertained husbands of members and a few invited guests at a picnic in the park Friday evening. Tempting viands of every kind were served. About 35 enjoyed the occasion.

Mrs. S. R. Smith gave a dinner Monday complimentary to Miss Allie Phillips and the young women who entertained her before marriage. The evening was spent in conversation.

Clinton Wilder and Miss Helen Prior were married at the home of the bride's parents Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Proir, at Rice Hill Sunday, July 28.

ADVERTISING SELLS THE PICTURES

Twelve Dozen in Three Days, Says Photographer Armstrong.

That advertising in The Sentinel gets results was proven again this week, when Photographer Armstrong, who is offering some cut rates, sold twelve dozen directly from his advertising within three day after printed. He was so well satisfied that he is making another "spludge" this week and will keep the cut rates on during the balance of the month.

Were on Titanic.

Mrs. Bessie Watts and daughter Bertha of Portland, two passengers who escaped from the Titanic, are visiting Mrs. Arthur Woolcott, also a survivor of the ill-fated ship.

Crops Never Better.

Mr. Gummage, a farmer from two miles east of Saguinaw, was in the city Tuesday and said he never saw crops better in his neighborhood than they are this year.

Grove Good Enough for Him.

J. A. Pitts has returned from the Alsea Bay country, where he went to look for a location. He now says Cottage Grove is good enough for him.

Puts in Machinery.

The Sterling Feed Co. has installed a feed chopper, feed roller and cleaner and will hereafter prepare its own feed. The machinery is operated by electricity.

Package to China 75c.

A package was sent this week to Miss Laura Hefty at Fouchow, China. The weight was nearly six pounds and the postage 75c. By express the cost would have been about $10.

Mrs. C. S. Hefty received this week a package of Chinese curios from her daughter, Miss Laura. Included in the package was a flag of the new Chinese republic.

F. D. Wheeler, called here by the sickness of his father, returned to Portland yesterday.

ASKS HUSBAND'S HEAD AND HEART

Montero's Widow Makes Request of Ecuador President.

EMBALMED AS TROPHIES.

Tells of Barbaric Cruelties Inflicted on Generals Before They Were Assassinated in Guayaquil—Senora Montero's Message Was Ignored.

Senora Eloy Alfaro, widow of the murdered ex-president of Ecuador, has thrown light upon the recent crisis through which the equatorial republic passed and tells of incidents, both pathetic and ferocious, which intimately concerned her. Probably the saddest part of her narrative is that which relates to her friend Senora Pedro Montero, wife of one of the generals who were slain in Quito the day after ex-President Alfaro was murdered in Guayaquil. The government has refused to deliver to Senora Montero the head and the heart of her husband, which have been embalmed and kept as trophies of war. She wrote asking for them, but the president has so far ignored her request.

Senora Ana Paredes de Alfaro is a native of Panama and was in Panama, the guest of relatives, when she learned of the arrest of her husband. Accompanied by her daughter and her nephew, she took the first boat for Ecuador and arrived there only to learn of the murder. Upon her arrival at Puna, where she was told of the assassinations, she was advised by the port captain not to land, warning her that it would be dangerous in the perturbed state of the country. However, dozens of friends, including the widow of General Montero, visited her on the boat, and she learned the details of the murder of Alfaro and five generals once high in power in Ecuador.

The murdered generals were subjected to frightful cruelties before being killed. Montero, the first slain, was seized by the mob, which, after cutting off his head and toping out his heart, poured kerosene upon his body and burned it. At Quito, the capital of a country where capital punishment has been abolished, the proceedings were similar. The five generals and two colonels were subjected to all manner of tortures and mutilation before being slain. De la Guardia, her nephew, says the tortures were done with the care of inventors perfecting a new mechanism. The suffering men were permitted to hear the deliberations of their captors trying to decide what additional cruelty could be perpetrated.

One of the victims, Colonel Corral, whose tongue had just been cut out, was placed upon a stand and ordered to make a speech. When the seven officers at last succumbed the mutilated bodies were targets for the rage of the populace.

The ferocity of the mob was inspired by the action of troops under General Montero, who, after he had surrendered, opened fire upon a mass of people celebrating the government's victory, killing nearly a hundred men.

De la Guardia has a copy of the articles of peace between Generals Plaza and Montero, whereby the latter and his subordinates were to receive safe conduct out of the country and all political prisoners were to be pardoned. This agreement was witnessed by Hermann Dietrich, American consul general, and Alfred Cartwright, British consul. Contrary to first reports to the effect that the defeated generals, after starting to leave Ecuador, left their ship to begin another revolution, De la Guardia asserts that they were prisoners of war all the time and that the government at Quito repudiated the treaty of peace made by Plaza, which was entered into in good faith by both parties.

Senora Montero's message to Quito, which the president ignored, was as follows:

"Sacred duty to my husband obliges me to ask you to order delivery of the head and heart of my husband, General Pedro Montero, which exist as trophies of the power of the army of General Plaza, cowardly and treacherously assassinated."

In many sections of the northern states where the apple trees are likely to produce new wood so late in the season that it runs the risk of being injured by the fall freezes it is well to stop cultivation about the 15th of July and sow some cover crop which will absorb the surplus moisture that the soil may contain. For this purpose vetch or oats and buckwheat may be used. The former has a trifling advantage over the latter combination in that it will continue to grow after the first frosts and, being a legume, enriches the soil through its root systems.

An interesting illustration of how brains can be turned into cash by the energetic and wide awake young man is presented in the case of a farm lad of seventeen years living in South Dakota. While his daily work would not seem calculated to make him expend gray matter on the handling of postage stamps, he has nevertheless invented a stamp canceling device for which he has been offered $20,000, while financiers who have heard of it have offered to spend large sums of money in plants for its manufacture. This boy has been summoned to Washington to exhibit his patent before the postal authorities.
