

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

Local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear, here is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. When this tube is inflated with a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever, almost out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by our Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

The Coming Parcels Post.

A direct sale of his light products by the farmer to the city consumer is expected to be brought about to a considerable extent by the new parcels post. Such a business is on a practical basis in Germany and England.

The English farm papers are full of advertisements from the farmers who want to send in chickens, hams, bacon, honey, vegetables and eggs by mail, fresh to one or more city families.

The Germans have reduced the traffic to a system, where the nature and cost of good packages have been worked out. Butter is sent in a pasteboard box that holds nine one-pound packages and weighs in all ten pounds. Each pound is separately wrapped in parchment paper. These boxes are sold in Germany knocked down for $23.20 per 1,000 for first, and $21.42 for second quality, and can be used again and again.

Pasteboard egg boxes, containing partitions for ten eggs are sold at $45.22 per 1,000, and boxes for 24 eggs for $71.04 per 1,000. For larger numbers either strong card board or wooden boxes are used.—Oregon Journal.

University Grows Despite Handicaps.

Registrar Tiffany has given out figures which disclose the fact that Oregon's enrollment has not declined as is generally supposed, but rather displays a small increase over the same date last year. The present enrollment is 608 as compared to 593 last year. This is an increase of 15, approximately the same as last year's increase over preceding year. The total enrollment two years ago being 652 while that of last year was 669. It is expected that this year's enrollment will reach 700.

Librarian Douglas when informed of the comparative figures, expressed himself as agreeably surprised. He said: "It is a wonder that there has been any increase considering the support this institution has had. It is the consensus of opinion that if the millage bill passes Oregon will at once forge ahead and a marked increase will be noticeable the second semester."

The County Division Bill

Review by Oregon Journal.

The following review of the County Division Bill, placed on the ballot by Cottage Grove, appeared in a recent issue of the Oregon Journal. It is a fair, impartial review from an unprejudiced source and is here published as more effective than an opinion from a local source.

A general law, under which future county division fights would be settled by the people of the territory interested, instead of being carried into the legislature or voted on under the initiative in the state at large, is the object of a bill to be submitted to the voters in November.

The bill provides that new counties may be formed from one or more old counties, but counties from which territory is taken must be left with an area of not less than 500 square miles (Multnomah has 429 square miles and Clackamas 1861), shall be left with a population of at least $2,000, and an assessed valuation of at least $2,000,000. New counties must conform to these same requirements as to area, population and valuation of property.

Voters to Sign Petition.

Proceedings for a new county may be started, it is provided, by a petition of 30 per cent of the legal voters residing within its limits, who must deposit with the state such sum as the governor may estimate is necessary to pay expenses of the proceedings. The petition must designate the temporary county seat and general information concerning it. For four weeks before the petition is filed notice must be published in two newspapers in the territory concerned.

Thirty days after the filing the governor is required to appoint three commissioners, one a surveyor and engineer, and none of whom shall be residents of either old or new county or interested in either. This commission is required to hold public hearings of those favoring and opposing the new county, and after investigation to file a report giving its conclusions. If the report is adverse, the project dies.

The commission may recommend boundary lines for the new county differing from those outlined in the petition, using its own discretion. Within 15 days after receiving a favorable report, the governor must order an election to take place within 60 days, unless such time would fall within three months of a general election.

Governor to Name Temporary Officers.

Sixty per cent of the voters within the proposed new county are required to create it. The decision is left solely to the territory selected, with no vote in the old county or counties from which the new county is taken. Temporary officers of a new county are to be appointed by the governor to serve until an election is held. Questions as to division of county property, funds, liabilities, assets and all other adjustments between old and new counties is placed in the hands of an arbitration board, consisting of one person appointed by the county court of the new county, another by the county court of the old county, and a third to be named by the governor, who shall be a circuit judge of some district not concerned in the matter. The decision of this board is made final.

The expense of creating the new county, advanced by the petitioners, is to be repaid if the county is formed. If the project fails, the petitioners are out the money they have advanced. The commissioners appointed by the governor to pass on the proposal are to be paid $7.50 per day for actual time, and expenses, and the pay of each county arbitrator is to be fixed and paid by the county appointing him. The circuit judge, who serves as chairman of the arbitration board, receives no additional pay.

Argument Is Given.

Advocates of this bill argue that it offers an equitable method of forming new counties, on the one hand relieving the state at large from the task of passing on county division fights, when proposed by the initiative and on the other preventing the injection of such measures before the legislature, where bitter feeling may be aroused and other legislation prejudicially affected by log rolling and sectional discord.

It is asserted that interests of both old and new counties are properly safeguarded by the commission idea, the plan contemplating three disinterested persons to pass on each division scheme first of all. Their veto kills the project. If they find, on investigation, that the petitioners in fixing the boundary lines have been unfair to existing counties they have authority to rearrange the lines and submit a more equitable plan to the vote of the people directly concerned.

These provisions, it is contended, supplemented by the limitations as to area, population and assessment, will prevent any new county being formed in a spiteful or factional spirit, and will insure capacity for self-support. The 60 per cent favorable vote required will prevent a bare majority from forcing division.

Negative View Quoted.

At the election of 1910 nine county division schemes were on the general ballot, and all were defeated. At the coming election only one new county is to be voted on. In 1910 the verdict of the people plainly indicated some annoyance over the submission of so many county division schemes, but a large sum of money was spent by those favoring and opposing them.

At the same election a bill was defeated for a general law on the subject, somewhat resembling the one under discussion. The important differences were that the plan then defeated permitted a bare majority of the voters within a proposed new county to create it, and it lacked the added subject of consolidation of cities and towns.

One argument on the negative side as to the present measure is that too much power is placed in the hands of the governor, as he names three commissioners to pass on a new county project in the first instance and has power to fix the sum to be deposited to pay the expenses of election.

Again, it has been argued that a population of 2,000 and assessed valuation of $2,000,000 are not sufficient requirements for a county undertaking the burden of government, where it may have to assume a proportion of debt from the parent county or counties, build a court house and take up the maintenance of roads. But under the state constitution, the only provision at present dealing with the construction of new counties, they may be formed with only 1,200 population.

Burden Called Too Great.

The requirement for a deposit in advance of the expense of an election to cover that expense imposes too great a burden on the proponents of a new county, it has been said. In reply it is pointed out that the policy of the state should be to have such proposals considered only when they have merit, and that this requirement will prevent the filing of petitions not in good faith.

By some it is contended that the people of a county from which territory is to be detached or a new county subtracted should be admitted to a vote in some way in forming the new county. It has been suggested that 20 or 30 per cent should favor the new county in the old county, because of the taxing interests involved. On the other hand, it is declared unfair to the proposed new county to make its formation dependent on votes in territory where it would naturally encounter hostile sentiment, irrespective of the merits of its claims.

WORDS FROM HOME

Statements That May Be Investigated. Testimony of Cottage Grove Citizens.

When a Cottage Grove citizen comes to the front, telling his friends and neighbors of his experience, you can rely on his sincerity. The statements of people residing in far away places do not command your confidence. Home endorsement is the kind that backs Doan's Kidney Pills. Such testimony is convincing. Investigation proves it true. Below is a statement of a Cottage Grove resident. No stronger proof of merit can be had.

Mrs. J. H. Shortridge, Cottage Grove, Ore., says: "Since I publicly recommended Doan's Kidney Pills two years ago, I have taken them off and on and they have always benefited me. I was all run down from kidney and bladder trouble and often my back was so weak and lame that I could hardly get around. I had headaches and the kidney secretions annoyed me. After I had taken a number of remedies without benefit, I was told about Doan's Kidney Pills and deciding to try them, I procured a supply at Benson's Drug Store. The contents of three boxes improved my condition in every way. I have often told other persons how effective Doan's Kidney Pills are in cases of kidney complaint."
