TAKE IT IN TIME

Just as Scores of Cottage Grove People Have.

Waiting doesn't pay. If you neglect kidney backache, Urinary troubles often follow. Act in time by curing the kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills are especially for weakened kidneys. Many people in this locality recommend them.

Here's one case:

L. Booney, 459 Olive St, Eugene, Ore., says: "The public statement I gave in 1906 recommending Doan's Kidney Pills still holds good. I know this remedy to be a good one for kidney disorders and I am glad to recommend it. Kidney complaint clung to me for ten years, being caused by a fall and heavy lifting. I consulted one physician after another and experimented with remedies of all kinds but my efforts for relief were unavailing. The doctors finally said that I had lumbago and they held out no hope for my recovery. If I attempted to lift, my back gave out and the pain was terrible. One day I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised and deciding to try them I procured a supply. They gave me so much relief that I continued using them and it was not long before I was feeling like a different man. Doan's Kidney Pills simply worked wonders in my case and I shall do all in my power to make their merits known."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

WOULD BE SWEEPING

Bills Against Picketing and Street Speaking Are Too Restrictive.

Through the efforts of the Employers' Association of Oregon, initiative bills are to be voted on Nov. 5th prohibiting boycotting, picketing of any place of business, persuading of employees to quit work, or the holding of public meetings in streets, parks or public grounds in cities of 5,000 population or over, without written permit from the mayor.

These measures have provoked the bitter opposition of the Central Labor Council of Portland. It is asserted that these bills are an infringement of the right of free speech and of rights of labor generally recognized by the courts.

The first measure, relating to boycott and picketing, is here given in full, except as to the section fixing the penalty:

Provisions of the Bill.

"All persons, associations, or combinations of associations, or societies, and others, are hereby prohibited from combining or conspiring together for the purpose of a boycott of any industry, workshop, store, or other place of business, or the business of any person, firm, or corporation engaged in any lawful enterprise, and that it shall be unlawful and illegal for any person, or persons, associations, or combinations of associations, or societies, or others, to picket, or attempt to boycott any industry, workshop, store, place of business, or factory, or any lawful business, or enterprise engaged in by any person, firms, or corporations, and it shall be illegal and unlawful for any person, or persons, association, or combination of associations, or societies, or others, to picket or attempt to picket any place of business, industry, factory, store, or workshop, or any place where a lawful business, or enterprise is carried on by any person, firm, or corporation or to attempt to persuade or entice any workman or person working therein from continuing in the employ of any operator or owner of such place of business, factory, store, or wherever any lawful business is carried on by any person, firm, or corporation, and it shall be illegal and unlawful for any person, or persons, associations, or combination of associations, or societies, or others to combine or conspire together to injure the business of any operator or owner of any business, factory, store, workshop, industry, or any lawful business carried on by any person, firm, or corporation, by means of any boycott, or picketing, or inducing, or attempting to induce the employees of such owner or operator, person, firm, or corporation of any business, factory store, workshop, or enterprise, to cease working for such employer."

Effect Would be Sweeping.

It will be noted that the first clause of the act and the last clause relate to combinations and conspiracies, the first to the boycott and the second to picketing.

ing and persuasion of employees. The intervening clauses are more sweeping, and do not require the conspiracy element to fix the guilt on any person who "pickets or attempts to boycott," or any "attempt to persuade or entice any workman or person working therein from continuing in the employ of any operator or owner."

The effect of the bill makes it a misdemeanor for any person to agree with other persons not to patronize a particular place of business, or to urge others not to patronize any shop, store or factory. It declares any one who pickets or attempts to picket a place of business guilty of a misdemeanor, and anyone is subject to fine or imprisonment who "attempts to persuade or entice any workman" to discontinue his or her employment.

In this connection it is important to note that no element of threat, force or intimidation is introduced. It would become unlawful for any person to ask another to quit work in a union shop, or to endeavor to influence him by argument, peaceful or otherwise.

Those who favor this act defend this provision by the declaration that it is practically impossible to distinguish between "peaceful persuasion" and the use of threats and intimidation, because picketing or persuasion of any sort carries with it an element of intimidation, and there is only a shadowy line between asking a man to quit work and threatening him with some sort of reprisal if he fails to observe the request.

The argument also proceeds on the theory that any corporation or man in business has a right to employ labor as he pleases, and to be protected from the interference of those not in his employ. In this view, picketing and persuasion constitute unwarranted interference, leading to possible disorder and public excitement.

Argument on the other side is directed to the reverse proposition, that any law restricting a man's right to talk with and advise another is contrary to the personal liberty of the individual and further contrary to good morals. It is contended that the Mitchell and Gompers cases the courts have upheld the right to boycott and to strike, and a boycott or strike necessarily includes the right of combination with fellow workmen in the same general object.

Bar to Remonstrance.

Particular emphasis is placed upon that part of the proposed law that would do away with peaceful picketing, without respect to the use of violence or intimidation. It would prevent the carrying of "unfair" signs, the holding of meetings in furtherance of a strike or boycott, or the requesting of one person by another to quit patronizing any place of business.

The Central Labor council declares that to balance the conditions of this act, if laboring men are to be dealt with fairly, there should be a law against blacklisting employees and boycotting of men who are discharged or go on strike.

The second measure proposed by the Employers' association provides that no public meetings shall be held in cities of 5,000 population or over on the public streets, parks or public grounds except upon written permit from the mayor.

At all seasons of the year Portland has street meetings, some of religious and some of political character. These are particularly abundant in campaign times. Socialist, single tax, woman suffrage and candidate's meetings are particularly frequent, besides the Salvation Army and other religious propaganda.

Would Prevent Radical Talk.

The bill is partly the outgrowth of the I. W. W. meetings in Portland and other cities, when language both incendiary and indecent is alleged to have been used by street speakers.

It is argued that in this way a city can protect itself from wandering speakers who abuse the privileges of free speech. Those refused a permit are not prohibited from hiring a hall. Thus, while Emma Goldman might be refused a permit to talk on the street, it is pointed out, those interested in her talk could go to a hall to hear her.

End of Free Speech.

On the other side it is argued that any system requiring a permit from an official is not free speech, as the official has authority to refuse permission and might abuse this discretion. It is argued that when streets are not needed for traffic they should be open to any speaker who chooses to address his fellowmen, as the streets belong to the public, and suppression of free discussion would only add to discontent.

In opposition it is contended that if the object is to prohibit street speaking generally, including the religious, it is based on wrong principles, and that if the object be to favor certain speakers over others it is unjust. Power of this sort over public expression, it is declared, should not rest with the mayor of a city. Great movements, it is argued, have always grown from men who were denounced and bitterly opposed as agitators by those in power.

Shall The Flag Continue to Wave?

The readers of this paper do not dream that there is a concerted effort to pull down our flag and raise the red rag of anarchy in its place, but nightly on the streets of Portland such steps are advocated. Women and children are insulted and forced to go blocks out of their way to avoid these foul-mouthed transient tramps. Help eliminate them by voting No. 370. See Voters' Pamphlet.
