EDITORS WILL MEET AT U.

President of State Press Association Suggests Co-operation With Department of Journalism.

Col. E. Hofer, of Salem, president of the State Press Association, in answering a letter applying for membership written by E. W. Allen, head of the new department of journalism at the University, writes as follows:

"I tried to find you on Oregon Electric day but could not run across you anywhere. I am planning holding a district meeting of newspapermen at Eugene soon, when Mr. Bates (Phil S. Bates, secretary of the association) and I will be there. Our plan is to select some central place and invite the newspapermen for 25 or 50 miles around to come together, get acquainted and have some addresses on journalism, increase the membership of our state organization and promote better ideals of journalism. We should be glad to hold a conference in connection with your department if it is agreeable."

Prof. Allen's reply was that nothing would please the University more than to have the newspapermen make use of the University's facilities. All editors and other professional workers are welcome at all times and it is the policy of the department to bring the students into frequent touch with men in the native field. It is hoped here that Col. Hofer will soon name a definite date, and that the University may prepare to receive a large delegation.

RAISES MANY EQUINES

Valuable Statistics on Pure Bred and Grade Horses.

That there are 609 pure bred stallions, 254 grades, 172 mongrels and 89 jacks licensed for service in the state of Oregon is a fact not generally known. Statistics on the horse raising business are given in the first annual report of the Stallion Registration Board of which Prof. E. L. Potter of the Oregon Agricultural College is secretary. The report is just off the press.

There are 250 pure bred Percherons, of which 17 have side bone, 4 bog spavin, 7 roaring, 2 curb and 1 string halt. Of the 103 Belgians 7 have side bone, 3 roaring and 1 curb. The 2 thoroughbreds, 2 saddle horses, 7 Morgans, 2 Cleveland Bays, 5 Hackneys, 3 French Coaches and 5 Suffolks are all sound, showing none of these disorders. The 56 Shires show but 2 with side bone and 4 with roaring; the 37 Clydesdales but 1 with bone spavin; and the 21 French Draft horses but 1 with bog spavin. Out of the 66 registered as Standard bred, 1 has side bone, 1 bog spavin, 1 bone spavin, 1 roaring and 2 curb. There are 50 German Coach horses, of which 2 have side bone, 2 roaring, and 1 ringbone.

Among the grades there is a vast preponderance of Percherons. Out of the 105 there are 6 with side bone, 2 with bone spavin, 4 with bog spavin, 1 with roaring and 1 with string halt. The Standard bred comes next in number among the grades, as there are 478; the Clydesdales number 322; Shires 24; Belgians 17; German Coach 9; French Draft 7; thoroughbreds 6; Morgans 3; American saddle horses 2; Cleveland Bay and French Coach 1 each.

Mongrel jacks are more numerous than the pure bred or grade. There are 67 of them, to 16 pure bred and 6 grades. Of the total of 1,124 registered animals, 102 are unsound. Side bone is most common, affecting 46; roaring second, showing 22 cases; bog spavin 13; bone spavin 13; bone spavin and curb 8 each; ringbone 3; string halt 2; and moon blindness 1.

Capitalist to Improve Agriculture.

Martin Winch, a well known Portland capitalist, proposes to do his part in encouraging good farming in this state and benefiting the agriculturist. He and a few associates will conduct a model farm near the metropolis, principally for purposes of demonstration. This object-lesson farm will be managed according to the best and latest methods without thought of making anything more than running expenses. It will be a show place, calculated to give instruction to farmers.

The co-operation of Luther Burbank, the plant wizard, has been secured and the fullest encouragement from the Oregon Agricultural College is expected. It will supplement the work of that institution. The farm will demonstrate farming in all its branches, including agriculture, horticulture, dairying, livestock breeding and even floriculture.

Troublesome Election Ruling.

A recent state supreme court ruling in barring a candidate from a place on the ballot if he is enrolled under the name of another party was one of the most discussed issues of the closing of the Michigan campaign. Several progressive candidates who enrolled before the new party was formed neglected to change their enrollment. The ballots bearing their names were printed and if they are elected it is expected their election will be contested in the courts.

FARMERS DESIRE TO LEARN

There is an increased demand for short course instruction by farmers' clubs. This demand seems to come from practically all the states where there has been effort made to interest the farmer and the farmer's boy. The interest taken by some county school superintendents has aroused a sentiment for the short course.

The farmer's institute has also been a prolific source of stirring up a desire for the short course to be held in various communities in the nature of lectures on crops, live stock, dairying, horticulture, etc. This system of agricultural instruction going to the farmer in his own home or school district, is the best evidence of sincerity in his work and at once enlists the sympathy of the person of little faith in his work. The present plan of demonstration by going to the farmer and instructing him how to do his work, is the key to rapid improvement in better methods of farming.

There is no feature of organization that can equal the county school superintendent when in touch with his work. The teachers of a county have practically the control of the boys and girls, and the boys and girls have control of the parents and can influence to any reasonable degree, in carrying into effect a good attendance at the short course instructions or lectures that the superintendent may plan to arrange for. County school superintendents should be interested in agriculture and agricultural instruction.—The Twentieth Century Farmer.

This year the farmers' week at the Oregon Agricultural College, which has hitherto always preceded or followed the winter short course immediately, is to be held Dec. 9-14, and the short course Jan. 6-Feb. 7. The change was made because it was found that Oregon farmers can leave their home duties more easily at that time, just before Christmas, than at any other. It is manifestly impossible to place the full short course of four weeks (besides the farmers' week) at that season, since none would care to be away from home at either Thanksgiving or Christmas time.

Like the short course, the farmers' week is crowded full of lectures and practical demonstrations calculated to solve the daily problems of farm life. Dairying, fruit growing, truck gardening, stock raising, the use and care of farm machinery, farm use of concrete, soils and crop rotations, drainage and irrigation, and a vast number of similar topics of vital interest to the man who is getting his living off his acres, are included in the program.

Death Claims Capt. Cox.

After but a few days' illness, Capt. W. A. Cox, one of the first navigators to enter the Siuslaw, died at his home in Florence Saturday.

Capain Cox was the son of a Nova Scotia shipbuilder and was born in 1831. His early life was spent sailing the Great Lakes at which time he gained the title of captain. From the lakes he moved west, locating in California during the year 1875. He at once entered into the seafaring life on the Pacific as captain of a coaster and soon became the owner of a ship.

During the year 1875 he moved with his family to Acme, on the Siuslaw. He gave the land for the first two mill sites on the Siuslaw river. During the early 80's he moved to Florence.

Within a 15 mile circle around IMPERIAL there are now several hundred prosperous farmers raising enormous crops of wheat, rye, barley, oats, potatoes, vegetables, etc. Poultry raising is also highly successful.

Three large stock ranches, owning several thousand horses and cattle are also in this circle.

IMPERIAL is now the trading point and will soon be the shipping point (the railroads are now building) for the products from thousands of acres surrounding it.

A Song from the Kitchen

Ah—there's music for you. Stretched out in an easy chair with another good day's work behind you; dead-tired; hungry as a bear; patiently waitin' for supper-time. Then Mary's voice comes floatin' in from the kitchen—dear, devoted, faithful Mary—singing as she works, with the tea-kettle joining in on the chorus.

Sort of adds zest to the meal, don't it? Whets a man's appetite—makes him feel glad he's living—and happy, to think that "the little woman in the kitchen" doesn't have to slave away like some fellows' wives. It's the

that has brought it all about—the honest, handsome, reliable Estate, with its dozen distinct and important improvements, and its cooking conveniences that you may never even have thought of. There's no drudgery in this kind of cooking; baking becomes the best of fun.

Ask Mary, or any of your neighbors who "owns an Estate," and you'll come a-running to our store. Glad to see you—any time.
