Deaf Mute Baron Leaves Bills

Richard Mansfield, the deaf mute who worked at the Eugene hospital and claimed some time since to have fallen heir to a large estate at Berne, Switzerland, and who claimed to have been lost from his relatives for years, has taken French leave. There are a number of creditors who mourn his departure. Doctor Kuykendall, owner of the hospital, stated that a few days ago J. U. Simpson, a former guard at the penitentiary at Salem, met Mansfield on the street and recognized him as an ex-convict who had probably been paroled. It is thought that this recognition may have hurried the baron in his sudden exit. Dr. Kuykendall believes his deafness was not simulated, but was genuine, but that the fellow had the mind of a child.

Sheriff Bown Goes for Plummer.
Sheriff Harry L. Bown left Eugene Saturday for Salem to obtain requisition papers for Bert Plummer, a youth whose home is in Eugene, and who was arrested in Milwaukee, Wis., Wednesday, charged with forging the name of his employer, W. J. Cook, to two checks aggregating about $1,300, and cashing them at the Eugene Loan and Savings bank just before leaving. The forgery of Mr. Cook's name was very clever and it was not discovered that the checks were spurious till Mr. Cook balanced his bank book. Sheriff Bown will leave Salem for Milwaukee as soon as he gets the requisition papers to bring Plummer here for trial.

Dynamite on Track.

Eugene Register: A stick of 20 per cent strength dynamite was picked up on the Southern Pacific track near High street Sunday, a short time before the southbound passenger train was due. The explosive was found lying within an inch or two of the rail by James Henehan, foreman for the Oregon Electric company. The case was turned over to Detective L. Bonney. According to Henehan, the stick was from a fresh box or else had been thawed out ready for use. It had been placed on or near the outer rail of the curve, presumably with the intention of derailing the train.
