SUFFRAGE IS PROCLAIMED

Mrs. Duniway Closes 41-Year Fight By Signing With Governor
Portland.—Below the name of Governor West upon the proclamation that makes equal suffrage effective in Oregon, the counter-signature of Mrs. Duniway, written by her, was her final word in a campaign that has been carried on by her indomitably for more than 41 years.

"There," she said, as she laid down the pen and the Governor bent over her shoulder to place the blotter upon the signature; "it's a fact at last." The proclamation was written by Mrs. Duniway herself at Governor West's suggestion and, with the exception of his signature and the attesting signature of Secretary of State Olcott, every line upon the parchment was made by her pen. Before signing the document Governor West had her fill out the blanks for numbers and dates, so the proclamation might uniformly be representative of her work.

WILSON POSTPONES HIS INAUGURATION

Hamilton, Bermuda. — President-elect Wilson announced that though he would agree to being sworn in as president on March 4, as provided by the constitution as the beginning of a presidential term, the main inaugural ceremonies would be postponed until Thursday, April 24, because of the notoriously bad weather that prevails in Washington during early March. As his reason for making the proposed change, Governor Wilson gave the health of those participating to the inaugural ceremonies. He said that in nearly every instance the weather had been inclement on the occasion of the induction of presidents into office. By his announcement of postponement of the inaugural ceremony, Governor Wilson has changed a custom that has been traditional since the second induction of Washington. The first president, on his first election, took the oath in New York, on April 30, but the second time he took up his duties in Washington, on March 4, and every president since that time has followed the custom.

COURT SPLITS BIG HARRIMAN MERGER

Anti-Trust Law Held to Be Violated By Combination of Two Roads.

Washington.—The great Harriman merger, created when the Union Pacific Railroad company bought 46 per cent of the stock of the Southern Pacific system, was split by the supreme court of the United States as a violation of the Sherman anti-trust law. Then, with the end of the merger before it, the court sent forth its portentous declaration that "while the law may not be able to enforce competition, it can reach combinations which render competition impracticable."

The court in substance decided that the roads were competitors and that it was just as much a violation of the law for one road to buy the controlling stock of a competitor as it was for a holding company, as in the Northern Securities case, to buy the controlling stock of two competing companies.

The circuit court for the district of Utah was directed to supervise the separation of the two roads after hearings and in emergency to appoint a receiver to sell the stock. The Union Pacific, if the circuit court sees proper, may retain control of the old Central Pacific line from Ogden to San Francisco.

It is the general belief here that the application of the decision to the rail road situation of the country will be widespread, placing a powerful precedent in the hands of the attorney-general to prevent the consolidation of competing roads.

The government's fight against the Union Pacific merger began in 1908. The case was built largely around the purchase by the Union Pacific railroad company in 1901 and 1902 of 46 per cent of the stock of the Southern Pacific company, referred to as ordinarily a controlling interest.

O'NEIL JURY DISAGREES

Mistrial Results in Case Involving Prominent Idaho Men
Coeur d'Alene, Idaho.—The jury in the case of the state of Idaho against Barney F. O'Neil, charged with making a false report of the condition of the State Bank of Commerce, now in the hands of a receiver, failed to agree on a verdict and were discharged. The case has been on trial for three weeks and came here on change of venue from Wallace.

The jury at first stood 7 to 5 for conviction and finally reached 10 to 2, but could not get further. O'Neil was president of the bank. He has been state senator, chairman of the republican state central committee and was a candidate for governor two years ago, but was beaten by James H. Brady, then governor, by a small majority.

First Cash Deficit Since 1908

New York.—For the first time since January 4, 1908, the bank statement Saturday showed an actual deficit in the cash reserve of the associated institutions of $5,057,950. It was declared that this deficit was due entirely to the demand for money to move the bumper crops of the present year and will soon be made up.

ARMISTICE TO STOP WAR OPERATIONS

London.—The terms of the armistice which will be signed in a few days, according to reports from Constantinople, provide that the armies shall remain in their present position and cease trenching, reinforcing or bringing up ammunition. Adrianople and Scutari shall not be evacuated, but their garrisons shall receive rations daily sufficient for one day. Bulgaria is willing that Adrianople shall remain Turkish, providing Turkey will pay an indemnity of $250,000,000.

It is expected the armistice will extend for about a fortnight if necessary and cover the whole field of operations. The difficulty with respect to the beleaguered garrisons of Adrianople and Scutari is being surmounted by permitting them to receive daily rations during the armistice. The plenipotentiaries appear to have been concerned so far solely in arranging armistice, but the peace conference is expected to begin immediately, probably at Sofia.

As Bulgaria already has shown greater forbearance than has been looked for in warring her demand for the surrender of Adrianople, while at the same time Turkey cannot hope to obtain better conditions by continuing the struggle, a strong feeling is entertained that the last shot in the war will have been fired when the armistice is signed.

LAST SESSION OF 62ND CONGRESS

Will be Devoted Largely to Appropriation Bills, With Little Constructive Legislation.

Washington.—The final session of the sixty-second congress began at noon Monday. Following custom, both houses adjourned soon after convening out of respect to those members who have died during the recess. The president's message, which was devoted largely to a discussion of our foreign relations, was received Tuesday.

The session will expire by limitation March 4th and it is predicted that the work will be confined almost entirely to the passage of appropriation bills and other business of a routine character.

It is apparent to experienced members that such big questions as the tariff, the trusts and the currency problem will go over to the next congress.

Appropriations Will Be Large
There are more than a dozen big appropriation bills to engage the attention of the session. In this short time more than $1,000,000,000 must be appropriated, for this country is now regarded as a billion dollar institution.

Two of the annual budgets probably will be ready in a few days, the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill and the District of Columbia bill. These, possibly, will be passed by the house and sent over to the senate before the Christmas adjournment. The naval, military, post-office, Indian, fortifications, diplomatic, pensions and minor budgets must be passed in January and February.

"Money Trust" Inquiry Resumed
It is anticipated that the house committee on banking and currency will continue its investigation of the "money trust" and may make a tentative draft of bills to amend the currency laws. It is not expected, however, that any effort will be made to enact these into laws during the short session, and the committee, in effect, will mark time until the change of administration.

The judiciary committee of the house will be largely concerned with the impeachment proceedings against Judge Robert W. Archbald, of the commerce court, which are now pending before the senate and which will be taken up early in December. This will prohibit the immediate consideration by the house judiciary committee of the trust question which is prominent, now, in the minds of democrats. Amendments to the Sherman law probably will await the convening of the new congress, although sporadic hearings may be held by the judiciary committee during the lull in the Archbald impeachment trial.

Archbald Trial Will Engage Senate
The Archbald trial will probably engage the attention of the senate for several weeks and this, together with the annual appropriation bills, will fully occupy the time and attention of the upper chamber until March 4.

The prospects are that the majority of the committees of the house and senate will mark time during the months of December, January and February and that no important legislative matters—other than the supply bills—will be seriously considered. The final session of the sixty-second congress, in all probability, will consider its task well performed after having appropriated more than $1,000,000,000 and will leave to a democratic president and a new congress the great problem of handling the tariff, and trusts and the currency question.

National Capital Brevities

The state department has ordered an investigation of the recent report that the Toyo Kisen Kaisha steamship company is obtaining options on lands at Honolulu and plans to erect a plant of 100,000 tons capacity.

The first bill offered in the house was to pension former presidents of the United States and their widows. It was by Representative De Forest of New York, and would provide for a former president $2000 a month. A widow of a former president would receive $1000 a month during her widowhood.

Appropriations of nearly $200,000,000 for pensions to veterans of American wars will be necessary at the short session of congress. The unusual sum, exceeding all appropriations of former years, is necessary to make up a deficit of nearly $20,000,000, resulting from the increase of pensions under the Sherwood law of last summer.

Complete returns on the congressional election show conclusively that the recognized minority party in the sixty-third congress will have to be the republican party. The returns show that among the minority members of the house, 128 were elected as republicans and only 15 as "progressives." The senate will have four "progressives" only.
