Man Coughs and Breaks Ribs.

After a frightful coughing spell a man in Neenah, Wis., felt terrible pains in his side and his doctor found two ribs had been broken. What agony Dr. King's New Discovery would have saved him. A few teaspoonful end a late cough, while persistent use routs obstinate coughs, expels stubborn colds or heals weak, sore lungs. "I feel sure it's a God-send to humanity," writes Mrs. Effie Morton, Columbia, Mo. "for I believe I would have consumption today, if I had not used this great remedy." Its guaranteed to satisfy, and you can get a free trial bottle or 50-cent or $1.00 size at all druggists.

Pure White—It Raises Easily

There is no better raising Flour than Pure White, which means that it raises the lightest and finest bread, full of nutrition and satisfaction. The housewife who has hitherto had trouble with her baking should try this Flour once, and note the great difference in her bread, rolls and pastry. Although of the very highest quality it costs no more than common Flours. $1.25 per sack.

A Wonder-Book About the Columbia and Its Mountains.

"The Guardians of the Columbia," the new book by John H. Williams, has already been pronounced by experts to be the most beautiful volume ever published about the west. It describes the Columbia River and its snow capped guardian peaks, Mounts Hood, St. Helens and Adams; and it does justice to the subject.

The Oregonian, in an editorial, calls the book "both a delight to the lover of nature's grandeur and a service to the whole Columbia River country" and it declares the text "of as high order as the illustrations." In every way this fascinating volume is a book to own, to read and to send to your friends.

"The Guardians of the Columbia," by John H. Williams, Tacoma, Wash., published by the author. Cloth $1.66 postpaid; paper covers, 83 cents postpaid. J. K. Gill Co., Portland, distributors for Oregon.

SACRIFICE OF SHEEP SENSELESS

Profit To Be Made Even With Large
Cut in Protective Tariff.

The Great Northern Railway has issued the following bulletin:

When the Democrats came into power in 1893, they were pledged to reduce the tariff on wool. No sooner was this fact generally known than the prices paid for sheep fell rapidly. This fall in price was further accentuated by the general depression which prevailed. The outcome was a wholesale sacrifice of many of the flocks in the United States, not only on the ranges, but also on the arable farms. Some flocks on the farm were sold at $1.00 per head, and in but few instances did mature sheep net to the owners more than $1.50 per head. Such low prices would not have been reached but for the fact that the markets for mutton, for the time being, became glutted because of the very large numbers that were dumped upon them within a short time.

The wholesale sacrifice of flocks at that time was peculiarly unfortunate. Those who did not sell, reaped a splendid harvest within the next few years, because of the prices which followed. The sacrifice of sheep at the time was based upon an incorrect idea. That idea was that the wool produced by sheep was so important a factor, that unless a relatively good price was paid for the wool, sheep could not be kept at a profit. That view was not correct then, nor is it correct now.

Even when wool values were at the lowest in those days, some profit could have been obtained from sheep, providing the industry were handled in the best way. It is generally conceded that the food consumed by a sheep on the arable farm will be paid for by the wool produced. This is probably true, when it is considered that sheep gather much of their food from weeds that would otherwise harm, and from grasses that would otherwise remain uneaten. Such being the case, the lamb produced by a ewe, less the food consumed by the lamb, will represent the profit. An ewe will produce about seven pounds of wool. Now assume that the average price of wool is 20 cents and that the price should be cut in two by a reduced tariff. There would still be the lamb to the good, less the cost of its food, with 70 cents added to the cost. These two items would not amount to more than $1.70. The average value of a lamb at the present time on the farm, when six months old, is not less than say $3.50. The profit therefore, at the present time is very substantial, even though there should be a great reduction in the tariff on wool, or should it be removed; but of course the profit that would otherwise come to the flockmaster will be reduced by the extent of the reduction of the tariff.

If the owner of the sheep on the range maintains large numbers of wethers in his flock from year to year, he will suffer much more from a reduction in the duty on wool than the man whose holdings consist entirely of ewes and lambs, along with such stock rams as may be necessary. The wether will only give a return in the fleece from year to year, whereas the ewes will produce a fleece and also a lamb.

The Democrats are again in power, and it is a forgone conclusion that there will be a marked reduction in the duties on wool. Even so, it would be a mistake to reduce the flocks, much more, to part with them. The prices of all kinds of meats are soaring, and they are going to soar for years to come. This means that the mutton produced by sheep will bring in so good a return, that in the face of a cut in wool values, the flockmaster will make good money from his sheep. Let it be clearly understood that this discussion is not intended to have any bearing on political questions, but to show that sheep ought not to be sacrificed because of any reduction that may be made in the wool duties.

COLLEGE GIRLS KEEN

"The initiative and referendum in Oregon," was the subject of an address given recently by Hon. Allen H. Eaton before the Agora Club, an association of college women organized for citizenship study and practical work in sociology.

Mr. Eaton's address was listened to by a large and keenly interested gathering. Commenting upon the meeting later, Mr. Eaton said:

"I found the audience inspiring, and I was pleased and surprised at the intelligence of the questions that were asked. Not one went wild. Everyone was pertinent and showed unusual acquaintance with both the theory and the facts. The university women were one of the keenest audiences I've ever addressed."

The women of the club have about them an air of determination and earnestness that seems to indicate a purpose to make the best use of their new political rights.
