GROVE STREETS ARE MUCH IMPROVED

 tion of a bungalow that will be a dream of the builders' art and contain inside finishing never before used in the West.
 The W. S. A. Edlefsen home at Lorane, 10 miles from this city, is a luxurious home, probably equalling anything in the city. The house nestles in the edge of the big woods and the glade is being made beautiful by Mr. Edlefsen, who is an artist in landscape gardening.
 Other homes erected were as follows: B. K. Lawson, two, A. J. Latsch, A. L. Monroe, E. C. Bisbey, C. W. McGee, E. C. Spray, J. L. Lingo, G. Orr, A. L. Woodard, J. C. and Josiah Porter, W. W. Comer, Albert Snyder, Pete Salaway, Peter Maier, O. H. Willard, all in Cottage Grove; David Auld, P. F. Davis, W. F. Lynch, all at Lorane; W. E. Burkett, Divide; Morris McKibben, A. L. Zacharias, J. W. Skaggs, D. R. Hamant, D. H. Brumbaugh, all in the country.
 Buildings were erected by J. D. Humphrey, Clarence Morris, S. R. Smith, Albert Snyder and London school district (school house).
 Houses were remodeled by Stanley Martin, Winters Wallace, Mrs. Dora Fields, S. R. Piper, Chas. Burkholder, Felix Currin, whose exhibit at the 1911 county fair was characterized by railway officials as the greatest collection of grains, grasses and seeds ever gathered together in the history of the world, has during the past year established an experiment farm on the butte east of the city, where he expects to eventually spend $50,000 or more in improvements and will carry on experiments on a large scale. It is in the day to attend a family dinner at the home of Mrs. Taylor.

been filed. Construction work will commence in the spring. It is also positively known that the board of directors of the Great Northern system plan to extend the Oregon Electric through Cottage Grove. It is confidently expected that construction work will be commenced this year and Cottage Grove is only 22 miles from Eugene, the present terminus.
 If a unit of the forest reserve on Layng Creek is opened, as now seems more than probable, that will be the beginning of the greatest era of industrial activity this city has ever known. There are in this reserve billions of feet of the finest fir timber in the West. The marketing of the one unit for which negotiations are now under way will mean the spending of some twelve million dollars for labor only, within a period of seven to twelve years.
 Cottage Grove has more apparent resources to make a great city than any other in the Willamette. With one-third of the entire timber of the United States so situated that it must be marketed through Cottage Grove, that one industry alone is sufficient to make a prosperous city here for 50 years to come. The Bohemia mining district will with a few years' development furnish business for a good-sized city and all this must go through Cottage Grove. The agricultural possibilities are also sufficient for a good-sized city. Surrounded by dozens of rich valleys, of which this city is the center, with no other possible outlet, the city would need not worry if it had no other visible means of support. With all combined, no city of its size has so much to offer to large and small investors.

EUGENE MAN CLAIMS MILLIONS

Heir to Part of Winston Churchill Fortune.
 Dr. E. H. White of Eugene, with the assistance of his grandmother, Mrs. Jerome Benson of Newberg, believes he has completely established claim to a share of the $185,000,000 estate of Sir Winston Churchill of England. All that is necessary to make Doctor White's claim infallible is legal proof of the marriage of George Churchill in the seventeenth century and of his daughter.

Mrs. Benson, who is 85 years old, has just returned to Newberg after a number of months spent in Eugene assisting in tracing the family history and putting the claims into shape so as to insure a right to the English estate, which consists of money in the Bank of England and lands in Newfoundland and in Connecticut.
 About a year ago, Doctor White saw a dispatch in a Portland newspaper saying that search had been begun for heirs of Sir Winston Churchill. He employed attorneys to place his claim in legal form.
 His grandmother, of whom he is sole heir, has the memory of a young woman, and traces clearly the family history. According to her story, and it is authenticated by the records, her great-grandmother was the wife of Admiral Hopewell Bisbee, who was the son of George Churchill, who in turn was the son of Sir Winston Churchill, founder of the estate. George Churchill came to America and the family since that time has been on this side of the Atlantic.

Tax Levies Made by Lane County Cities and Towns.

The following levies have been made and properly reported to the county clerk so that their tax may be extended on the tax rolls in regular shape: Eugene, 15 mills; Cottage Grove, 15 mills; Creswell 10 mills; Glenada, 10 mills. No report has yet been received from Coburg, Junction City and Florence. Unless this levy is made out, properly certified to by the clerk or city recorder and transmitted to the county clerk before January 1, he has no right to extend any tax for these delinquent places. Clerk Russell is just getting a bit annoyed as these levies and thinks that he should not put it off until the end of the afternoon.
