Trip With The Mazamas.
Portland, Feb. 13.—Ed. Sentinel: Thinking some of the Cottage Grove people may be interested in how I am spending my time in Portland, I would like to describe a recent jaunt I took with The Mazamas, which is a woman's walking club. The party of which I was invited to be one, was to follow a paper trail made by the leaders. There were 125 in the party and we met at Sixteenth Street on Mount Tabor, where the rules were read to us and we started a search for the trail. There were many blinds that lead us astray, but we were in honor bound to follow the one having the trail, even though another was left or crossed. We walked about 10 miles over the mountain, through gulches and down steep hills, into civilization and out again. We started on the trail at 1:45 and did not reach the end until 5:30. It was one of the most enjoyable trips the club has had this year. We are talking of climbing Mount Adams and making a trip to the Deschutes.

Lane Delegation Not Opposed.
My attention has been called to an article printed in the Register of February 4, which states that the Lane county delegation has objected to Lee M. Travis as a member of the Oregon Panama Pacific Exposition. In justice to all concerned, I wish you would state through your paper, that no such action has been taken, either by the delegation in the house or senate on this matter. The matter has never been discussed by our delegation and I regret that such a story without a foundation has been put into print.

Mesdames A. W. Kime and A. S. Powell entertained yesterday at the Kime residence with a presidential afternoon. In the reception hall the guests were greeted with a bowl of punch decorated with the picture of President Taft. The parlor and dining room were decorated with carnations. Fancy work and playing of national games were the diversion of the afternoon. The Misses Leah Perkins, Daisy Hawkins and Alice Counts assisted in the serving of a two-course luncheon consisting of chicken salad, sandwiches, olives, ice cream, cake and coffee. The invited guests were Mesdames Abrams, Cruson, D. H. Hemenway, G. M. Hall, Medley, J. C. Johnson, H. A. Miller, Jesse Berg, H. H. Veatch, Compton, J. N. Taylor, Alta Spray, H. F. Wynne, McCargar, W. C. Conner, A. Hemenway, Monroe, Short, Scovell, C. W. Wallace, Lockwood, Tyson, Awbrey, C. M. Shinn, H. J. Shinn, Beager, Burkholder, J. S. Silaby, Joe Porter, Venske, Hill, Eakin, C. J. Kem, VanDenburg, Ingram, Lurch, Chambers, Price, J. I. Jones, W. W. McFarland, Nichols, Spear, Hedrick, W. B. Cooper, A. B. Wood, C. M. Parker, Stewart and Miss Eunice Vandenburg.

A marriage license has been issued to Albert H. Johns and Miss Hannah Bell Sharon, both of Saginaw.

A marriage license has been issued to Adolph Benter and Mrs. Euphemy Baren, both of Creswell.

Mrs. O. M. Kem entertained the Emanon Club last Thursday in honor of her daughter, Mrs. Iris Corey, who left for her new home in Colorado Monday. In a guessing contest Mrs. Ben Groff won head prize and Mrs. Ernest Armes foot prize. In the heart contest Miss Myrtle Kem won the prize. Mrs. Short, Mrs. Richmond and Mrs. Myrtle Kem gave selections on the piano. A luncheon of fruit salad, pickles, crackers, cocoa and wafers was served. Delicious home made candy was also served. Mrs. Beager and Mrs. Shinn were guests. Members present were Mesdames Groff, Mackin, Short, Richmond, Atkinson, Armes, Umphrey, Allison, Cochran, Bisbey and Bede.

The Endeavorers of the Christian Church entertained Saturday evening with a character party. Games were played and a short program rendered. Refreshments of cookies and grape punch were served. About thirty-five were present.

The Ladies' Missionary Society of the Christian Church met at the home of Mrs. Alf. Powell last Thursday afternoon. Topic: "Missionary Stories and Books." A number of missionary stories were read and the subject was made both interesting and instructive by all present. A dainty luncheon was served and a social hour enjoyed.

After the regular meeting Friday night members of the Eastern Star held a valentine social. There were story and guessing contests. Mrs. H. H. Veatch won the prize in the guessing contest. Guess whats and punch were served for refreshments.

A valentine party was held at the Mountain View school house Saturday evening. Valentines were distributed among those present. W. H. Miller got two prize valentines, one being a hair vigor advertisement.

Dan Cooper and Miss Alma Hartung were married in Portland Tuesday. The bride is a well known young woman of the city and met Mr. Cooper upon his visit with his cousin, W. B. Cooper, last year. He comes from Iowa. It is thought that the couple will make their home in Portland.

ONE SOCIALIST LIKES CRITICISM

Goes Into Details as to Definition of Socialism.

Cottage Grove, Ore., Feb. 18.—Ed. Sentinel: I note a double column editorial in your last issue, "Socialism and Religion," which, if you will pardon me, I will notice for a brief space.

It makes a socialist feel good to be honestly and fairly criticized, because of the fact that we have been condemned and abused by those who know nothing of our philosophy, or we judge so, by the tone of the criticism which we commonly see.

We socialists who have been in this fight for a long time begin to feel that we are almost respectable, and to gain respectability in this day and age is quite an accomplishment.

When people once learn what socialism stands for, what it proposes to do, and the benefit which will accrue to a vast majority of the people of this old world through this agency then may we, who are pioneers in the movement, hope to reap our reward.

The aim of socialism is just this and nothing more: To create a higher intelligence, to make better living conditions, happier homes, better men and women and happier days for all childhood.

To so adjust society that all may enjoy the fruits of their own labor with full opportunity to expend that labor for themselves and families, to stop exploitation and substitute, therefore cooperation in production and distribution, create wealth for use instead of profit.

To make humanity the first consideration of society instead of exalting property, as is done at the present time.

These aims and desires, the socialists hold, are the grandest sentiments that can stimulate any political party, and as members of that party ask no odds of creed or party, we ask only to be understood and are willing to leave our cause in the hands of all honest thinking people, when once they know the meaning of socialism.

When some one tells us that these things can never be, then we feel that we have more faith in humanity than our critic; when we are told that Adam must restore the apple before we can realize our ideals, we can only smile and repeat, "O ye of little faith."

Must civilization stand on a divided society, a wealth maker and a wealth taker? Are we always to have one class in the depth of misery that another class may make themselves illustrious by comparison?

Does civilization mean that we shall refuse to further civilize unless one class allows the other the cream and contents itself with the skimmed milk.

We are often told that it will be necessary to change human nature before these things can ever be brought about.

Perhaps you are right, but if that be true, then human nature needs a change, and your upholding of the present system by your own confession, is done against your better judgment and against what your own heart tells you is just and right.

I believe that down deep in the heart of every honest, intelligent person the seeds of socialism are imbedded, and that some time, somehow, these seeds will grow and that a better human nature will be grown, a human nature that will have a spark of love for fellow being, and that when that nature is grown there will be no need of changing human nature.

We only have this to say in conclusion, that if socialism is to be condemned for such sentiments as these, and if our critics hold these things which I have enumerated as unrighteous and unholy then we leave it to you, our reader, whether you can condemn us or not, whether or not down deep in your own heart you have not felt the spirit of socialism and have not known what it was.

Search your heart and see whether you have a kindly feeling for your fellow men. If you have, just cultivate it a little and give it an opportunity to grow and you will be surprised what a feeling it will develop within you.

Paste this letter at the head of a paper and I will guarantee that every socialist you meet will indorse it as the essence of socialism and if you wish to put yourself on record as disputing the justness of our claim, well and good, but we are willing to rest our case with these explanations and are willing to leave the question with humanity to decide ultimately whether we are right or not.

Troubadours Make Good.
Byron's Troubadours made a decided hit at The Arcade last night. All numbers were encored and at times there was mad applause. The troupe was pronounced the best colored aggregation that has ever appeared here.

the guests of the Albany editors at a cafeteria luncheon.

Frank Jenkins of the Eugene Register, president of the association, presided and Elbert Bede of Cottage Grove officiated as secretary.

G. A. Hurley, of Independence, E. Hofer of Salem and C. Clinton Page of Albany, were named a committee to prepare a resolution indorsing a campaign in favor of home merchants and Oregon industries.

Following is the report presented and adopted:
"That the newspapers represented in the Willamette Valley Editorial Association indorse this campaign of developing our home communities in a way that will keep millions of dollars annually in circulation among Oregon people by publishing a page with suitable headings to this effect once a week at a low-priced cooperative rate that is in the reach of every firm doing business in the community.

"We recommend the adoption of the slogan offered by the Manufacturers' Association, to run the following line over the front page of Oregon newspapers, viz: Patronize the home merchant and call for the products of Oregon industries."

The association decided to hold another meeting in Albany in April and to meet again in Eugene in June.
