$150 FOR KILLING FEMALE DEER

Cottage Grove Game Warden Captures Springfield Poachers.

Dr. J. R. Barr of Springfield paid $150 in Eugene justice court Monday for killing a female deer out of season. Dr. Barr was one of a party of seven who had gone up the Natron cut off with seven dogs.

J. A. Hills, the Eugene game warden, had been under the impression that some were getting deer in violation of law and that he was being watched, so he engaged Warden George Knox of Cottage Grove to take his place in the mountains near Oakridge. Knox went up on the train with the party, the members of which thought he was a surveyor, although he did not state his business. The deer was a female and carried two fawns. The carcass was sent to State Game Warden Finley at Portland. The law does not specify what is to be done with the meat, but Finley telephoned that he will distribute it to various charitable institutions.

Two does were killed by the party, but the warden was able to get but the one. Other arrests are expected to follow.

JUNCTION CREAMERY PROFITS

Newest Industry Enjoys Largest Growth of Any.

Junction City's youngest industry is enjoying the greatest growth of any started in this city in the past five years. The Junction cooperative creamery which started November 1, with only 41 members or stockholders, now has a total membership of 90 patrons. In November 4080 pounds of butter were made, in December 5175, and in January 6658. At this same rate of increase the business at the end of 1913 will be enormous. In November 33 cents, in December 37 cents and in January 40 cents per pound for butter fat was paid the patrons. Forty cents in January was more than any other creamery paid. Chris Myhre, the secretary of the association, states that at first the association experienced considerable difficulty in disposing of the butter, but now they are unable to supply the demand.

A rather unusual procedure is followed by his plan. Every member is given a pound of butter in exchange for a pound of butter fat. This is an item in itself to the members. In January the members used 334 pounds of butter.

The reports for January show the following: Total cash receipts, $2272.17; cash paid out, $2000.

The running expenses for January were $237.59.

Horticultural Society to Meet. The Lane County Horticultural Society will hold its next meeting at Junction City, Wednesday, March 5, and an urgent invitation to attend has been issued to fruit growers of this end of the county.

Calling cards—The Sentinel.

SOCIETY

Clinton W. Davis of Row River and Miss Minnie Grace Innis of Creswell were married at the latter place Saturday and are making their home at Row River.

Miss Edith Elwood Hastings, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rice Hastings of this city, was married in Portland Tuesday to Robert Sherwood of that city who is in the moving picture business there. He was a resident of this city two or three years ago.

Mrs. Pet Sanford entertained a small gathering at "five hundred" Monday evening.

Mrs. H. A. Miller entertained the Social Twelve last Thursday afternoon. In a sewing contest Mrs. Compton won the prize. A buffet lunch of cake and punch was served. Members present were Mesdames Abrams, Compton, G. M. Hall, Hill, Monroe, Burkholder, Job, H. A. Miller, Lurch, Eakin, H. Veatch. Guests present were Mesdames C. ### Things We Think

Things others think, and what we think of the things others think

If "absence makes the heart grow fonder," the sirlion steak ought to be prized very highly.

When a man marries the "boss' girl, he mustn't kick if he can't have his way all the time.

Even with the democrats in power, we anticipate that there will still be some slight differences of opinion to overcome before we get the tariff fixed so that it suits all of us.

After all the fun men have made of women for their inability to throw things straight, the suffragists are hitting the mark quite frequently.

An exchange says: That chain of hospitals twenty miles apart planned for Long Island will be handy for automobilists and their victims. That's about the right distance apart—the automobilists can be taken into the one nearest the accident and the victim to the next one ahead.

When haunted by hunger and poverty, it is a pleasure to see the ghost walk.

A woman's one great fault seems to be in the hats she wears—but the reason it appears that way may be because the hat hides all her other faults.

It's fortunate that the Congressional Record doesn't require a paid up subscription list for admission to the mails.

An eastern professor says he has succeeded in educating house flies. We trust their ideas of propagation will follow along the same lines as those of educated humans.

A woman wouldn't be satisfied if her husband never did anything she could not complain to her mother about.

The happy married people are not as noticeable as the other kind because they don't make as much noise about it.

If there is anything that justifies a man in getting exasperated, it is to get up to answer the telephone at 2 a. m. and have central tell you she rang the wrong number.

If you have ever noticed it is the busy people who don't complain about not getting their work done.

It is hard for a man to understand what a woman sees in him to admire.

No matter how many figures there are in the price of a dress, a woman is not satisfied unless she has another one.

If women of a hundred years ago could see their great granddaughters of today they would think they must have married a lot of stingy husbands.

There's no use of living if you can't make someone happy.

When a grain of sand gets into a clam shell and causes the occupant sorrow and grief, it doesn't wail and moan and find fault with all creation. It sets about doing that which will alleviate the irritation. It covers the rough substance with a secretion that makes it smooth and comfortable and easy to abide with. In a few years the homely, obtrusive grain of sand becomes a beautiful pearl. We too may cover our sorrows and make them things of value rather than an irritation. We may learn from the lowly clam how to beautify our lives and make them worth something to our fellow man.

There never was a woman who would acknowledge that her neighbor could make better butter than she.

A person doesn't get blamed for more than half the mean things he does—and less credit than that for the good ones.

The road to glory is full of chuck holes.

If folks were turned inside out there would be about as much difference in them as there is now.

The older a person gets the more he sees what a fool he was when he was younger.

If it's in The Sentinel it's news—if it's news it's in The Sentinel.
