Dorena Marks Arbor Day.

Dorena, Ore., April 14.—The Dorena schools were particularly fortunate on Arbor Day in having present Prof. L. P. Harrington, assistant state superintendent in the field work.

The program in the afternoon consisted of a few selections by the pupils and an interesting one hour talk by Professor Harrington along the line of the importance of home duties. First: For the girls in learning how to sew and cook, and to do the other household duties about the home. Second: For the boys in learning the care of chickens and the raising of a garden, and to do the common things necessary to comfortable home life and, third: The boys and girls of today are the men and women of tomorrow and they are the ones that will help make Oregon great, by helping to develop its resources.

A very interesting and instructive feature of the discourse was the description of some of the most common birds, illustrated by pictures. The talk was highly appreciated by a good sized audience which filled the high school room to overflowing.

In the evening the pupils of the schools gave a program which was enjoyed by a large number of parents and friends. The school is looking forward to standardization in the near future.

Must You Be Bald?

What have you done to stop your hair from falling? Have you tried Reckall "93" Hair Tonic? If not, we want you to try it at our risk.

If you have dandruff, if your hair is falling out and your scalp is not clean and shiny, if you use Reckall "93" Hair Tonic according to directions for thirty days, and at the end of that time you are not thoroughly satisfied with the results and will tell us so, we will immediately refund your money. We won't ask you to promise anything. We won't even question you. We will take your word and return your money.

Doesn't it stand to reason that Reckall "93" Hair Tonic must be a mighty good remedy and have given great satisfaction to our customers if we endorse it like this? We know of no similar remedy that is as good. It is because of what Reckall "93" Hair Tonic has done for others that we back it with our own money.

Why suffer scalp and hair trouble or be bald, when Reckall "93" Hair Tonic will remove dandruff, make your scalp comfortable and healthy, promote hair growth and tend to prevent baldness—when we will pay for the treatment should it fail to please you?

We don't obligate you to anything. You simply buy the treatment, use it, and if not pleased, come back to us empty-handed—and we will hand back what you paid us. Two sizes, 50c and $1.00 a bottle. You can buy Reckall "93" Hair Tonic in this community only at our store.

ABOUT THE HOUSE

Little Romances That Are Liked
With Its Furnishings.

EVOLUTION OF THE CHAIR

The Leisurely Progress From the Legged Stool to the Luxurious Chair—Origin of the Table Drawn—First Picture Frame.

If you only knew it, queer little romances are peeping out at you all the time from the little things in your house, from attic to cellar. They are well worth looking for.

Framed pictures had to have a beginning. They date back to about 3000 years ago, when peaceful monks painted the walls of their living rooms with Scriptural subjects. Then one day some one conceived the bright idea of nailing wood around these treasures, as to separate the subjects. A later came gliding—and the evolution of the modern picture frame was only a matter of time.

The drawing room is a perfect romance of history. As most people know, strictly, the "withdrawing" chair to which one withdraws after dinner as the name implies.

The antimacassars over the back of the chairs similarly carry their origin in life in their name. These macassars, less artistic things had their beginnings some 150 years ago, when one used macassar oil for the hair. The mistress of the household would no more permit greasy palms to spoil her fine chairs than would the modern mistress. And, lo, the antimacassar!

Of chairs themselves, perhaps the most interesting feature is the fashion of the crossbar—technically known as the stretcher—which joins the front and back legs. Its purpose is usually ornamental, sometimes strengthening the chair, though often it is absent altogether.

It harks back to the days of the barbers, when knights and dames were used to keep their feet off the ground, the stretcher, rush littered floor, the stretcher. Originally the stretcher was only a few inches above the ground, but when, later on, rug and carpets came into more general use, the stretcher gradually lost its importance.

It is curious to note that the armchair was the last stage of the cushions and padding were the additions to the plain seat. The same painted chairs and stretchers, carved legs, and finally a leather—came backs and arms and with the luxurious rocker.

In point of fact the chair is one of the most important pieces of furniture we have, historically speaking. It is, day, "taking the chair" denoted the head of affairs, reminiscent of the time when there was only one chair in a room, three-legged stools at the being provided for less important guests.

Window curtains, again, have a little romance. Originally all windows were in the roof, but in time came windows in the wall. In the middle ages some one brought from China the idea of using cloth to cover the windows, and there is the origin of the curtain, with its frills and loops.

The glass chandelier, if you have one, they are out of fashion now—put down to the workmen refugees from France driven from their homes by Louis XIV. by the revocation of the edict of Nantes in 1685.

Even the drawer in the kitchen table—any table drawer, for the matter—that—had to be thought of, but nobody managed to think of fixing a drawer to a table until some inventive player—his name is forgotten—was a handy place for the cards when the were not in use. The very thing! The table drawers were invented.

"Kitchen" by the way, is derived from an Anglo-Saxon word meaning "to cook," while "scullery"—which has nothing to do with "scullion"—comes from a word meaning "bowl."

Some of your furniture may have an English political bias. It is truly so if it bears that familiar design based upon the Prince of Wales feathers. Hepplewhite, the famous furniture designer, began it. In his time there was a strong Tory party supporting George III. while the Whigs were headed by the Prince of Wales. Hepplewhite was an ardent Whig and accordingly introduced Prince of Wales' feathers into his furniture designs on every possible occasion.

Occasionally the sofa is an important item from the ease-loving Arabs. The "soffah" was a long bench outside the house.

And, finally, "hall" simply means a place which is covered in, and the word comes from exactly the same root as the infernal regions!—Philologist's Ledger.

Amenities of the Table.
"I waited ten minutes for a card," the lady said, "and then it passed me without stopping."

It was afterward recalled that the habitually silent man had been having unusual difficulty with his chop.

"Perhaps," he remarked, "the doctor didn't care to have you give his car."—Exchange.

Let's Do Some Work.
"I guess their honeymoon is almost over."

"Why?"
"She's quit telephoning to him during office hours."—Detroit Free Press.

Laws can discover sin, but not remove it.—Milton.
