ALL CHILDREN PRESENT AT ANNIVERSARY

With all her children present Mrs. Anna Teeters celebrated her sixty-fifth birthday anniversary Sunday, June 29, at the home of her son, Shelby Teeters, a reunion being held. The children, their wives, husbands and children present were: Shelby Teeters; Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Teeters and children, Molie, Benetta, Nellie and John; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Teeters and children, Joyce, Myrtle, Ralph and Marion; Mrs. Ellen Needham and daughter Laura; Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Doolittle and children, Jud, Albert, Zina, Hugh, Edward, Ellen and Esther. The only near relatives absent were Mrs. Doolittle's daughter Isabel, Mrs. Needham's husband and their three sons, Ray, Gregory and Melvin.

The members of the Christian Endeavor of the Christian Church pleasantly entertained their friends with a social Saturday evening. The evening was spent in games, after which refreshments of peanuts and stick candy were served. Considerable amusement was caused by a ruling that the girls attending wear gingham dresses and their hair in school girl fashion while the boys were required to wear overalls and soft shirts. A fine of 25 cents was imposed for any infraction of the ruling.

The Christian Endeavorers of the Christian Church held their monthly business meeting at the home of Miss Maude Lamson Friday evening. The following officers were elected: Myrtle DeSpain, president; Verna Hawkins, vice-president; Henry Jorgenson, treasurer; Maude Lamson, corresponding secretary; Bertha Stephens, recording secretary; Verna Hawkins, organist; Arlie Langdon, assistant organist.

Thursday afternoon the women of the Baptist Church and other friends met at the home of Mrs. Karl Kent Mills, where they took leave of Mrs. Jenny Jury, Miss Alway and Miss Genevieve Jury with a farewell party. Conversation and a little game occupied the afternoon. The women of the church and the other friends presented Mrs. Jury with a gift, the Sunday school gave Miss Alway a remembrance and the Farther Light Society remembered Miss Genevieve. The house was beautifully decorated with red rambler roses. About 35 were present.

Mrs. Herbert Eakin and Miss Esther Silsby entertained Saturday afternoon at the home of Miss Silsby with a "mystery dime social." The entertainment took the form of an Idependence Day celebration, the motif in the decorations and in the game for the afternoon being suggested by the near approach of the Fourth of July. The game, in which Mesdames Kinter and Jones excelled, consisted of a contest in which the ladies strove to make the largest number of words possible from the letters of the two words, "Independence Day." The mystery lay in the menu which being interpreted, read as follows:

Bits of stone and sorceresses: sandwiches
Sour help: pickles
Boston loves them: beans
Noise and a doctor's charge: coffee
Everlasting delight: gum
Fourth of july adjuncts: crackers
Musical nuts: doughnuts
Chip off the old block: toothpicks
The skipper's retreat: cheese
Adam's ale: water

Mrs. J. S. Medley entertained the Social Twelve at its regular meeting last Thursday. Only club members were present.

Wm. H. McCoy and Miss Leanah Grant were married here June 25, Rev. J. T. Moore performing the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Powers were host and hostess at a small dinner party Thursday evening in honor of the eighteenth birthday anniversary of Mrs. Power's sister, Miss Ethel Bartels. The rooms were tastily decorated, while on the side board were eighteen lighted candles. Miss Bartels was the recipient of a number of beautiful presents. Those present, besides the host and hostess and their daughter Ruth, were: Mr. and Mrs. John Bartels, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Douglas, Mrs. Ed Wilson, Miss Mary Bartels, Fred, Willie and Johnnie Bartels and Marion Ernest.

Miss Beth Olive Bede and her mother entertained ten other babes and their mothers Monday afternoon.

A marriage license was issued Tuesday to Lee D. Dugan and Miss Tillie Lewis of this city. The marriage comes as a surprise to relatives and friends.

A marriage license was issued yesterday to Frank N. Wilson nad Miss Mabel Clare Triplett, both of this city.

A marriage license was issued yesterday to Wm. H. Harrison and Mrs. Catherine E. Cochran, both of Cottage Grove.

SHOULD SHOW HOW THINGS GROW IN GROVE SOIL

Philosopher Spray Would Have Exhibit for Visitors

Demonstration Farm Would Be of Value to Resident Farmers as Well as of Value in Getting New Settlers.

Cottage Grove, Ore., June 30, 1913.—As I have been thinking of the needs of the country tributary to Cottage Grove the question has naturally arisen—what can be done to better the methods of agriculture hereabouts? We will all have to concede that what the land produces is ahead of all else and it seems to me to be of prime importance that we do something to help the land.

I have a plan that I believe could be worked out to the great advantage of all this country. Both farmers and business men are interested in this plan which I have in mind. The plan may be summed up in four words—a home agricultural station. We have with us two organizations that should be willing to work at it for the interests of all. They are the grange and the commercial club. My plan is to let them take this work up jointly by each appointing a committee to be in charge. Let this committee secure a tract of land, buying or leasing it for a term of years. Then they should hire a competent man to plant and raise all sorts of grasses, grains, vegetables and berries that can be grown in this climate.

This should be not so much an experiment station as a demonstration station. What the newcomer wants to see is what we can raise here; what the farmer looking for a location wants to know is what can be done here and how it should be done. My idea is to get a man who is up to date, who can show our people how things should be planted, cultivated and marketed. Let everything be grown up to date in all particulars.

I have had some farmers tell me that they don't know how to raise this or that. I myself have been a farmer most of my life and I will confess I don't know how Hansen raises such fine onions. So it is all down the line. People want to know how to grow stuff and how to fix it for market. We have a good state agricultural college that is willing to give us all the advice needed and what we ought to do is to put it in reach of our farmers. As to the cost of this plan I will say that it is my belief that, if properly handled, it could be made nearly self supporting.

RAZING SHORTRIDGE HILL MARKS EPOCH

After Half Century of Travel, Old Landmark Gives Way to Easier Grade.

Cottage Grove, Ore., June 17.—(Special to The Sentinel.)—The rich, fertile but heretofore neglected portion of South Lane county located along the Coast Fork river is rapidly coming into its own. No country with haphazard methods of road construction can hope to move hand in hand with its more enterprising neighbor. It must apply modern up-to-date thought and ingenuity on its public highways.

The residents and in particular the farmers of Coast Fork are deviating from his old, antiquated idea and custom of road building. They seem to be inoculated with the spirit of progress. They have wisely yielded to the inevitable. The old land mark so familiarly known as the "Shortridge Hill," with its 13 per cent grade will soon exist only in memory.

For fifty years, or thereabouts, people have pulled this hill and crossed the rough and sometimes dangerous ford of the Coast Fork. The new line of travel will follow around the base of the hill covering a distance of nearly one mile. A one per cent grade is the maximum found by the county surveyor. Under the efficient management of the supervisor, Edward Tullar, the new road is rapidly taking form. The right-of-way is cleared and the grading well in hand and long before the autumn leaves turn yellow this monument that will challenge the onward march of time will be unveiled for public inspection.

It would be unfair not to mention the generous spirit made manifest by the first rumors of the contemplated change. Over $300 was donated by enthusiastic farmers. John Powell gave to the county 2.71 acres through his well groomed alfalfa field. Other changes will be made from time to time. Better roads will be part of every man's business, for the results obtained make it the cheapest advertisement for the community yet found. It is the passing of the old for the new. It is the electric motor of progress an advancement. It is an epoch never to be erased.

DIVIDE YOUNGSTER THINKS MUCH OF HIS BURRO WHO PLAYS HIDE-AND-SEEK

Young Kenneth McReynolds of Divide attracted a great deal of attention on Main Street Saturday afternoon, generously dividing all the honors, however, with his pet burro Nettie. Nettie is about as large as a New Foundland dog but ever so much nicer because she can play hide-and-seek, "sometimes hiding so well that it takes an awfully long time to find her," confided Kenneth,—and she can carry you and a pack on her back for miles and miles. Kenneth has owned Nettie since she was a month old and she is now three years of age.

LaFrance Is Indicted.

The Portland grand jury has taken up consideration of the case of J. C. and Emelie LaFrance, who were arrested a few months at Coquille, Mrs. LaFrance having collected $15,000 from an insurance company and two fraternal organizations after the alleged death of her husband. They are indicted on the charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, the woman as principal and the man as accessory.

The district attorney's office is at sea as to where LaFrance obtained the body which was substituted for his own on the upper reaches of the Clackamas river. He has told several flimsy yarns to explain it, but the untruth of all of them has been easily established.

District Attorney Evans says that LaFrance is in terror of being charged with murder and that is why he has given so many explanations. The investigators have not been able so far to account for some $3000 or $4000 of the money. LaFrance declared, when arrested that he hadn't so much as a ten cent piece of the $15,000 left, but his statement is strongly suspected as being untruthful.
