cent, so Atkinson decided to take a shot at the birdshot. To his surprise she dropped dead, the orphaned cubs then retreating into the branches of the tree where birdshot had no effect on them. Mr. Atkinson then tied his horses to the trunk of the tree to keep the cubs from coming down, went back to camp, secured his rifle, returned and brought down the cubs, loaded the three animals onto the horses and proceeded home without further adventure.

FALLS IN BARN AND TEARS A RIB LOOSE

M. M. Wheeler is recovering from an accident of a week or so ago when he suffered a fractured rib. He was standing on a ladder which had been rested against a manger in his barn and was endeavoring to put a pole up on the rafters. While he was reaching to his extreme limit the ladder slipped and Mr. Wheeler fell onto a sharp corner of the manger. One rib was fractured at the backbone and torn loose at the breast bone. He had to wear a cast for a week and the injuries are still touchy.

PRUNES AND HOPS NOT INJURED

The rains of last week did little or no damage in this vicinity so far as can be learned. The prune crop was not ripe enough to be seriously injured even by heavy rains and in the largest orchards the loss from this source is not large enough to be taken account of. If the damp weather had come a week or so later, the damage from cracked prunes might have been large, but there seems no present danger. The hop yards were in no way injured, the quality of the cones being improved if anything by the light showers.

LANE COUNTY MAY WIN IN INDUSTRIAL CONTEST

Lane County is quite likely to win one of the prizes offered at the state fair for industrial exhibits by school children, according to Supervisor Stahlman, who urges school children of this section to participate. Exhibits will be transported free to the county fair, from there to the state fair and home again. Any information desired may be secured by addressing Mr. Stahlman at Cottage Grove. Prizes range from $40 to $100. Besides the cash, a Shetland pony and merchandise prizes have been put up by business men of the state.

No other paper, daily or weekly, reaches one quarter as many people in the Cottage Grove country as does The Sentinel.

murder of his sweetheart at Condon a few months ago. Morgan was left fatherless when eight years old and was placed in an orphan's home. Later he was taken to the home of his mother. He enlisted in the army when 14 but deserted, later reinstated and again deserted. He fled to Alaska and finally joined his sweetheart in Oregon only to find she loved another. The murder followed.

BIGGEST SUNFLOWERS ARE RAISED IN GROVE

Dispatch to the Effect That Albany Holds Record Is Found Erroneous.

The dispatch published broadcast over the state that twelve-foot sunflowers at Albany were the largest in the state, has brought out the fact that Cottage Grove has beaten this record. Sunflowers are growing in the yard of J. S. Silsby in this city that measure over thirteen feet. J. B. Phelps did the measuring and almost had to resort to calling out the fire department's hook and ladder to get to the top of the mammoth producers of chicken feed. He finally solved the problem by the use of a fish pole and is willing to furnish affidavit that his measurement is correct.

Cottage Grove holds the record as usual when products of the soil are in question.

PECULIAR CIRCUMSTANCES IN DEATH OF FORMER GROVE MAN

Insurance Company Contests Claim on Grounds That Unknown Surgical Operation Was Direct Cause of Death.

hospital and when his wife called up to ask concerning his condition she was asked to come to the hospital at once as her husband was dying. On her way there a friend met her and informed her that her husband was dead, following an operation which she did not know was to be performed. It is understood that the physician who performed the operation can not be found to give testimony in the suit brought against the insurance company. His absence has put himself in a questionable light and taken away the evidence necessary to win the suit for the insurance money. The insurance company claims that while ptomaine poisoning may have existed, death did not result from that cause.

FLOW OF SULPHURIC LANGUAGE NEARLY DESTROYS NEW PAYING ON OAKLAND STREET

The serenity of Oakland's Main street was broken one day last week when a man driving a two-seated hack appeared out of a by-street, and heedless of the "street closed" sign, started to drive down past the postoffice over the gravel neatly smoothed by the pavers. A group of men on a corner seeing this contemplated trespass, like a girl catching sight of a rooster directing his progress across her flower bed, cried out an urgent warning; whereupon the man in the hack, with a prelude of picturesque but unprintable words, demanded to be shown the law and said that he would be dogged and something worse if he would drive over them blankety-blank s-l-i-k hills any more. After a bit he acquiescently drove off down another by-street, leaving, however, a trail of sulphur in his wake.—Special to Roseburg Review.

Tom Awbrey wishes to announce to his insurance patrons that while absent during the next few weeks all matters of insurance requiring attention will receive prompt attention by applying to Veatch & Spencer.

WORK COMMENCES ON CANYON ROAD

Famous Piece of Worst Road on Pacific Highway Soon To Be No More Forever.

The County Court of Douglas County commenced work Tuesday on the Pass Creek Canyon road, long famous as the worst piece of public highway between Portland and Frisco. All bids submitted a couple weeks ago were rejected and the county court has put in its own crew. With continued favorable weather the work will yet be completed this fall. The spending of several thousand dollars on this stretch of road probably means that the Pacific Highway will stay in Western Oregon. Farmers and other residents of Comstock, Drain, Anlauf and Divide and the Roseburg Commercial Club put forth the effort that resulted in getting work started on this road.

UNSTEADY HIS NERVES.

Audacious Test of a Marksmen's Skill in a Duel.

M. Colomby, in his history of dueling, tells an anecdote of a certain noted duelist of his time. One day this man, M. D., was at Desenne's shooting gallery in Paris watching the pistol practice. There was one man who was shooting very well and Desenne was threatened with the loss of all his glass balls and swinging dolls. Every shot was greeted by the spectators with exclamations of admiration.

B looked on for awhile, and finally, in a calm voice, made the remark, "He could not do as well on the field."

The object of the slighting remark turned around, and in a loud and angry tone cried: "Who are you to say that? Would you like to test the truth of your remark?"

"Willingly," replied the unrecognized dentist as he led the way out to a secluded place. After taking their respective positions, they drew lots, and it fell to B to shoot last. He waited in silence for his adversary's shot. The man fired—and missed.

B lowered his pistol. "What did I tell you?" he said, with a smile. Then, putting his pistol in his pocket, he walked away whistling.

DAINTY TINY NESTS.

Those of the Humming Bird Are About the Size of a Walnut.

The most exquisitely dainty home built by the bill and feet of birds is that of the ruby throated humming bird. When completed it is scarcely larger than an English walnut and is usually sited on a small horizontal limb of a tree or shrub frequently many feet from the ground.

This dainty domicile is composed almost entirely of soft plant fibers, fragments of spiders' webs sometimes being used to hold them in shape. The sides are thickly studded with bits of lichen, and practiced indeed is the eye of the man who can distinguish it from a knot on the limb. The eggs are the size of quinine pills.

Although the humming bird's nest is exceedingly frail, there appears to be nothing on record to show that any great numbers of them come to grief during the summer rains. It is, however, not called upon for a long tenure of occupancy. Within three weeks after the two little white eggs are laid the young have departed on their tiny pinions.—Craftsman.
