Drain Editor Dies.

C. L. Parker editor of the Drain Nonpareil and Yoncalla Times, dropped dead of heart disease at Yoncalla about noon Wednesday of last week. He took charge of the Drain paper about five years ago, and within the past few months, took the Yoncalla Times. He went to the latter city Wednesday morning to look after business matters. His earlier years were spent in New Jersey, where he was prominent in politics. Later he was a member of the New York Stock Exchange. He came to Drain from Portland, where he was engaged in the real estate business.

Parker was about 80 years of age, and is survived by his wife, one son in California and two daughters in New York.

No other paper, daily or weekly, reaches one quarter as many people in the Cottage Grove country as does The Sentinel.

A Correction.

The item last week which stated that W. P. Tucker brought in some prize apples from the O. W. Smith ranch, should have stated that they were from the James Hemenway Mountain View ranch at Dorena.

SENTINEL HOPPED ON FOR CRITICISM OF FAIR

Good Suggestions Made by Member of Grange

There Are Other Years and Other Fairs; With Faces to Future, We'll Do Better Next Time, Says Correspondent.

good reason and was painfully apparent to us all. We were handicapped by the unfortunate accident that happened to our manager. By reason of his constant oversight of the interests of the fair, possibly some of the rest of us have unintentionally grown slack. His disability in the time of need was a matter of regret but not of criticism.

With the head of our fair board disabled and with the interest of another member absorbed in the new high school building, our loss of headway is not much to be wondered at.

But we are not going to chew the cud of bitter memories. Our faces are to the future. There are to be other years and there will be other fairs. We will not be cast down. We will do better next time.

I heartily second the suggestion of one of our business men for the use of a part of our public park for fair purposes if such use be feasible. Never mind the absence of a race track. Its presence is not a necessary adjunct of a successful agricultural fair. One of its chief functions is to absorb the gate receipts. Otherwise than that it is not an unmix good. It leads too easily to race track gambling. A glance about Cottage Grove does not discover any oversupply of racing stock needing exercise. Nor does it discover any pressing need of any.

Grounds suitable for a track in connection with the fair means a big lot of money or a big debt. The latter is a big handicap to a fair. Debt was the old man of the sea of the Grange Fair.

In closing let me say that the possible outcome suggested in your editorial, the cessation of cordial relations between the farmers and the business men of Cottage Grove would be something vastly more to be regretted than the comparative failure of a single fair. That was unfortunate; this would be a calamity. Both sides are too sensible to permit such a result. Both sides have too great results to accomplish working together to waste energies in little resentments. Let little criticisms go for what they are worth—the expression of a momentary impatience or vexation.

The fair itself would mean much more if town and country could unite actively and equally in its promotion. Each could supply what the other lacks. Let the country raise, and let the town help collect and display. We need the enthusiasm which comes from numbers and unity. We need especially the hearty good will and brotherhood feeling which can only come from working shoulder to shoulder in a common cause which touches us all alike. Only thus can we realize the hopes we have set before us for "Greater Cottage Grove."

I have always found the business men singularly ready to work in any cause for the common good, and I can not believe that so small a matter could produce so great a change. Hitching posts are good and a necessary adjunct at the end of a farmer's trip to town, but a common cause in which we all stand with each other and for each other without hitching is better and far more essential.

EUGENE MAN IS KILLED BY TRAIN AT WALKER

Actions Lead to Theory of Probable Suicide

Dead Man Had Been Despondent Because of Long Illness; Leaves Mother, Brother and Sister at Eugene.

Loren Evans, a laborer from Eugene, said to be a suicide, was killed just south of Walker last Wednesday by afternoon southbound passenger No. 19, Ferry, engineer, and Guy, conductor.

The only witness beside the engine crew was Rev. D. Loree, traveling colporteur for the Baptist Publication society, who was a very short distance from the track on his way to this city. He has made affidavit that as the train was heard approaching the man stepped off of the track into a ditch alongside and walked along in this as if intending to remain there until the train passed. As the train came within a few feet of him, the affidavit states, the man sprang to the center of the rails with his back to the approaching train. He was struck by the fender and carried by it about 60 feet before falling beside the track.

The man's back was broken and there were several other serious injuries. It is thought death was instant. The body was shipped to Eugene Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Evans was about 30 years of age and had lived in and near Eugene all his life. He had been in poor health and despondent for some time, and his illness had slightly affected his mind. He leaves a mother, a brother, C. W. Evans and a sister, Miss Minnie Evans. The funeral services were held at the Gordon & Veatch chapel at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, conducted by Rev. J. S. McCallum. The body was taken to Marcola for burial.

We give it to our children, who like it on account of its pleasant taste. It is a safe cure for coughs and colds." It contains no opiates. For sale by all dealers everywhere.

"The biggest noise the world has ever heard," is expected to be made all along the Pacific Coast from British Columbia to Panama at the time the last rock barrier in the Panama Canal is blown out and the waters of the Atlantic and Pacific oceans are united. Arrangements are being made to have the news flashed instantly to every city on the Pacific Coast when the final blast is exploded and it is the intention to have every wheel in each town stopped for a few minutes while bells, whistles and every other known noise-making device compete in the production of noise. As soon as the loose rocks and debris can be removed from the canal after the explosion, which is expected to take place October 10, the canal will be open to the passage of vessels although the official opening will not be announced for several months.

H. E. Bucklen & Co., secured its position of affluence through persistent use of the advertising columns of the country newspapers.

The changeable weather of early fall brings on coughs and colds that have a weakening effect on the system, and may become chronic. Use Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. It has a very soothing and healing effect on the irritated and inflamed air passages, and will help very quickly. It is a well known family medicine that gives results. For sale by all dealers everywhere.
