ever, that it is not all laughter. There is a story that touches the serious side of life, and the character of "Sis" which may be described as a modern Cinderella, appeals strongly to the sympathies. It tells of a girl, young, bright, innocent, care-free, bubbling over with the joy of living, suddenly brought face to face with a great tragedy and burdened with a great responsibility. In the end she overcomes all obstacles, and wins the love of her hero, of course. No play would be complete without a touch of sentiment telling the "old, old story" but in "Sis Perkins" it is treated in an original way and its appeal is unusually strong. "Sis Perkins" is presented this season by a company of unusual ability. It is meeting with marked success all along the line and the people of Cottage Grove will have a treat in store for them on next Wednesday night.
