The booklet is a neat sixteen-page affair representing the articles to be found on sale in the various departments of the big cash store, together with the corresponding price. SACRED CANTATA IS MUSICAL TREAT

Nothing better in music has ever been given in Cottage Grove than the song service and sacred cantata, "Faith and Praise," at the Presbyterian Church Sunday evening. The music was of a peculiar stirring quality, the voices were well trained and perfectly harmonized. The audience which crowded the church was kept tense with interest and appreciation in applause seemed to and appreciation in applause seemed to.

The voices were trained by Miss Esther Silsby.

The soloists were: Misses Anderson, Lockwood, Harms, Smith and Mrs. Griggs; Messrs. Curria, Matthews, Stratton, White

The members of the chorus were: Misses Harms, Lockwood, Anderson, Smith, Lea, Silsby, Mesdames Adams, Griswold, Griggs, Miller, Armes; Messrs. Veatch, Stratton, Anderson, Edwards, Curria, Harvey, Matthews, McCargar, White.

HIGH SCHOOL TEAMS ARE VICTORIOUS

The two high school teams were victorious in a double header basketball tourney at the armory last night, the second girls' team outclassing the first girls' team by a score of 21 to 16 and the second men's team defeating the military club team 21 to 6. The girls' second team under the captaincy of Mae Armstrong, who proved to be the stellar player for her bunch sprung a surprise on the first team by catching the lead early and maintaining it throughout. For some minutes the score stood immovable at 17 to 16 but three field goals in the last four minutes of play put them well in the lead. Arlie Langdon is captain of the first team.

The high school boys had the military club team helpless with their greater weight and better team work. The military team suffered from the absence of Marksbury, who has been out of the game for several days and of Heckart, who is nursing an injured foot. They also showed lack of practice although they put up a game fight at all times in spite of the handicap of circumstances and in the second half held the high school lads to seven points.

The men who played were:
High School Military Club
Smith forward Griffin
Sears forward Counts
Martin center Moore
Danevood guard Spray
Powell guard Michel
Paul Bond refereed the game and Bob Earl umpired.
