F. W. Badler, county farm expert recently appointed by the county court, has taken up his duties and yesterday reported to the court his outlined policy. He will make as his "lenders" the dairy and hog industries, for which this county is so peculiarly fitted, and will push their development as far as possible, at the same time not neglecting other interests of farmers. In speaking of his relation to the farmers of the county, he said, "I want the farmers to feel free to call upon me. If there is anything I can do for them, or which the government can offer, I am here for that purpose."

Holding Thumbs For Nilsson.
My professional vacation has brought me up against almost every conceivable superstition, from brigand's superstition, from the more common place fetich against thirteen as a number. But I never saw any one more obsessed by an idea of this sort than Christine Nilsson. She actually would not sing unless some one "held her thumbs" first. "Holding thumbs" is quite an ancient way of inciting good luck. One promises to "hold one's thumbs" for a friend who is going through some ordeal, like a first night or an operation for appendicitis or a wedding or anything else desperate. Nilsson was the first person I ever knew who practiced the charm the other way about. Before she would even go on the stage somebody, if only the stage carpenter, had to take hold of her two thumbs and press them. She was convinced that the mystic rite brought her good fortune. "Memories of an American Prima Donna," by Clara Louise Kellogg.

Obeyed Orders.
Wife—Didn't you hear me ask you for $10? Husband—I did. Wife—Then why do you give me only $5? Husband—Because you told me yesterday to believe only half what I hear.

Scared Him.
