ADVERTISING RATES.

The Sentinel wishes to again call attention of its advertisers to its advertising rates, as many do not understand the reduction that is given for continuous advertising. The reduction is given the regular advertiser on the theory that it is the regular advertiser who keeps the paper going, and through them a medium is provided for the irregular advertiser. The regular advertiser, as a matter of fact, pays for carrying the unused space and having it there for the irregular advertiser to use. Therefore the irregular advertiser should pay a higher rate than the steady advertiser. The Sentinel's rates are as follows:

DISPLAY—

Base rate, single column inch, 25 cents.
Contract advertising, covering period of six months or more, weekly space occupied to be not less than six inches, 15 per cent discount from base rate. Smaller ads, 10 per cent discount.

Additional discount of 10 per cent on all advertising occupying 60 to 100 inches in a single issue and 20 per cent on advertising occupying 100 inches or more in a single issue.
Where amount of composition is extra heavy an additional charge may be made to any of these rates.
No display ad. received for less than $1.00.
Ads. of not more than three inches 50c per inch for first insertion, other rates and discounts applying to subsequent insertions of same ad. with no change of copy. A change of copy applies the first insertion rate.
