WORK FOR THE MOTHER, TOO.

Not to be in any way outdone by the men, nor to shirk any responsibilities, the women of Cottage Grove are going to assist in the work being conducted here under the auspices of the Oregon Social Hygiene Society. A women's mass meeting has been called for the purpose of giving birth to the movement.

The work of the society can never be successful unless the rising generation can be reached. Mothers are with their children a much greater share of the time than are the fathers. It is the mothers that the little tots go to asking: "May I go down town with so and so?" "May I go to school a little early to play with so and so?" If the father is consulted at all it is usually after the mother has first been asked. So the mother is largely responsible for the associations of her tots in their adolescence. It is usually the mother who is first shocked by hearing the little lips that have lisped so many cunning things form some vulgar word learned from a playmate. It is usually the mother to whom the tots come for an explanation of some mystery of the sexes that has been given in contorted form years before it should have reached their little ears. It is the mother who must make explanations that will satisfy and yet not leave the impression that something is being held back.

Fathers may know more of the dangers that beset their children but the mother who keeps the love and devotion and takes advantage of her constant association with them, can lay the foundation that will keep the toddling feet that have often tracked the floor with mud from following the path of vice and crime; that will keep the chubby arms of her daughter, that have often entwined her neck, from ever being used to embrace a street rowdy; that will keep those cherub lips so oft pressed to hers, from kissing lips befouled with obscene language and from sipping the wine that leads to shame; that will instill in her boy a respect for pure womanhood and pure manhood that will deter him from treating a girl differently than he would wish his own sister treated, that will deter him from associating with men and women whom he would be ashamed to introduce to his mother.

To do this it is not necessary to make "mama" girls and "sissy" boys—but even that would be better than to let girls grow up not knowing themselves—than to let boys grow up believing that to be men they must do the very things that will rob them of manhood and make them unfit for husbands.

Yes, there is a place for women and mothers in this great work.

AN EGOTIST is a person who thinks himself as smart as the mourners at his funeral will say he was.

The kind of education that a boy needs on entering the printing trades is the kind that some schools think he does not need. The printing trades need the boy who has the sort of education that he can put in use, and that kind of education comprehends the ability to write legibly and rapidly, to use arithmetic so as to calculate with precision and dispatch. The printing trades offer great opportunities to boys who have these qualifications combined with reasonable diligence, good habits and good temper. The difficulty is that nearly every other vocation is looking for such boys also.—Inland Printer.

Whenever the Portland Spectator discovers a serious error of grammar in The Oregonian, it writes itself a letter signed "High School Student," and then, under pretense of answering the letter, proceeds to give The Oregonian about the same kind of advice that would be given a child just learning to form "pot-hooks." The Oregonian doesn't seem to be seriously perturbed thereby, but The Spectator gets considerable amusement out of the performance.

If the candidates elected to office do away with other taxes as effectually as some of the platforms do away with syntax, there'll be something doing.

The cannery is a certainty. Growers will hereafter have a market for more than they produce instead of producing more than they can market.

Marion Veatch is too much alive to be a candidate for coroner.

A want ad. in The Sentinel got an old maid three husbands, another ad. brought her three children for adoption; still another ad. located her three husbands for her after they had run away. A want ad. in The Sentinel will do most anything. One cent a word.

Things We Think

Things others think, and what we think of the things others think.

For a game that has been exposed so often it is peculiar that flattery serves its purpose nearly every time.

Some fellows are such spongers that they always want the joke to be at some other fellow's expense.

---

With all the booster advertising heaven has received, there has never been any great emigration movement started.

---

So far as we have heard Huerta hasn't defeated Bryan in any of his chautauqua engagements.

---

Owning a string of automobiles is one way of living a fast life.

---

The June bride's rosy lips are in bloom.

---

If no one got any more than he earned, newspaper men would be the richest people on earth.

---

People who pretend to be happy at least save a whole lot of unhappiness for others.

---

If a man to get married had to produce as good a record as he does to get into the best lodges there wouldn't be so much work for the divorce courts.

---

Nothing takes the backbone out of a person like an empty stomach.

---

The face of a clock is not affected by time.

---

A physical giant is quite often the smallest, measliest whelp on earth.

---

There's a whole lot of difference between traducing and reducing your enemies.

---

Time will let us do absolutely anything with it that we will, except to hold it back.

---

Of course you have not neglected to do today the things that were yesterday put off till tomorrow.

---

Before election a candidate for re-election feels as if all the sins of past and future generations had been loaded upon him—if successful at the polls, he feels that his sins have been washed white as snow.

A dispatch tells of a farmer who awoke one morning and found he had become bald over night. Scientists are puzzled over the freak occurrence, but we believe that a Sherlock Holmes would find a clue in the fact that his wife is now a defendant in a divorce suit.

German investigators have found that radium acts powerfully on dormant plants. After a few hours' exposure to the emanation lilac buds sprang into vigorous growth at the end of November. But a fraction of an ounce of the metal was used in the experiment. We'd like about a ton for use on some human beings we know. About that amount ought to bring about some signs of life.

Flat music is sometimes produced on an upright piano.

---

If there's anything that disappoints a person it is to shake hands with a bright looking person and be handed a flipper with less life in it than in the tail of a shredded codfish.

---

We presume the cooks' union will endorse the skillet hat.

---

An exchange says that ultra violet rays can do anything from exploding torpedoes to lighting lamps. Can they make a diaphanous gown so it can't be seen through?

---

Married folks who don't want to raise families are merely dodging the issue.

---

Some self made men look as if the job had been done at odd moments.

---

Somehow the things we would like to forget stick to us better than the things we would like to remember.

---

It's all right sometimes to call a spade a spade—but we've heard of men going broke trying to make others believe a club was a spade.

---

It's funny that the person who knows it all never puts any of his knowledge into practice.

---

They say there are no marriages in heaven and no polities in hades. What do men do in those places for a living?

---

Women may not be mathematicians, but when it comes to figures they are right there.

---

Over in England the suffragettes are throwing bombs. Over here they are casting ballots.

---

Women are said to be the wine of life, but probably even they would not claim that they improve with age.

---

Biblical saying revised: If a man slap thy right cheek, turn him the other—and while he's slapping that catch him one in the solar plexus.

---

The Goddess of Liberty is the only girl we know of who could be forever going into men's trouser's pockets and still retain an unsullied reputation.

---

The faces our girl friends made up at at us when we went to school together were more enticing than those they made up for us when we got old enough to call on them.

---

Sometimes a bald headed man has plenty of heirs.

---

We have heard of animals with extra heads and legs and men of many minds—but for monstrosities the office seeker with his hundred or more tales takes the prize.

---

A lot of people who lay up treasures in heaven may never have the pleasure of spending them.

---

When a man meets with an accident that results in a swollen eye, a broken bone or two and a few twisted joints, it can be said that he's in bad shape.

---

Even if a man does win his suit he can't wear it for the wedding ceremony.

---

The lessons taught by experience are seldom forgotten by the pupils.

---

It is perfectly correct to play a diamond to your best girl's heart lead.

---

The person who marries for money doesn't demand very much.

---

Matrimony and alimony are spelled incorrectly. There should be an "e" inserted before the "y."

---

Changing your mind a dozen times a day does not always give you fresh ideas.

---

It seems as if the most kicking about the actions of public officials is done by those who wouldn't accept office themselves or who, if in office, couldn't do as well as those they criticise.

---

We admire a man on the other side who has the courage of his convictions more than we do someone on our side who acts as if he wanted to keep it a secret.

---

The person who uses too many I's is guilty of a capital offense.

---

When a man makes too much of a fool of himself over a girl he usually lands in the clerk of court's office to be examined for a marriage license.

---

There's no reason for being unreasonable.

---

When an officeholder gets unseated it takes the conceit out of him.

---

If other people could go from tears to laughter as easily as the little tots, this would be a much happier old world.

---

A man who uses his I's too much does not seem to be able to see that it is a bad fault.

---

Someone wants everything you've got. If you want to get rid of anything, put a want ad. in The Sentinel. One cent a word. apr22-tf

Is a compendium of the finest recipes for

Baking and Cooking in this Climate

Climatic conditions are very important in cooking and baking; what applies to the high altitude of the East is not adaptable to the sea level of this section. That is why successful Eastern formulae are often failures here. The Fairies Cook Book, just issued by the Fisher Flouring Mills Company, manufacturers of the perfect All-Purpose Flour, made of choicest Eastern hard wheat and choicest Western soft wheat, was prepared with this fact in mind. Mrs. Isabella Sweezy, recognized authority on the art of cookery, prepared and tested every one of its 156 recipes. For successful baking in this climate the Fairies Cook Book has no equal. We will mail you the book if you fill out and send us coupon below, together with Ten Cents (cash or stamps.)

Fisher's Blend Flour
