Mrs. S. B. Moss has written a letter from Post, Crook County, saying that they are comfortably settled there for the summer with the Knox family. Mrs. Moss writes that she has seen wheat growing at an elevation of 4,000 feet and that farming there reminds her of what farming would be like in the Bohemia district here. She reports that apples, prunes and cherries and other small fruit grow there but that a crop can not be depended upon. Post is reached by a stage ride of 38 miles and from the fact that Mrs. Moss says the trip brought back to her mind occasions when she had seen the teacher jerk children out of their seats and slam them back again, it would appear that the trip furnished plenty of diversion.

Fruit all over the county had a close call from frost Monday and Tuesday nights, but it is thought that what damage was done here will prove negligible. Monday night the thermometer was very near the freezing point and the sky clear when the wind suddenly changed, sweeping in clouds which stopped the thermometer from dropping lower. Several local fruit growers expressed themselves as of the opinion that the frost which lay rather white in places this morning did but little damage. One said that even if it did nip some of the fruit it would only serve to thin it out, which would be an advantage as it is now too thick.

READING ROOM OPEN TWO NIGHTS OF WEEK

The reading room of the public library will hereafter be kept open Friday evenings in addition to Saturday evening, but the library proper will not be open except as before. The magazines ordered some time ago for the reading room are arriving and the board hopes that enough use will be made of them to make the expense worth while. The board would like to keep the reading room open every evening and wishes reliable parties would volunteer their services in taking charge of the room. A large part of the seventy-eight books recently ordered have arrived and the remainder will be here within a few days. The list is made up largely of juvenile and fiction and some excellent books are included.

FIRE DEPARTMENT CALLED TWICE IN 24 HOURS

Twice within twenty-four hours the fire company responded to alarms this week. Sunday afternoon at about three o'clock a fire of unknown origin broke out on the roof of the porch of M. T. Winger's house just east of the city limits. The flames were extinguished by the neighbors with buckets of water before the arrival of the firemen. Again about 6:30 o'clock Monday morning the department was called by an alarm of fire turned in from the residence of W. H. Abrams. This proved to be merely a fine fire and did no damage.
