around him. This obviates the sense of fright which seizes some babies.

No sooner have we really accustomed our gait to the narrow skirts to the extent that we aren't forgetting and taking steps that cause our skirts to trip us, flaring skirts are announced. Circular flounces, the flare cut into the skirt proper and an ingenious plaiting just at the knees are three of the ways for gaining the latest effect in skirts. The flares are also very much in evidence on the coats. Advance styles for the fall also show that the so-called bell skirted coats are to be quite the thing this coming winter.

Ruffles about the feet on the dainty summer gowns are both pretty, quaint and extremely stylish.

One finds great difficulty in obtaining a waist pattern which opens in the back these days, but if one has a handsome piece of hand-embroidery for a waist which makes it imperative to have a back opening, one clever little style has been advanced which is both stylish and practical. A V-shaped band forms the outline around the neck and the material is softly gathered onto this band, with the one piece sleeves and opening down the back. It is the gathers, which give the tone of style to the blouse and at the same time one keeps one's embroidery intact.

To make delicious strawberry ice mix four cups of water and one and one half cups of sugar, add one table-spoonful of lemon juice and the berries washed and squeezed through a double cheese-cloth; strain and freeze.

Shoes and pumps of bronze are extremely popular, though white and black are quite as good as ever for summer dress shoes and, of course, nothing will ever quite take the place of the russet shoe for sporting and general summer wear.

If slugs bother your flower or vegetable garden to any extent try sprinkling lime over the ground. This not only kills the destructive slugs, but also acts in the nature of a fertilizer for the earth.

But wing or set-in sleeves still retain their popularity.

Now that local grocers are obtaining futures on the pineapple stock, enabling them to sell the canned pineapple at a much lower price than during the winter months, a recipe for pineapple pie is most timely. The following recipe was obtained from a successful caterer and is one which is unusually delightful. This recipe makes enough filling for one pie, and the crust is, of course, made as usual.

Filling for Pineapple Pie.
Half can grated pineapple, half can of water, or an amount of water equal to the amount of pineapple, sweetened to taste and add a pinch of salt. Thicken the mixture with cornstarch, boiling the above all together and put into the crust just as in making lemon pie. Whipped cream or meringue made of the beaten whites of eggs should be spread over the top of the pie. If eggs are used the pie should be set into the oven for a moment to brown the meringue.

A simple salad which is extremely quick and easy to make is made of nice ripe bananas cut in half lengthwise, covered with mayonnaise dressing and liberally sprinkled with nuts. Either peanuts or walnuts may be used, although many prefer the peanuts. The salad should be served on a crisp lettuce leaf. This is a salad which is wonderfully simple and quick to make and is even more delicious than it is simple.

Apropos of the pie recipe comes the suggestion of one very fine cook who imparts the secret that the use of boiling water in mixing the pie dough, will make a crust of remarkable flakiness and tenderness.

Cow Bumped by Train.

Bumped by the Shasta Limited this morning and knocked down a twenty foot embankment, a valuable cow belonging to Jas. McFarland, got up and walked away much as if nothing had happened. Mr. McFarland had staked the cow out near the tracks just south of the depot yard, but the rope was just long enough to permit her getting on the track. She stepped onto the track just as the train approached. The engineer slowed down and stopped as quickly as possible but not before the cow had been struck on the hip. No bones were broken.
