KNOWLES & GRABER
AGENTS

The Most Reliable PEOPLE

It is a recognized fact in the business world that the most reliable people are those who own their own homes. They are the ones who can be depended upon—they are the backbone of the Nation. If it is credit at a store, the merchant has more confidence in the man who owns his own home than in the renter who can pack up and pull out at a moment's notice. If it is a loan, the man who has shown habits of industry and thrift, as exemplified in the ownership of his own home, is the man who is given preference. He is the man who is considered a good risk for a non-collateral loan.

Your opportunity to become one of this favored class can be found in Manitou Park Addition on Ninth Street, which is becoming a favorite residence district.

CAPTAIN IS BLAMED FOR SEA DISASTER

Responsibility for Sinking of Steamer Empress of Ireland Placed on Anderson

Rimouski, Quebec. — Responsibility for the deaths of nearly 1000 persons who perished when the collier Storstad rammed and sank the great Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Ireland, was placed squarely on Captain Thomas Anderson of the collier, by Captain H. G. Kendall of the lost vessel.

Captain Kendall, testifying before a coroner's jury declared failure of the Storstad's captain to observe whistle signals caused the collision. Neglect to hold the Storstad's nose in the hole in the Empress killed the last hope of rescue.

Captain Says Proper Signals Given.
Captain Kendall in substance testified that he had taken all possible precautions against a collision. His ship had been stopped, he gave the requisite signals when the Danish collier Storstad, which dealt the blow which sent the Empress to the bottom, was still two miles away, but the collier had kept on through the fog which settled down soon after the two vessels sighted each other, and had rammed the Empress of Ireland when the latter vessel was virtually motionless.

Then, despite his plea to the master of the collier that he run his engines full speed ahead to keep the hole in the liner's side plugged with the Storstad's bow, said Captain Kendall, the Danish vessel backed away, the water rushed in and the Empress sank.

Crash Occurs Near Shore.
The crash occurred not far from the shore off Father Point, 150 miles from Quebec, and 10 miles from this point on the St. Lawrence. In reality, therefore, although the liner was heading for the sea and the collier coming in from it, the disaster was not one of the ocean, but of the river.

Accounts agree that in the brief space of time—not more than 14 minutes—between the shock of the collision and the sinking of the liner, there was little chance for systematic marshalling of the passengers.

Captain Stood on Bridge.
Captain Kendall stood on his bridge as the ship went down. One of the boats from the liner picked him up and he directed its work of saving others until the craft was loaded. The captain was injured in the crash and suffered from exposure, but his speedy recovery is expected.

Few women were among the saved. The lists make it appear not more than a dozen.

"It all happened so quickly that we did not really know what was going on and nobody had time to cry 'Women first,'" one of the passengers told Captain Bellinger, of the rescue boat Eureka.

Of the 1387 persons on board only 418 are known to have been saved, making the probable death list 969.

ANDERSON DENIES CHARGE

Empress Blamed for Vessels' Separation After the Collision.

Montreal.—With her bows crumpled in and twisted and a gap showing on the port side only a foot or so above the waterline, in mute evidence of the tragedy in which she figured, the Norwegian collier, Storstad, docked here and a few minutes later a warrant of arrest, taken out by the Canadian Pacific railway, was nailed to her main mast.

According to the captain and officers, contrary to what had been said by the captain of the Empress, the Storstad did not back away after the collision. On the contrary, she steamed ahead in an effort to keep her bow in the hole she had dug into the side of the Empress.

The Empress, however, according to the Storstad's officers, headed away and bent the Storstad's bow over at an acute angle to port. After that the Empress was hidden from view of the other ship, and despite the fact that the Storstad kept her whistle going, she could not locate the Empress until the cries of the victims in the water were heard.

THE WHITE FROCK

An Important Part of the Little Folks' Summer Wardrobe.

SIMPLE, YET DAIN'TILY CHIC.

Even Fine Robes May Be Trimmed With Imitation Laces or Fashioned From Embroidered Flouncings—Pin Tucking Is in Favor.

White frocks for the little folks are an important part of the summer wardrobe. Those sold in the shops are often wonderful creations, much of whose beauty depends on the exquisite handwork. The fond mother who has time may duplicate many of these gowns at a moderate cost.

Those who are in search of a specially attractive model will find the little girl's dress illustrated here worth careful study. The garment may be fashioned of lawn, batiste or linen. It is adorned with both lace and embroidery.

Valenciennes lace and medallions are used. A dainty blue sash is drawn around the waist. Worn with white socks and button strap slippers, this makes a charming outfit for the little tot.

Use For Embroidered Flouncings. Nothing is more satisfactory for children's white frocks than machine embroidered flouncings and bandings.

CHILD'S WHITE FROCK.

The double tunic skirt with a low placed sash is a much fancied style. And just a hint about this low placed sash. It is hard to keep such sashes from slipping down on the slender little figure unless the ribbon is run through slashes in the frock, but this fashion is not so much favored now as the handsome sash of ribbon or velvet tied loosely and apparently with carelessness around the figure. Of course there must be something to hold that sash up.

Fine Frocks Are Costly.
When it comes to the exquisitely fine white frock, trimmed with lace and machine embroidery and set together with hand stitching, one must pay a rather extravagant amount or make the frock at home, and such frocks mothers prefer to make. If need be, buying the cheaper play frocks in quantity in the shops.

White Paris muslin, infinitely fine and sheer and costing $1 a yard, will never "thicken up" in the laundering, but there are many grades of fine white batiste from 25 cents the yard up which are very satisfactory. Instructible voile, sheer as gossamer, yet sturdy in character because of its beautiful weave and the excellent cotton of its threads, is another favorite.

Imitation Laces Favored.
Hems, wide tucks and pin tucking are put in with hand stitches.

The favored laces are real or imitation Irish crochet, the ideal lace for children, and shadow or fillet lace combined with entre deux of val or Normandy lace. Wide vals do not launder satisfactorily enough for children's frocks that must go to the tub every week.

For a gown of the moment simple designs are preferred to elaborate ones. After all, good taste dictates that children's garments should not be over-elaborate. For everyday wear serviceable linens are favored. Kate Greenaway and other quaint ideas are utilized by designers in search of inspiration.

RHUBARB CHARLOTTE.

Butter a pie dish, melt a desertsportful of sugar over the fire with a little water and pour this in. Now put a layer of bread and butter, then a layer of finely sliced rhubarb, a little more melted sugar, and repeat till dish is full. Beat up an egg and cover the top if sweet is not meant to be turned out. If intended to be turned out mix the egg with a little milk and pour in. Cover the topmost layer with a greased paper to keep it from burning and becoming too crisp. Bake for one hour, turn out, sprinkle with sugar and serve with custard.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.
