

Dishes Free to Customers

We are conducting a twenty-seven weeks' trade building campaign and every week some one of our customers will receive a beautiful set of dishes free.

With every 25c purchase we give a numbered coupon. These coupons are given on charge accounts when the same are paid. Every Thursday during the campaign at 3:00 o'clock one of the seals will be taken from the large display card in our store and the person in the store at the time holding the coupon with the number nearest to the one taken from the seal will receive a handsome 42-piece Sterling China Dinner Set absolutely free. On the twenty-seventh week a 100-piece set will be given. Coupons should be carefully preserved as each one is good in each drawing and one that does not win one week may win the next.

Call and See the Dishes on Display.—Remember that It Costs Nothing to Get These Coupons with Your Grocery Purchases, but that You Must Be in the Store at the Time of Drawing to Win the Set of Dishes.

Were You Among the Number Who Miss Coleman Delighted?

Yes, Miss Coleman (the noted Boston Beauty Specialist) left Saturday, but during her stay she gave much valuable advice to the ladies of Cottage Grove, which, if heeded, cannot fail to result in a clear complexion.

Her elaborate demonstration of Harmony Perfumes and Toilet Articles was a complete success. Everywhere, everyone commented on the exceptional merits of this popular line of toilet requisites, and the best of it is, they really deserve every bit of praise tendered them.

For Real Quality, Distinctive Creations and True Floral Sweetness
HARMONY TOILET PREPARATIONS ARE UNEXCELLED

We are exclusive distributors, and carry a complete line at all times. If you were one of Miss Coleman's guests we know you will use no other line—if you were not, then we want you to test these really exquisite Harmony Beauty Aids.

The Busy Bee Club met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Miss Helen Rudolf. Thirteen were present and spent a very enjoyable afternoon. Mrs. Rudolf served a very dainty luncheon. The next meeting of the club will be with Rouama Armstrong.

A very attractive affair was the choir reunion party of the Presbyterian Church given last evening by Mrs. Herbert Eakin, Mrs. H. A. Miller, Mrs. George Kerr, Miss Neva Perkins and Miss Esther Silby at the home of Mrs. Eakin. About thirty-five were present and enjoyed an evening of games and music. The house was prettily decorated with Shasta daisies and the hostesses served delicious refreshments.

SOCIETY
Tuesday evening of last week a party of young men and women went out to Walden in automobiles for a picnic party. The affair was planned for the pleasure of Miss Ruth Kennedy who was the guest of Miss Jessie Smith. About fifteen were in the party and a very gay evening was spent.

A very pretty wedding was that of Ralph Lynch and Miss Ethel Damewood which was solemnized Saturday evening at the Methodist Episcopal parsonage in Lorane. Rev. F. W. Snyder performed the ceremony. The wedding came as a great surprise to all the friends of the young people who did not anticipate that the event would occur so soon. They will make their home in Lorane.

Miss Eva Mae Young, daughter of G. H. Young of this city, was married at Portland June 30 to Anville James Arnette. The ceremony took place in the study of Rev. B. R. Hawkins of the Central Christian church, only the contracting parties and witnesses being present.

FADS AND FANCIES.
By Harriette
Piano lamps are back in popular favor.

Beautiful fancy combs with high backs are being very much worn with the new style of hair-dress in which the hair is combed high up on top of the head. The bangs, also which are a part of this coiffure remind one very strongly of the style which was so popular about fifteen years ago.

A new idea for decorating a dinner or luncheon table is to have a center vase of crystal joined to either four or six smaller crystal vases in the same pattern as the central one. Glass chains connect them. Dainty sprays are used in such a centerpiece and are most effective. One woman who could not afford to buy a regular set got five glass candle sticks with rather deep sockets for the candles and groups them on her table using small delicate sprays in them. They are nearly as lovely as the manufactured sets with the chains.

Now that nearly everyone is enthusiastically playing tennis a word about a cunning tennis costume might not be amiss. One very charming young lady, who has played a great deal at championship matches all along the coast, wears a most attractive costume of white cotton poplin, made with loose blouse with a soft rolling collar under which is drawn a tie of brightest green. Her jaunty little white hat has a sash of the same green. So many of the girls who play tennis have more or less trouble keeping their hair in place that they should know how securely a little duck hat which fits well will keep the hair. Really, you have no more to trouble with your hair when wearing one of these hats than if you had no hair.

Silk undervests seem a great luxury when you do not stop to consider their advantages but when you do you will realize the added comfort of a silk vest and its greater durability over most cotton ones, and you will immediately go purchasing. You can get very nice ones indeed for a dollar and a half each. One girl who wears no other kind says, "There is nothing quite like the comfort and satisfaction of a silk undervest." They come in many different styles—knitted in different stitches and grades of silk and also made of the jap silk. Although those of the jap silk are hardly so nice as the knitted ones still they are very nice and you will find that you can make them yourself very cheaply. A chemise pattern can be adapted for the purpose.

Cretonne in any of its riotous flower or conventionalized patterns is unquestionably the best material for hangings and pillows and chair and couch covers in the summer home or in any of the more modest styles of homes for all the year around. Indeed, in many of the very pretentious homes cretonnes are extensively used. Cretonne may be had in thousands of different very beautiful designs and at nearly every price from 35 cents to $10.00 a yard depending upon the quality and design. There is no material more adaptable to different uses, and no present day material which is being given such careful study by the designers and manufacturers.

A most attractive luncheon set was made of circles cut from a pretty cretonne and edged with a very narrow edging of crochet. Such sets are easily laundered as well as easily made and are very stylish as well.

At LaGrange it has been decided to build a new exhibit hall near the depot. The building will be modern and will be so located that its contents can readily be seen from all trains. It will include an office for the county agriculturalist, who will have charge of the exhibit.

In order to raise the money with which to install a municipal lighting system, Drain has voted to sell $6000 worth of city bonds. As soon as the bonds are disposed of, the contract for the construction will be let.

FARM LIVE STOCK.

Hogs should be fed three times a day. If on good pasture, the slop may be light; the judgment of the feeder must determine the quality.

Never let the colt nurse if the mare is heated. Strip a little of the milk from the mare to relieve the udder.

There will be fewer scrub horses in the future than there have been heretofore. It is no longer considered good business to breed to diseased and crippled stallions.

Give the pigs a variety of feed. Their rapid and profitable growth will more than repay the thought and care.

Good care and clean food will ward off cholera and other sickness. Banish the sour swill barrel.

A sheep flock should be culled closely every fall, and every year should see a marked improvement in it.

VALUE OF SILAGE AS A FEED FOR HORSES

[Prepared by United States department of agriculture.]

Silage has not been generally fed to horses, partly on account of a certain amount of danger which attends its use for this purpose, but still more, perhaps, on account of prejudice. In many cases horses have been killed by eating moldy silage, and the careless person who fed it at once blamed the silage itself rather than his own carelessness and the mold which really was the cause of the trouble. Horses are peculiarly susceptible to the effects of molds, and under certain conditions molds grown on silage are very deadly poisons to both horses and mules. Molds must have air to grow, and therefore silage which is packed airtight and fed out rapidly will not become moldy. If the feeder watches the silage carefully as the weather warms up he can soon detect the presence of mold. When mold appears, feeding to horses or mules should stop immediately.

Corn to be made into silage for horses should not be cut too green, as sour silage will result and may cause colic when fed. The corn should be well matured and cut when the grain is beginning to glaze. The silo should be filled rapidly, and the corn should be vigorously tramped and packed while filling. At least three men should be inside the silo, moving constantly, two around the edges and the third across and around the center. This is by far the most important point in connection with feeding silage to horses, and the lives of the horses fed on silage may depend on the thoroughness with which the tramping is done. If properly done no danger is likely to result; if not properly done air pockets may form and cause the accumulation of a small mass of mold which the feeder may overlook, but which might be sufficient to kill one or more horses.

Despite the growth of the automobile industry the draft horse holds his own—that is, drafters of good quality. Extra drafters are bringing on the Chicago and New York markets $60 to $80 per pair. This seems to show that the farmer who has stocked his place with growing draft colts that have size, quality, stamina, style, action and intelligence has a good prospect. But to make money in raising horses the farmer must raise good ones. The other kind are a drug on the market.

The value of silage for horses is greatest as a means to carry them through the winter season cheaply or to supplement pasture during drought. As the danger of mold is greater in summer than in winter, silage should not be fed to horses in that season unless a large number of animals are getting it and the daily consumption is so large as to preclude the formation of mold on the surface.

To cheapen the ration of brood mares in winter no feed has more value than good corn silage. If the grain goes into the silo with the stover no additional grain is needed for brood mares, hay being the only supplementary feed necessary. If there is little grain on the corn the silage should be supplemented with one pound of old process linseed oil meal or cottonseed meal daily per 1,000 pounds live weight, sprinkled over the silage.

Limited Liability Removed.
Live stock shippers will be interested in the passing by the United States senate of the Cummins bill which removes the limited liability of railroads on shipments of live stock injured or destroyed en route. In order to avoid paying much higher rates shippers have been compelled to undervalue in the bills of lading live stock shipments.

Good Form

Training Maids.
A little patience and system in dealing with maids, especially if they be young ones, without very much experience, will often work miracles. Even if they are older and can justly claim to be experienced, there is always much for them to learn in entering a new household.

Every mistress has her own particular way of having certain things done, and the new girl must conform to this way even if she has been accustomed to doing the same work in a different manner.

One mistress encourages her "green" girls by engaging them at a small wage and increasing it as they master various menus. When the maid can prepare all of them she is given the sum that her ability would earn for her anywhere.

It is not hard to teach a girl to cook by this system. Most girls will take a deeper interest in their cooking than they will in many other branches of housework, and if instructed by this or some other equally good and definite system they will try harder and hence learn more rapidly than when instructed in a haphazard way.

Correct Stationery.
The newest note paper is very long and very narrow and fits into envelopes of precisely the size of the unfolded sheet. This style is smartest in dark cream and pale gray tones.

Then there are the sheets of heavy linen in buff, blue and gray that must be once folded lengthwise to fit into their envelopes, and there are the sheets of very thin but stout white paper which fold once to fit into square envelopes lined with a color. These formerly were used only for foreign correspondence, but now they are coming into domestic use.

Correspondence cards never have been daintier, and everybody is now using them at the slightest excuse. Some of them are absolutely square, and some of them are long and narrow, with beveled edges.

Artistic Compliments.
It is not the compliment that is, so to speak, laid on with a trowel that really reaches our hearts. No; it is the delicate and subtle sort that we do not recognize as a compliment.

This species is best and most successful when it is expressed by deeds rather than by words. Let some one show a decided liking for our society when there are others present who are more attractive or clever or famous and how can we help but be pleased?

If their amusements and interests take a second place and ours usurp the first, then that, too, is a delightful form of flattery.

Table Usage.
Good manners at the table stamp the well bred person. The knife is used only in cutting the food, never to raise any particle of it to the mouth. A few general rules follow:

Lettuce is cut with the fork, a small portion rolled about the tines and thus eaten.

Oranges are peeled, cut or divided into quarters and eaten, or cut in half and eaten with the orange spoon, a spoon narrower and smaller than the ordinary tablespoon.

The Unfriendly Reminder.
Of all trying things the "I told you so" person is one of the worst. When you confide any trouble to them you are usually met with an "I told you so, but you wouldn't listen to me," which is distinctly annoying. They really might have the generosity not to rub it in. There is very little chance that you would have forgotten their warning, and they might refrain from the petty satisfaction of reminding you of their superior wisdom.

The Family Bore.
Friends and even members of a family ought to take care not to overstep the border line between interest and inquisitiveness. If one has been out and comes back looking pleased, it is annoying to be immediately asked, "Well, whom have you been with?" and then requested to go into details of the pleasant time spent.

Cordiality to Newcomers.
A resident of a town or village can call with propriety on any newcomer and the newcomer should return this call if she desires to continue the acquaintance. The time of calling is settled by the customs of the place, but after two o'clock and before six is generally correct.

When to Call.
Ceremonious calls are not made between women in the morning, evening or on Sunday afternoons. A man, owing to the exactions of business, may call in the evening and on Sunday afternoon.

Tea Invitations.
Invitations to afternoon teas are very often in the form of visiting cards. On the lower left hand corner of the card write "At home from 3 until 6, Thursday, April 20."

Hospitality to Strangers.
Before an invitation of hospitality is given to a stranger a call should first be made.
