Health Resort Talked.
Ashland.—Encouraged by outside as well as home influences, the possibility of creating in the state of Oregon a popular watering place and health resort is being studied by the commercial interests of Ashland, with the help and advice of the industrial and survey department of the University of Oregon school of commerce.
The help of the consular service of the United States has been enlisted through the efforts of Director H. B. Miller, of the school of commerce, who was a visitor in Ashland during the Chautauqua period, and data, financial statements, analyses of business and advertising policies and of medical and sanitation attractions are being collected from all the famous water places in both hemispheres.

"Agate" Carnival Is Set.
Port Orford.—The annual Agate Carnival will be held August 6, 7 and 8.
The exhibition will be in a large tent located on the lake front near the ocean and two miles and a half from town. There are fine camping grounds near the lake, with boating, swimming and fishing in connection, making the location ideal for such a celebration.

Ashland to Sell Own Bonds.
Ashland.—Owing to unsatisfactory bids on the $175,000 auxiliary water bond issue, a special committee will take up the matter of disposing of the securities direct to investors at private sale, in blocks to suit purchasers. The bonds bear 5 per cent, and par and accrued interest will be the least the city will accept. They run for 30 years and will be redeemed serially.

STANDARD RULES READY
Regulations Will be Forwarded to School Officers.

Salem.—Rules for the standardization of the rural and village schools of the state will be mailed to the county superintendents by State Superintendent of Public Instruction Churchill. The rules were adopted at a recent meeting of county school superintendents held in this city.

Rules will be posted in all school-rooms and when all requirements have been met certificates will be provided by the state department. It is believed that the plan will result in Oregon not only having the most sanitary schools of any state, but will make the schools leaders from an educational standpoint.

Mr. Churchill announced his plan of standardization at a meeting of the State Teachers' Association in Salem last December and a committee drafted a set of rules. Oregon was one of the pioneer states in standardizing schools in districts of the second and third classes, much progress along that line having been made in Coos, Polk, Marion, Linn, Lane, Douglas, Jackson, Klamath, Umatilla and Yamhill counties.

The most important rule relates to sanitation and Mr. Churchill is determined that it be enforced if possible. He believes it will save the lives of many pupils and will make for efficiency by conserving the health of the pupils.

$2500 For 35 Cars of Prunes.
Freewater.—Thirty-five carloads of prunes have been sold to a Chicago firm and $2500 has been placed in the bank to bind the contract just made by the Lamb Fruit company. The contract will net the growers from $32 to $35 per ton. The prunes are to be paid for as soon as they are loaded on the cars and the company believes the price will bring it the bulk of the valley crop.

Early Apples Are Stripped.
Hood River.—The strawberry and cherry season has passed and the apple-shipping season has opened. Carload lots of small fruits have been discontinued, although the Apple-growers' association is still receiving small express lots of both cherries and berries.

Potato Beetle Appears at Union.
Union.—The Colorado beetle has made its appearance in this valley and potato growers are endeavoring to stamp out the pest in its incipency. Thus far the damage has been slight. Potato farmers are thoroughly aroused and every effort will be exerted to head off this unwelcome immigrant.

Rogue Fishing Limited.
Grants Pass.—There are very few Chinook salmon on the upper river now, and the most of the boats of the commercial fishing fleet have discontinued fishing.

THE POULTRYMAN.

A hen is not lazy by nature and will surprise you in what she can do if given the right chance.

It costs but the merest trifle more to feed a hen that lays 150 eggs a year than one that lays sixty.

Keeping too many breeds is a poor way to succeed. One or two varieties given the best of care are preferable.

A poultryman who is too careless to keep the henhouse free from vermin does not deserve to succeed.
Poultry should be kept off feed twenty-four hours before being killed and dressed for market.

Have some way of telling the oldest eggs, then sell them.

Be sure to provide some shade in the runs, or it will be found that some of the chicks will not feather.

Chicks that have been drowned in watering tanks that some one forgot to empty would make a good sized flock.

DEMAND FOR CAPONS IS SURE AND STEADY

[By G. Benoy, president of the Kansas Poultry federation.]

The advantages to be derived from caponizing are many. Capons make considerably larger growth than cockerels, and their flesh remains soft indefinitely. This permits the grower to hold them over the crowded fall market and sell them to best advantage during the winter months. Not only do they make greater weight, but the price per pound is much higher, so the income per bird is considerably increased and the profits correspondingly enlarged.

Further, they are very quiet and docile, not inclined to take vigorous exercise, which makes hard flesh, and never fighting among themselves or annoying the other stock. The experienced poultryman will appreciate relief from these vexations.

The practice of caponizing these surplus males, especially from the late broods, is not only profitable to the producer of poultry for market, but possesses many advantages for the backyard poultryman, who primarily Cockerels may be a source of profit if properly managed—that is, caponized and fattened. Cockerels should be emulsated at three months of age, and at the age of ten months they are ready sellers on the market at high prices. To fatten capons keep wheat, cracked corn, milled oats, beef scrap and charcoal constantly before them in choppers. Toward the end of the fattening period feed a milk mash composed of wheat midds, bran, ground oats and cornmeal. The picture shows a bunch of White Leghorn capons.

aims to supply his own table with fine chickens. A bunch of capons may be kept in a small space and will demand little care and attention. They may be dressed at any age and will be found to be most delicious. They will continue to gain in weight until eight or nine months of age and when full grown can be maintained at slight food cost.

During the entire growing season the poultryman should keep a sharp eye on his flocks of youngsters and early dispose of all pullets which fail to measure up to the required standard of physical perfection. This includes such as are in any way deformed, having twisted toes, crooked backs or breasts, crossbills, etc.; also those which do not develop satisfactorily or give evidence of lacking in stamina or constitutional vigor. None of these deserves a place in the breeding or laying flocks. They are without values themselves and occupy space and demand food and care which might better be devoted to the individuals which give promise of being profitable producers.

There is, moreover, a constant and steady demand for fat, well finished capons.

Poultry Shows.
It is time to begin feeding your exhibition birds for the coming poultry shows if you want to get the prizes. All young birds should be matured so that they will go into the showroom in full feather and weighing very close to the standard requirements. The old birds should be fed so that they will be well over their molt and in full feather before the exhibition season begins.

Individuality!
Distinctiveness!

The man who attracts attention in this old world is the one who is different from the ordinary run of mankind; the man with individuality--with a personality peculiarly his own. It is the same with job printing--to attract attention it must have individuality---distinctiveness---personality---it must be The Sentinel kind.

Why Use Wall Paper

It is the common opinion of the average person contemplating building that he must use wallpaper, because of the prevailing idea that it is cheaper. We will prove to you that plastering is cheaper than wallpaper, besides being more sanitary, more attractive, warmer in winter and cooler in summer.

There are many other reasons which we shall be glad to take up in detail with you. Let us talk it over.
