MINERS MAY HAVE FOUND LONG LOST TREASURE

Men Doing Secret Work Near Saginaw Thought to Have Trace of Diggings Worked Twenty Years Ago and Later Abandoned.

Secretly working on property near Saginaw, about two miles back from the railroad, a party of Montana mining men are said to be taking out rich gold and copper ores. Although the men doing the work have been most secretive, some inkling of their operations have become public property. A story of considerable interest of findings of rich ore somewhere in the vicinity of the present diggings—possibly at the exact spot—is current. This story relates the experience of a man who settled in that neighborhood in 1863, found what he thought to be a rich ledge and sent the specimens to Portland to be assayed. He left for California shortly afterward and the word came to him there from the assayer that the specimens gave no indications of a rich ledge. He forgot all about the incident until a number of years later when he received a letter saying that the specimens had been very rich. Immediately upon receiving this letter he returned to Oregon in 1893, and tried to locate the ledge from which he had broken the specimens. Because of the weathering processes and growth of vegetation which had taken place in the intervening twenty years he was unable to locate it and returned to California where he was drowned shortly afterward. The matter was nearly forgotten until the present workings in the vicinity recalled the incident, but it is considered probable that the present operators have found the lost ledge.

THINKS PEAR BLIGHT ERADICATED

Fruit Inspector Stewart Certain That Drastic Action Has Saved Orchards.

That pear blight was eradicated from Lane County with the burning of two orchards in this vicinity a couple weeks ago, is the opinion of Fruit Inspector Stewart. Mr. Stewart has within the last week examined every orchard from the Douglas County border to the Linn County border and has found no trace of the disease. The blight is most destructive and about the only means of dealing with it is to burn the trees affected. It has worked great havoc in the Rogue River orchards and seems to be coming north. Mr. Stewart is taking every precaution to prevent its spreading.

In his trip about the county Mr. Stewart says he was pleasantly surprised to find that the Italian prune crop is heavier than he had anticipated. He believes that there are prunes in sufficient quantity to warrant picking them. The petite prune crop is very heavy.

GRANGE FAIR WILL FEATURE EUGENIC CONTEST

Babies of Community to Be Judged by New Standard of Perfect Physical Development—All Children Under Five May Be Entered.

Cottage Grove is to have its first better babies contest at the grange fair September 19. In line with the movement all over the United States for better babies, the grange fair committee has decided to abandon the old fashioned baby show at which dimples, pink cheeks and soft hair were the prize winning features and stage a eugenic contest of the kind made so popular everywhere through the efforts of the Woman's Home Companion. In these contests a competent physician examines each child entered for smoothness of skin, firmness of flesh, strength of bone, digestion, respiration, nervousness and degree of development in attention, observation, etc. Any child five years of age or under may be entered in this contest. Any parent who wishes to enter a child may obtain further particulars from the members of the committee, Mrs. J. R. Cooley, Mrs. George Hall, Mrs. Chas. Adams, Mrs. David Griggs and Mrs. B. R. Job. The prizes to be awarded include the medal for the grand champion girl, the medal for the grand champion boy, certificate for winner in each class and score card for each contestant. The examining nurse and physicians will give parents advice for the improvement of their children.
