Weekly Industrial Review

A great celebration is being planned by Springfield for the official opening day of the Booth-Kelly sawmill, Saturday, August 29. The mill is run entirely by electricity, is vast in size and capacity and one of the most modern mills in the world. Following are some interesting statistical figures concerning it:

Capacity of mill, 150,000 feet for 10-hour run.

All machinery except carriage, gang saw and log turners operated by electric motors, ranging from ¼ to 350 horsepower each.

Number of electric motors, 65.

Aggregate horsepower, 2150.

Number of men employed in plant at Springfield, from 100 to 125.

Logs are brought by train from the camps beyond Wendling and from the upper Willamette, at the rate of 20 carloads per day.

Each car of logs represents a labor cost, in the woods, of $20.

Dry kilns have eight compartments, and an aggregate daily capacity of 100,000 feet.

Lumber is carried through the dry kilns on edge, thus getting even distribution of heat.

Common lumber is stored in piles over on arm of the mill pond, to be air dried. Capacity of the storage yards, ten million feet.

Lumber is conveyed about the yards by means of a monorail car, or on trucks hauled by electric tractors.

Heavy timbers are handled by machinery instead of being lifted by half dozen men.

Every machine is guarded to make the workman safe.

Automatic sprinklers protect all the buildings and sheds.

Power for the mill is furnished by the Oregon Power company, located adjacent to the mill.

All refuse from the sawmill goes as fuel to the bins of the Oregon Power company, and furnishes fuel to supply electricity for the mill, and for the cities of Springfield, Eugene, Albany, Corvallis, Junction City, Harrisburg, Brownsville and Halsey.

Ashland capitalists will build a fifty room apartment at Marshfield.

Riverside Drive, Portland, will be paved with Warrenite. Cost $19,342.

Bids were opened today for the construction of the Hood River Highway.

Roseburg commercial club has endorsed the bill to pension and retire civil service employees.

LOGANBERRY BEVERAGE MEETS SUCCESS

Loganberry juice, the new beverage placed on the market several weeks ago by the Eugene Fruit Growers' Association as an experiment, has been determined a success, and hereafter will be manufactured as one of the many products of the Eugene cannery. J. O. Holt, manager of the association, received a message from J. K. Araby & Co. of San Francisco, one of the largest wholesale fruit concerns on the Pacific coast, which stated that the samples of the new product sent them were "very fine." They asked for quotations on the loganberry juice in large quantities.

This is very important for the loganberry is a product which the Willamette valley is seeking to push in as many ways as possible, and the form of loganberry juice as a beverage means another market for this crop.

It is also important to Eugene for as yet loganberry juice is exclusively a Eugene product. It was perfected after much experimenting.

The 100 gallons which were made as an experiment this summer will not nearly supply the demand which has already been created. It is being sold at the local soda fountains and an appreciable trade has been developed. Mr. Holt will quote prices to the California distributing firm but he will not be able to give them assurances of a very large sale this year. Next year, however, arrangements will be made to fill orders.

Establishment of independent meat packing plants in various parts of the state are being encouraged by the farmers as the only solution of the growing abuses of the meat and foods products trust.

The Pacific Power & Light Co. is preparing to extend service to Warrenton.

The Hoke cannery at Medford is putting up a large pack of tomatoes.

The Eugene high school will be built of the local brick, finished with the Willamina product.

An injunction was granted by Judge Eakin to restrain the collection of the 10 per cent penalty under the new tax law due after September 1.

Linn county citizens want to do away with the eight-hour day on public work and establish county rock crushing plants.

The Eugene Guard argues that the $1500 tax exemption will shift the burden of taxation from the cities and towns to the farms.

LANE COUNTY LEADS STATE IN PRODUCTION OF LEAD

The United States Geological Survey, at Washington, has recently finished compiling the figures regarding Oregon's yield of gold, silver, copper and lead during 1913, and the statement shows an increase of more than 100 per cent over the product of the previous year. The total yield was valued at $1,746,492, in 1913, as compared with $849,886, in 1912. Gold, silver and lead showed a marked increase, and copper an extraordinary falling off, the 1913 production of the latter metal being only 43,330 pounds as compared with 260,429 pounds the previous year.

In the production of gold, Baker county led the procession with $1,373,480; Malheur county was second with $82,041 and Grant county third with $63,652. The gold output in these three counties in 1913 showed an increase of $972,706. Josephine county led the state in the production of copper, with 32,558 pounds, about 80 per cent of the total yield. Lane county produced the most lead, 59,204 pounds. There were fewer mines in operation in Oregon in 1913 than in the previous year, but the tonnage from the deep mines was materially enlarged, while the placer mines, including one new dredge property, made a record year.

ALL OREGON ELKS INVITED TO EUGENE HI JINX

The Eugene Elks have issued their second annual invitation to all brother Elks in the state to join them in a high jinx picnic to be held August 30 on the Siuslaw river.

This year the prospective hosts are arranging a clam bake and salmon dinner. A tug of war across the Siuslaw river will also be a feature. An excursion train on the new Willamette Pacific line will take the high jinxers to Joler, 32 miles west of Eugene where they will spend the day. The high jinx celebration last year was held on the McKenzie river. About 700 Elks were present and consumed 1000 trout.

GENERAL APPEARANCES OF TYPICAL DAIRY COW

Her angular form is the first impression one gets when looking at a high-producing dairy cow, says Professor W. A. Barr, Federal and Agricultural College field dairy specialist. This effect is due to the great capacity of the organs of production and reproduction.

The general effect is described as "wedge-shaped."

The dairy cow shows three wedges—one from the front, another from the top and the third from the side. The first is formed by the sharp withers at the top and the broad floor of the chest at the bottom. The second is formed by the sharp withers at the top and the great width across the hip bones.

The third as seen from the side is indicated by the great depth of the rear part of the barrel and the udder, which tapers through the neck. Four points are allowed on score cards for this wedge-shaped form.

Quality is indicated by fine hair, by soft, loose and mellow skin of medium thickness, and by clean bone, lacking coarseness.

Dairy temperament is indicated by the lean neat appearance of the cow in milk, by a large, full mild eye, and by the general impression given that milk rather than body fat is produced from the feed consumed. When not in milk the dairy cow may be allowed to carry considerable fat.

Why Not Tag Oregon Bachelors?

A great many state legislatures have given consideration to bills taxing bachelors and many convincing arguments have been presented why men who escape matrimony should pay a penalty, but why not tag them as a more painless and effective method of extermination?

If the bachelors were tagged the widows could easily find them and cupid would do the rest. The bachelor is naturally timid, but under the encouraging influences of a merry widow he can easily be led to the altar, for there is no more helpless or ft aloof than a lovesick swain who has passed the age of discretion, and the little imp that plays ping-pong with human hearts has no more capable ally than a woman who loves at second sight, for experience makes cupid subtle and bold.

The women have tag days to promote most every other public enterprise, and why not a tag day for bachelors? We have in Oregon approximately fifty thousand bachelors and an equal number of widows. Why not get them together and solve two vexatious problems with one marriage license?
