PADS AND FANCIES.

A novel and efficacious way to clean silver is to place the silver in a pan and pour sour milk over it, leaving it about an hour. Take it out, rinse in boiling water and wipe. The sour milk will get into every crack and crevice. Silver cleaned this way does not tarnish soon.

Never throw away the wax-coated boxes in which crackers come. Pack your doughnuts and cookies in them. They will keep fresh almost twice as long. Use them instead of pans for baking fruit cake or any loaf cake that requires long baking. The oiled lining and the stiff outside keeps the cake from burning. These boxes also make excellent polishers for irons.

Do not forget the old rules for putting on and taking off gloves. When putting them on, do not try to get the whole glove on at once, but first work on the fingers, taking care to have the seams fit exactly even at the sides; draw the glove over the hand and then put in the thumb, but leave the seam of the thumb down the center. Remember that a glove once put on wrong can never be stretched into the right shape again, so it is well to take the little care at the start.

Threads and hairs on a carpet are hard to sweep up, but if the broom is brushed lightly round and round instead of straight along, the threads will be formed into a ball and may easily be picked off the broom.

TESTED RECIPES.

A sweet disposition—Three grains common sense, one large heart, one good liver, plenty of fresh air and sunlight, one bushel contentment and one good husband. Do not bring to a boil.

Delicious Chicken Croquettes.

A dish of cold chicken, which should be cut from the bone and minced fine, then season with salt, pepper and juice of a lemon. Let this stand one hour, then make a batter of two eggs to a pint of milk, a little salt, and flour enough to make a batter, not too stiff. Stir the chicken in this and drop it by spoonfuls in boiling fat. Fry brown, drain and serve.

Orange and Nut Salad.

This makes an excellent dish for a Sunday night supper: Peel large, fine oranges and remove all the transparent skins, as well as the white inside, leaving golden sections of pulp. To three oranges take a cup of English walnut meats; for dressing, take three table-spoonfuls of oil to one of lemon juice, with salt and a little paprika; mix well, toss all together, and serve on white lettuce leaves.

Steamed Brown Bread.

Mix one and one-half cups of corn meal, one cup of wheat meal or graham and three-quarters cup of rye flour, one level teaspoon of salt. Sift twice, then stir in two-thirds cup of molasses and two cups of sour milk. Beat and pour into a buttered mold and steam four hours.

Discordant Thoughts.

In wandering through your mental pleasure grounds whenever you come upon an ugly intruder of a thought which might bloom into some poisonous emotion, such as fear, envy, hate, worry, remorse, anger and the like, there is only one right way to treat it—pull it up like a weed, drop it upon the rubbish heap as promptly as if it were a stinging nettle and let some harmonious thought grow in its place. There is no more reckless consumer of all kinds of exuberance than the discordant thought, and weeding it out saves such an astonishing amount of eau de vie wherewith to water the garden of joy that with it every man may be his own Burbank.—Atlantic Monthly.

GERMAN CROWN PRINCE

the kaiser's eldest son, who commands one of the German armies invading France.

BRIEF WAR NEWS

During the past week the whole force of the German army was thrown against the allied troops and a desperate effort made to break through the Franco-British lines. The offensive movements of the allies was abandoned and defensive strategy adopted in an effort to delay as much as possible what now seems to be an inevitable advance on Paris.

It is already realized that the terrible struggle on land is only at its beginning and that the German plan of campaign to strike the swiftest and strongest blow at France, regardless of Belgian neutrality or any other hindrance, and then, when France is at Germany's feet, for Germany to turn her attention to the Russian attack, is being carried through ruthlessly.

Little can be gathered from either British or French official accounts of the great battles of the last week. In fact, more is learned from what is omitted than from what is told. The only thing that is clear is that the allies are fighting on the defensive on ever-receding lines. Both French and British are calling upon all their men to join in the defense of the French lines, which apparently are dropping back gradually.

Most significant is the official announcement by the French war office that the military governor of Paris has ordered all residents within the zone of action of the forts around Paris to evacuate and raze their houses within four days.

The Russian army in east Prussia and Galicia continues its march through east Prussia and confirms the statement it has invested Koenigsberg and taken Allenstein. Russian troops on the Austrian frontier are engaged in a general battle on a front of 156 miles between the Vistula and Lemberg, the capital of Galicia.

The steady advance of the vast Russian armies through eastern Prussia is giving concern to the German general staff. That the kaiser's empire is really menaced by the hordes pouring into Prussia and Galicia is practically admitted by the military commanders if reports received from Amsterdam are true.

These reports declare that troops in great numbers are being withdrawn from the lines along the French frontier and are being rushed northward through Belgium. Messages declare that 160 train loads of Germans passed through Belgium. It is presumed that they are being hurried toward Prussia to meet the Russian advance.

News of a British victory in a sea battle off Heligoland, the German naval stronghold in the North sea, is confirmed. The Germans are reported to have lost two cruisers and two torpedo-boats sunk, while another of their cruisers and many of their destroyers were badly battered in a fight with British warships. This announcement comes from British official sources and the assertion is added that the British navy did not lose a vessel and that fatalities were two officers and 27 men killed, 19 men seriously injured and 19 others slightly wounded.

In oriental waters, the Japanese began the bombardment of the concession of Kiau-Chau, by firing on an unoccupied island. It is said the Japanese are experiencing difficulty in their land operations, owing to muddy roads following recent rains, and that the investment of the German possession may require some time.

Louvain, a Belgian town of 45,000 inhabitants and with many historic buildings, is reported to have been burned by the Germans as an act of reprisal, alleging Belgian citizens fired on German soldiers. The Belgians contended, however, that the people of Louvain did not commit the hostile act charged, but that it was the Germans themselves who fired on their fellow countrymen.

SIEGE PREPARATIONS ARE MADE IN PARIS

Four Days' Notice Given to Remove Buildings Obstructing View of Forts.

Paris.—It is officially announced that the military governor has ordered all residents of the zone within action of the city's defending forts to evacuate and destroy their houses within four days.

The order for the clearing of the zone for the guns of the three lines of forts comprising the defenses of the French capital, is regarded by military observers as decidedly ominous coming as it does on the heels of reports of unexpected gains by the German invaders in the north and rumored advance of another German column through Alsace in the direction of Belfort.

The unexpected strength displayed by the Germans, the wonderful celerity of their movements, the unaccountable abandonment of Lille, the intimations of evacuation of Boulogne, together with many other developments have led military men to believe that unless fresh forces are brought into the field in the north by the allies the Germans will make further rapid progress in the direction of the capital.

Paris defenses cover a zone of 400 square miles. They include some of the most beautiful suburbs in the world.

Three circles of forts enclose the city. First, a solid wall of masonry 18 feet high extending 22 miles; second, a system of 17 detached forts two miles beyond the wall and 34 miles long; third, an outer circle of forts 75 miles long, commanding the valley of the Seine.

GERMAN CRUELTY IS DENIED

Diplomat Calls Accusations of Cruelty of German Army Shameful.

New York.—Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, while here from Washington, issued the following statement in reference to the alleged atrocities of the German army: "The campaign of our enemies charging the German army with cruelty is absolutely shameful. The traditions of the German army are above all attacks in this respect. Nobody can regret more than I do if women and children have been killed during the fighting. This is, however, unavoidable if the civilian population of a country join in the fighting, as is the case in Belgium, where German soldiers have been shot in the back, where German wounded have been mutilated and doctors and nurses shot at."

RUSSIAN BORDER SEES HEAVY ENGAGEMENT

London.—A dispatch from Paris says the French war office announces it has direct information that the Russian army has completely invested Koenigsberg and occupied Allenstein, both in East Prussia. The Germans continue to retreat, according to the report.

The Russian advance in east Prussia gave rise to three days of prolonged and stubborn engagements in the vicinity of Soldau, Allenstein and Bischoffsburg, where the enemy had concentrated the army corps which retreated from Gumbinnen and some fresh troops. Allenstein has been successfully occupied by the Russians.

The German losses were particularly heavy at Meuhlen, between Osterode and Nordenburg, and the enemy is in full retreat.

Koenigsberg is a strongly fortified seaport of Prussia and the capital of the province of east Prussia. It contains many noteworthy structures. The industrial establishments include locomotive works, iron foundries and flour mills. The population is about 200,000. The distance from Koenigsberg to Berlin is 288 miles.

First Canadian Troops Sail.

Montreal.—The Princess Patricia Canadian light infantry, first troops from North America to leave for the European war, sailed, 1000 strong, aboard the White Star liner Megantic, amid gala scenes, for a secret destination.

Namur Stormed in Fog.

London.—A dispatch to the Telegraph from Folkestone says that several Belgian cyclist soldiers who have arrived there from Namur say that the fall of that city was mainly due to the presence of a heavy fog, under cover of which the Germans attacked.

German Aviator Drops Bomb on Paris.

Paris.—A German aeroplane flying at a height of 6000 feet over Paris, dropped a bomb which landed near L'Est railway station, off the Boulevard Magenta, which was so named from the battle of Magenta. The bomb did no damage.
