If You Own Your Farm Use Printed Stationery.

Every farmer who owns his farm ought to have printed stationery with his name and the name of his farm and his postoffice address properly given. The printed heading might also give the names of whatever crops he specializes in, and whatever varieties of seed or whatever breeds of hogs, cattle or poultry he keeps. Printed stationery gives you a standing with whatever person or firm you are writing to, besides insuring that your name and address will always be read properly.

Besides, printed stationery increases your credit. A prominent advertiser wrote one of our readers the other day, saying: "We usually require cash with orders for all our goods, but we have found that it pays to trust a man who uses printed stationery as you do, so we are shipping your order at once."

man or member of the legislature, or if you have a request to make of your county superintendent of schools, or if you wish to get information from any business house, in any case your letter will have increased weight and get more and quicker attention if you use printed stationery.

Even if you use post cards buy 200 to 500 at the time and have your name and address printed on the corner. Get the habit of using printed stationery. The next time you go to town, why not drop into The Sentinel office and give an order for printed note paper and envelopes to match? It will be one of the best investments you have ever made in your life.

There was a man who was wondrous wise; he jumped into a bramble bush and scratched out both his eyes. Then he put a want ad. in The Sentinel and got them back again.

Society

Mrs. Karl K. Mills entertained the M. P. G. Club Friday at an all-day session. Breakfast was served at 9 and lunch at 1. The meeting was in honor of the first anniversary of the club and was the first meeting following the summer vacation. The time was spent in conversation and sewing. Lunch was carried out in a manner to represent a meal at the beach, paper plates, old knives and forks and dishes being used to make the idea more effective. The menu carried out the same idea. Those present besides the hostess were: Mesdames Cruson, C. J. Kem, Frost, Spear, Roy Smith, Armand Wynne, Scovell and Harry Short. Mrs. Cruson was elected president for the year.

A reception was given in the Christian Church Monday evening for the retiring pastor and wife, Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Fagan. The following program was rendered: Address by A. L. Zacharias; Recitation by Goldie Hayes; Song by Quartet; Rev. Aldrich, A. A. Richmond, S. L. Mackin, C. E. Umphrey; Recitation by Bertha Stephens; Piano Solo by Master Anderson; Recitation by Rev. Aldrich; Solo by Mrs. Fagan; Recitation by Lena Burcham; Song by Quartet; Prayer by Rev. Fagan. After the program, refreshments of punch and wafers were served.

The Constellation Club meets tomorrow with Mrs. O. L. Nichols.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Presbyterian Church is holding a session this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Helen Silsby. Mesdames Silsby, Perkins and Shay are hostesses.

Mrs. L. S. Hill entertained the Social Twelve Club Thursday afternoon in the first meeting of the season. Eleven members were present and Mrs. Geo. Kerr was elected to membership. Mrs. A. J. Hendry and Mrs. C. A. Bartlett were guests. Refreshments were served.

Miss Lulu Currin and Mrs. Chas. Adams were hostesses Friday evening to a marshmallow toasting party of about thirty. The members of the party met at the Adams home and from there were taken in the Harrell and Cottage Grove Mfg. Co. trucks to the Sixth Street bridge over the Coast Fork, where a large bonfire was built. A feature of the evening was a watermelon eating contest for the men, the object being to see who could eat a hole through the center the quickest without the aid of fingers or nose. Roy Smith won the prize, another slice of melon. Each member of the party was furnished with a box of marshmallows and a bamboo toasting stick and the remainder of the evening spent in toasting the marshmallows and singing popular songs. The party returned to the city about 11 o'clock.

The Ladies' Missionary Society of the Christian Church met at the home of Mrs. A. W. Kime Thursday afternoon. After an interesting and instructive session dainty refreshments were served and a delightful social hour enjoyed.

Owen Ivans of Grants Pass and Mrs. Emma J. Miller of this city were married at Eugene Tuesday at the home of the officiating pastor, Rev. M. Howard Fagan.

What Women Are Doing. The Marseilles Hotel, New York, has opened its newly decorated Marseilles Room, and the pleasing color effects, which have won high praise from guests and artists, have brought early fame to the artist Miss Moeller, who is hardly out of her student days in the art schools. Miss Moeller, who is active and athletic, a golf and tennis enthusiast, is responsible for the decoration of the room, which has followed that of the Marseilles chateau that gave the hotel its name. The tones are French gray and gold, and the illumination, by indirect lighting, is part of Miss Moeller's design.

St. Paul club women propose to make that city even more beautiful by growing flowers on the ornamental lamp posts.

Miss Oliver Conger, of Los Angeles, after ten years in government service, is the first woman to be appointed entry clerk of secret service. The position is an important one.

Women are rising in rebellion the world over—not in rebellion to men, but in rebellion to tradition.—Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt.

Miss Katherine Moore is to have charge of Dr. Montessori's model school, which is to be part of the educational work at the Panama-Pacific Exposition. Madame Montessori has received invitations from many parts of the world to give a training course in her teaching methods, and she has chosen the San Francisco Exposition in 1915 before all others. During her four months here she will have a class of pupils furnished by California, Oregon and Utah.

RUSSIAN COMMANDER

Grand Duke Nicholas, commander-in-chief of the Russian army, operating against Austria and Germany.

BRIEF WAR NEWS

No important engagement is reported between the forces of the Allies and the Germans during the past week. The Germans continued to force their way toward Paris, the allied armies falling back, fighting rear guard engagements.

The French government, in order to avoid the possibility of being bottled up in Paris, was removed to Bordeaux. The honors of the week are Germany's for the spectacular march of her right wing to the environs of Paris, but strategically, they are empty honors. Germany can do nothing with Paris for the moment. Her main objective must continue to be the separation of the opposing forces and their envelopment.

The week has seen these enveloping attempts tried again and again, but each time the English and French have stepped backward before the circle was completed and the noose has been pulled in vain.

These successes prove not so much an uncanny ability of Germany to crush fortresses at will, as a very pleasing fear of the allied field armies that if they get too near their own fortified areas they may be driven inside and surrounded.

There is no indication that the allies in the west intend to assume the aggressive. On the other hand, the indications are that if the Germans capture Paris every effort will be made to render it a barren triumph by leading the Germans from position to position in a series of rearguard actions until the invaders are exhausted.

News from Northern Belgium indicates that the Belgian troops are recovering from the grueling punishment inflicted on them by the German invaders and are resuming their activities. In some quarters the belief prevailed that the German plans of campaign may be radically changed by the Austrian disasters, but in spite of this move observers are of the opinion that Germany must continue her remorseless advance in the west without considering the misfortunes of her ally.

These misfortunes are now admitted by Vienna, whence has come official admission that the Russians have captured both Lemberg and Halicz.

Russia has retrieved in Galicia during the week her disaster in eastern Prussia and starts, by her own assertions, a new offensive movement of 20 army corps toward Berlin.

The Galician operations can have little influence on events in France, which are subject to serious German disarrangement only as Russia gets close to Berlin. The Slav now is no nearer the German capital than he was at the outbreak of hostilities. His first movement was violently thrust back in the lake district of Allenstein during the week.

The Germans are being strongly reinforced in eastern Prussia and it is certain that the Russians will meet with a strenuous resistance before they succeed in clearing the roads to Berlin.

In eastern Galicia the Austrians have suffered disaster almost on the scale of that which overwhelmed McMahon 44 years ago. The Russians also defeated the Austrians between Lublin and Cholim and forced them to retreat south.

The Russian capture of Lemberg is declared to be of first importance and Petrograd (St. Petersburg) declares it has rendered the Austrian army in Galicia of no further military value. It is known that the military operations in that region have been overwhelming in their magnitude. Along the entire front of 250 miles probably 1,500,000 men were engaged. Around Lemberg the Austrians had 200,000 men and perhaps 600 pieces of artillery. Lemberg is a junction point of eight railroads and contained great quantities of military stores. Russian officials declare their victory has put out of action a quarter of Austria's first line troops.
