Miss Atha Widdersheim completely surprised even the members of her own family Monday when she announced that she had married Guy Van Ripper two weeks previously. The wedding was quietly performed at Eugene. Mrs. Van Ripper left Tuesday for Westwood, Calif., to join her husband, who left for there soon after the marriage.

Twenty-three of Gordon Wrigley's friends helped him celebrate his birthday anniversary Friday afternoon. Games were played and refreshments served, consisting of sandwiches, cake, the birthday cake, cookies, candy and jell-o.

Invitations are out for the wedding of George Joy Landess of this city to Miss Ethel Gladys Green, the ceremony to take place in the Methodist Church at Eugene today.

The Emanon Club met with Mrs. S. L. Mackin Thursday afternoon. After a busy hour a dainty two-course lunch was served. Plans were perfected for the giving of a Christmas dinner to some needy family in place of the usual Christmas tree for members. The hostess surprised the guests with dainty little baskets of candy and nuts hung on little Frances Marion's tree. Members present were: Mesdames Nelson Darham, B. Richmond, C. E. Umphrey, Stanley Martin, Frank Knox, Harry Short, Albert Bede. Guests were: Mesdames Chas. Beidler, Ernest Wisby and S. L. Godard.

Claude Arne and Miss Leora Linebaugh were quietly married at the Methodist parsonage last Wednesday evening, Rev. Aldrich officiating. Both are well known young people. Miss Linebaugh is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Linebaugh.

A reception was tendered "Aunt" Jane and "Uncle" Burne Veatch in the parlor of the Presbyterian Church yesterday afternoon in honor of their sixtieth wedding anniversary. A large number of the friends of the respected pioneer couple called to greet them. "Uncle" Ves Veatch sat with his brother. "Aunt" Jane hopped around as spry as any, reciting incidents of the pioneer days and singing snatches of Indian songs. Tea and wafers were served at a table presided over by Mrs. Roy Short, Mrs. Ben Groff and Miss Veta Holderman.

The M. P. G. Club held its Christmas tree yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. C. Cruson. The guests were not allowed to put their names on their presents and those receiving them had

FADS AND FANCIES

Edible Flowers.
Among the trees whose useful properties are a boon to the population in the neighborhood is the mahua or the mowra tree of Central and Western India. At the end of March when the large cream colored flowers of this tree reach maturity they begin to fall and the harvesting of any one tree lasts for from seven to ten days.

Europeans until educated cannot eat more than one of these flowers at a time, but to the natives, they are edible either when fresh or when thoroughly dried and cooked with rice or other grain. Sometimes the flowers, when dried, are reduced to powder and cooked in round cakes. The mahua flowers are extremely sweet, and a good quality of sugar and molasses is made from the oil-producing seeds.

A palatable, but very strong drink, is also made from the flowers which for this purpose are immersed in water for several days and are then fermented and distilled. The art of distilling them is very ancient.

A butter used for eating by the natives and used generally for lubricating and illuminating, is also made from the mahua seed so that the products from the mahua tree are almost as numerous as those from the coconut palm.

Grapefruit in Glasses.
If one possesses the tall, beautiful glasses made especially for grapefruit, the pulp of the fruit is removed in spoonfuls and put into the small inside cups, the cracked ice filling the space between them and the other edge of the glass. A little sugar is added to the fruit if desired, and the whole is "topped off" by two maraschino cherries. If one hasn't the glasses, the fruit should be chilled and put in spoonfuls into the empty shells. Serve the grapefruit shells on small plates, with either orange or grapefruit spoons.

Childhood Memories.
"I have found in my investigations," said one interested in the study of psychological phenomena, "that for a man to recall incidents in his life when he was 4 years of age is the average limit of memory, although I have met persons who claim to be able to remember events in their lives as far back as when they were 2 years old. I know that I have a vivid recollection of several things that must have occurred when I was not yet 3, for the printed record of events that were contemporary with that time prove it by association."

"One of these trivial things that I recall was the reference of a kindly old lady to my first pair of boots, which had red tops, a fashion brought in by a certain class of men who were laborers on a railroad which was in course of construction a few miles away. 'You look just like one of the railroaders working up yonder along the river,' said she to me.

"And I can remember the quizzical look on her face as plainly as I saw it that day sixty-seven years ago. I was not yet 3 years old, and just then was the time the railroaders were working up along the river.

"But the memory that recalls events earlier than the 4-year-old period of life is rare; in fact, it is phenomenal."

Take Your Choice.
Hips and no hips are equally fashionable. One ultra-fashionable appears with a straight-front frock that likens her to a column; another appears with a full skirt gathered at the normal waist line that curves her like unto a graceful vase. Inspect your figure and take your choice. If your figure does not show to its best advantage, the fault lies with you, not with the designers, who have generously given us this season such a quantity of lines from which to select. For the woman who likes width of skirt about the feet but less about the hips, there are the circular skirts and those gathered to an easily fitting yoke.

Bread.
Materials—Bread flour, two cups; sugar, one-third cup; baking powder, four teaspoons; salt, one teaspoon; butter, two and one-half tablespoons; lard, two tablespoons; milk, one cup; egg, one; egg yolk, one; chopped walnut meats, one-half cup.

Milk Sherbet.
Materials—Lemon juice, one-fourth cup; sugar, two cups; milk, one quart; egg white, one; grated pineapple, one cup; ice cream salt.

Teachers Themselves Wrong.
According to assistants in the office of E. J. Moore, county school superintendent, who are at work checking up corrected spelling papers from the students of the county, the teachers themselves are in need of spelling lessons in some instances. Cases have been found where the teachers have marked corrected words incorrectly spelled. The carelessness is not general, however.—Guard.

RUMORED BILL IS CONDEMNED.
Siuslaw Grange Opposes Any Further Appropriation.
Lorane, Ore., Dec. 19.—A resolution opposing possible action by the legislature in appropriating $10,000 for furnishing the Eugene armory were passed by Siuslaw Grange at its last meeting. The resolution states that a movement is on foot to introduce such an appropriation measure at the legislative session this winter and calls upon the Lane County representatives to oppose it if it should come up. The full text is: "Inasmuch as there is a movement on foot to ask the Lane County delegation to the next legislature to introduce a bill asking for an appropriation of $10,000 for furnishing the armory at Eugene, and inasmuch as the armory has already cost an excessive amount of money which the taxpayers were unwilling to pay, "Now, therefore, be it resolved, by Siuslaw Grange No. 54, that we are unanimously opposed to such an appropriation and ask our representatives to oppose such a measure."

"Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to each member of the legislature and a copy to the daily papers or publications."

"Another resolution declaring against an appropriation by the county court for the purpose of keeping a man at the Panama-Pacific Exposition to be in charge of the Lane County exhibit was also passed. It reads: "Resolved, by Siuslaw Grange No. 54, that we are opposed to the county court appropriating any money towards keeping a man at the Panama-Pacific Exposition to have charge of the Lane County display."

"Be it Further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to the county court and one to the county papers for publication."

An Optimistic Prediction.
The First National Bank of Seattle issues a digest of trade conditions which is optimistic in tone and which predicts that the nation is upon the eve of unusual business development. The bank's general view of the financial situation is, in part, as follows:

"For the past two or three years, because of the constantly changing and irregular business situation, the resourcefulness of almost every business man has been taxed to the limit to keep his own particular business operating on an even keel and in a fairly satisfactory manner. This business strain has been so great and has covered such a long period of time that it will be difficult to prevent a violent reaction as conditions improve.

Within the past few weeks we have witnessed a situation unparalleled in the history of the world. We have passed through the worst of it without serious consequences, aside from our present losses and we are now on the eve of a business development which cannot fail to make the United States a greater financial and commercial power.

"Money in circulation on November 2nd aggregated 3,716 million dollars, compared with 3,695 a month ago, and 3,417 a year ago. The stock of money in the United States was 4,955 million dollars, compared with 4,938 a year ago. This would make the circulation per capita $37.31, a new high record, compared with $35.63 a year ago.

"American business men should note that Europe shipped us our usual quota of goods during October regardless of the war, and that South Africa produced more gold than in any month in the past year in spite of the rebellion in that country.

"In confirmation of the foregoing the past few days has witnessed a marked increase in the number of inquiries for lumber and shingles, enough to cause the logger and lumbermen to look forward to 1915 with smiles of joyous anticipation."

DISSTON AND RUJADA.
(Special to The Sentinel.)
Dec. 19.—Mr. Wheatley of Rujada went to Eugene the first of the week to spend Christmas.
Dave Mosby made a business trip to the Champion Friday, returning Saturday.
Mrs. Pete Chalifone, Sr., and daughters Heaster and Bertha and Grandson Billy, spent Friday and Sunday in Cottage Grove.

Cleve Jones of Cottage Grove spent Sunday and Monday at the Chalifone home.
Mrs. Lou Wheeler, who has been visiting in Albany for some time, returned to her home in Lundpark, Saturday.
Pearl Whitely, who spent the week with Veta Pitcher, returned to her home at Star, Saturday.
Veta Pitcher spent Sunday with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Miles Pitcher, Sr., of Star.
Clarence James of Cottage Grove is visiting his brother, George James at Disston.

Ben Pitcher made a business trip to Dorena Monday.
Mr. Brown of Cottage Grove passed through Disston Friday en route to the Bohemia mines.
Conditions Worse in the East.
Eugene Register: "There is a great deal more complaint in the east than in the west concerning hard times," said W. C. Yoran, a member of the board of school directors and a partner in the printing firm of Yoran & Koke of this city, who returned Wednesday night from an extended trip in the east. The factories and manufacturing establishments there are running from 40 to 50 per cent under their full force and of course this creates a great deal more talk and much hard times in the east."

How to Draw a Chicken.
Following are the directions given by the poultry-dressing specialists of the agricultural department for drawing a chicken at home:
(1)—Hold the chicken by the legs and run it quickly over the flame from a loosely twisted lighted newspaper which, for safety, may be laid in a iron bucket or ash tray. This will remove the fine hairs. Remove any pin feathers with the aid of a sharp small knife blade. The charred hair may be washed off later.
(2)—Cut the legs off well below the knee joint. If the legs are cut above the knee joint the flesh on the drumsticks will be pulled back from the end.
(3)—Cut the neck off, leaving a neck of the neck as possible, then push the skin of the neck back and cut the neck off quite close to the body. The envelope of the remaining skin gives the dressed bird a neater appearance. The neck bones with the adhering meat make a valuable addition to the giblets. The gullet and windpipe are, of course, on the neck and must be pulled away.
(4)—To remove the entrails, make an incision about 2 1/2 inches in length across the abdomen and as close to the vent as possible. In making this incision, be careful not to penetrate the intestine. Slip the fingers in first, and gradually insert the whole hand through the slit into the body cavity. Wreck the viscera loose from its attachments by sliding the fingers over the inner surface of the body walls. In this way, after a little practice, the viscera can be removed quickly and easily. The lungs will almost invariably tear, leaving shreds sticking to the back. These, and the kidneys of the chicken, which are two long, dark red bodies lying each side of the backbone and firmly fastened, should be removed in pieces. The rest of the viscera, including the crop which lies far front and just under the skin of the breast, when loosened will come out in a mass through the incision. The intestine is still attached to the bird at the vent. To separate it clearly, the tube should be picked up just as close to the vent as possible and its contents pushed well back from the vent. Then cut closely around the vent, holding the intestine tightly between the fingers to insure cleanliness. Run a stream of water through the slit into the body cavity in such wise that it flows out through the vent and cleans the short piece of intestine still remaining. Then cut both vent and intestine away, leaving a neat, round hole no larger than is necessary.

To prepare the giblets, detach the heart, gizzard and liver, taking great care not to break the little green gall bladder attached to the liver, which contains a very bitter liquid which, allowed to escape, will give a bitter flavor to the giblets and gravy. This gall bladder is so close to the liver that some liver tissue must be cut away to be on the safe side. The color of a healthy chicken liver may vary from yellow to dark red. To prepare the gizzard, hold it with the thin edge toward the palm of the hand and make an incision the whole length along the thick side, being careful merely to cut through the muscle, but not into the inner neck. Then open the gizzard as you would a pocketbook and remove the inner sack which is full of gravel, if possible without breaking it.

Finally, wash the chicken and giblets in clean, cold water, but do not let the chicken soak in the water, because the finest flavors of the meat and such nutritive material are dissolved in the water.
Once the chicken is dressed and washed, put it at once in the coldest place available and keep it there until it is to be put on the fire. The best way is to dress it just in time to go into the stove.

The Last Word.
"Charlie, dear," said young Mrs. Torkins, "I'm going to be a suffragette and march in a parade."
"You're, eh?"
"Yes, I feel it may duty to show an active interest in politics."
"I see, Well, what are your views on Schedule K of the tariff?"
"That's not politics. That's the alphabet."
"Well, how about direct primaries or the initiative and referendum?"
"Oh, I never pretended to know much Latin."
"How about banking and finance?"
"Why, they seem all right, don't they?"
"You see," he shouted triumphantly, "you don't know a thing about the subjects that are being discussed!"
"Well, Charley, dear, you mean well, of course. But I must say that it seems very stupid and silly of you to learn all those hard words and puzzle over problems to show your interest in politics when we can do so simply by marching in a parade."
