

A CORRECTION

Mr. Property Owner: If you have a building covered with shingles it will pay you to read this. It seems to be the general impression in this immediate community that shingle stains are only for decorative purposes and that they are neither permanent nor preservative. This may have been your experience if you have used a cheap shingle stain or allowed your painter to put on just any old thing.

Sherwin-Williams Preservative Shingle Stains

Are artistic and permanent, and as preservative as paint on any other part of your building. Call, write or phone us for prices and further information.

Eugene Boys to Present Play Here.

Twenty-three members of the boys' department of the Eugene Y. M. C. A. will present "The Upper Trail," a four-act comedy-drama, at the Arcade Monday, June 7, at 8:30. The play portrays the work of the boys' department and the net results accomplished in the lives of boys.

A gang leader who has been causing a great deal of trouble at the boys' camp finds himself.

"The Upper Trail" was presented to a large audience at Eugene May 29 and the papers there said it made a hit.

Wins $5.00 Prize.

Joe Smith is the first to win one of the $5.00 prizes offered those who sell 50 tickets to the approaching chautauqua. He has not quit hustling and may yet win one of the other prizes. It is understood that Ward Berg has sold a large number of the tickets and has assurances of sufficient sales to insure his getting one of the $5.00 prizes.

Teachers Leave for Homes.

Nearly all of the teachers of the schools who do not live in the city have returned to their homes. Miss Lena Holcomb has gone to Brownsville, Miss Helene Banta to Reno, Nev., Mrs. Ragsdale to Eugene, Miss Edna May Russ to Corvallis, Prof. Murphy to Portland,

Prof. Lester Barnhart to Falls City, Miss Janet Davidson and Miss Carolyn Schilling to Oakland and Miss Laura A. Smith to Tillamook. Prof. Dunton is still here and will remain until after the chautauqua season.

Divide Mill Resumes.
The mill at Divide resumed operations yesterday with a fair sized crew. It is being operated by a Lebanon banker. It had been idle several months and is one of the largest mills in this section.

BIG CONTEST FOR BOYS & GIRLS

See how many letters there are in the words "Cottage Grove Chautauqua." Can't you make a lot of different words from these letters? Just get busy and see how many words you can make, thus: hat, chat, that, and so forth. We want every boy and girl in the grammar grades to get busy on this and make out a list of words. Any word or name in the English language that is made up of the letters in these words will be counted.

To the boy or girl handing in the most words, the Play Lady of the Chautauqua will give a dandy Eastman Kodak that takes a picture 2½ by 4¼ inches and a Junior Chautauqua Word Contest Prize Winner Badge for you to wear.

For the next longest list the Play Lady will give an Eastman Kodak that takes a picture 2½ by 3¼ inches and a Junior Chautauqua Word Contest Prize Winner Badge.

For the next eight longest lists the Play Lady will give each boy and girl a Word Contest Badge. These badges are celluloid buttons and are little beauties printed red and white about the size of a half dollar and have a pretty picture of the Chautauqua tent where your games will be held.

Word Contest Rules.

Your parents are interested in the Chautauqua and will help you think of words. The rules of the Word Contest are very simple:

1. Any girl or boy in the grammar grades may enter the contest.
2. All words must be written on plain paper and the number of words given in figures.
3. Sign the list with your name and address.
4. Lists must be given in to the Junior Play Lady by the second day of the Chautauqua.
5. Prizes will be given out by the Play Director on the third or fourth day of the Chautauqua.

Get all the help you can—ask your teachers, and your mamma and papa to help. You might just as well win a kodak and one of these dandy Chautauqua badges as not.

Just remember you must have all your words written down and the list ready to hand in by the second day of the Chautauqua. Put on your thinking caps and get busy.
