Mesdames Jas. P. Graham, R. Gleason and A. W. Wampole entertained the Constellation Club at the home of Mrs. Jas. P. Graham Thursday afternoon. The rooms were tastefully draped in English ivy with silver stars suspended here and there. Bouquets of lavender and white asters added to the decorations in the dining room and reception hall and roses in the living room. After a social hour with needlework the guests were entertained with a dress fabric contest in which Mrs. H. A. Miller and Mrs. George Kerr won honors. In the kitchen puzzle contest Mrs. George Kerr carried off the honors. A dainty two course luncheon was served cafeteria style.

FADS AND FANCIES

The ordinary French dressing (three tablespoonfuls oil, one and one-half tablespoonfuls vinegar, one-quarter teaspoonful salt; one-eighth level teaspoonful pepper) will moisten one pint of salad.

An easy way to skin a beet without bleeding it and causing it to lose color is to put it in cold water as soon as it is cooked. Then draw the hand gently down each one and the skin will drop off without trouble.

One of the best plans for ascertaining whether a cake has been cooked enough is to very lightly insert in the skewers that butchers use for meats. If this comes out clean and dry the cake is done; if the skewer is sticky the cake needs a little more cooking. This is a much better test than the common one of inserting a broom straw, as the latter is so small it is not always easy to judge properly of its condition. Moreover, it is not sanitary.

When cooking milk or soups of any kind always use a wooden spoon for stirring. Never take a tin spoon for this purpose, especially if the soup contains any acid like tomatoes, as this unites with the tin and forms a poisonous compound.

A reader of The Christian Science Monitor says she has found that a bag filled with powdered pumice stone is an excellent window cleaner. She makes the bag of unbleached cotton cloth of a soft quality, not too firm. When finished, the bag is six inches wide and 12 inches long. Into this she puts about one-eighth of a pound of the pumice stone. To prevent soiling this bag, it is slipped into a cheesecloth case that can be removed and washed. No water is used on the window, but it is rubbed first with a piece of tissue paper, then polished with the bag.

Where the white enamel of the kitchen shows stains that are hard to remove, put some clean water in one of the vessels and add a small piece of potash; let stand for a while, then wash with warm water and soap, and the stain will have disappeared.

Honey Items for Women

To remove wine stains from linen soak the spots in sweet milk.

All the military influences are fading out except the soldier blue.

Two-color schemes in fuchsia colorings are charming for negligees.

Shot lavender and yellow is a peculiarly discreet and pleasing color.

Tailored frocks are trimmed with belts and buckles, buttons and braid.

Vinegar is one of the best liquids for cleaning windows—or lamp chimneys.

Silk handbags of black lined with bright figure silks, are effective with dark frocks. Many of them have a big colored stone for a clasp.

An old cook book tells us "if we suffer from indigestion, to masticate slowly a half teaspoonful of wheat bran." Try it.

Full pleated skirts and Norfolk coats of crepe meteor make very charming dresses worn with white crepe blouses for young girls.

Spiced Gooseberries

Boil six quarts of gooseberries and nine pounds of sugar together for two hours. Add one pint of vinegar and one tablespoonful each of cloves, cinnamon and allspice. Boil until it thickens like jam. Bottle in air-tight jars.

Waldorf Salad

Take two cups of finely chopped celery, the grated rind of one orange and one cup of apples cut into dice. Scoop out the core of six red apples, so as to make cups to hold the salad mixed with mayonnaise. Serve in a nest of crisp white lettuce leaves.

Fruit Nectar

To one quart of hot water add one cup of sugar and a glass of currant or elderberry jelly. Cook until dissolved; cool and add lemon and orange juice to suit taste.

LORANE

(Special to The Sentinel.)
Sept 27.—Farmers in this vicinity are busy preparing their land for fall planting.

Good work is being accomplished in getting out crushed rock for the road to Cottage Grove. An average of sixteen teams are employed on it and the rock is of first class quality.

J. Nelson Crow, who has been in rathpoo health this summer, is still confined to the house.

Mrs. F. Davis is expected home Wednesday from Roseburg, where she spent a few days visiting her mother.

J. Hornung, a Goshen farmer, was shot and killed by a fellow hunter on Friday. The accident occurred about six miles northwest of here. J. Johnson explains that a bullet from his rifle glanced from a tree and killed Mr. Hornung. Mr. Johnson is principal of the Goshen schools. E. K. Chapman and son of Eugene, who were of the hunting party, came out to the nearest telephone and notified the coroner. The inquest was held at Eugene. Mr. Hornung leaves a wife and child.

Ashland capitalists have incorporated to build a smelter.

BURLARS REVISIT TAPLIN HOME AT SAGINAW

Mrs. Benne, a Guest, Loses $90.00 and Later Recovers, Purse, Watch and Jewelry.

Saginaw, Ore.—(Special to The Sentinel.)—The O. H. Taplin home at Saginaw has again been the victim of robbers. This time the thieves secured $90 in gold and bills belonging to Mrs. Benne, a guest in the house. A gold watch, some rings and other articles, which were in the purse when stolen, were found later in the day on the hill above the barn, where the empty purses were also left.

The robbery was committed between 1 and 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon while Mrs. Taplin and her guest were busy at the wood house. No strangers were seen in the vicinity that day and suspicion is directed to local parties. Mr. Taplin lost a large sum of money last Fourth in a night robbery and the same house has been repeatedly visited by thieves during the past five years. But for the fact that Mrs. Taplin was too late to get into the bank upon her last visit to the city there would have been considerable money in her pocket-book.

WARDEN MINTO KILLED BY CONVICT OTTO HOOKER

Hooker Fatally Wounded and Captured After a Protracted and Exciting Chase.

Harry P. Minto, warden of the penitentiary at Salem, was shot and instantly killed Monday night by Otto Hooker, an escaped convict. Hooker had first attacked and taken a revolver from J. J. Benson, marshal of the town of Jefferson, with which he shot and wounded Benson who will recover. Later in his flight Hooker was confronted at short range by Warden Minto, armed with a shotgun, loaded with buckshot. They fired simultaneously and Hooker's bullet struck Minto squarely between the eyes and he was instantly killed. Walter Johnson, a guard who accompanied the warden, also fired at Hooker who escaped unhurt.

Search for the murderer of the warden was immediately taken up and posses from Salem and Albany hastily organized to comb the northern part of Linn County for the slayer. The search continued until 1:30 o'clock on the 28th, when the convict was wounded and captured near Albany. He was shot through the right breast and the wound is considered serious.

The death of Harry Minto, the warden, is deplored by all who knew him. Previous to his appointment as warden he had been sheriff of Marion County for several years and had a record as a fearless and successful criminal hunter. He was appointed warden by Gov. Withycombe last February to succeed Col. B. K. Lawson of Cottage Grove.

Over Half a Million Women School Teachers

We are always pleased when we see a bouquet for the school ma'am, and we want you to see this one which was handed to her this week by Frederick J. Haskins: "Over half a million women are enrolled this month in the service of the elementary public schools of the United States. Of all of Uncle Sam's children, his school marm niece does most to increase his wealth and influence in the world. It has become as true of her as of Queen Victoria that the sun never sets upon her realm. She has followed the American flag to its farthest outpost. The hot suns of the Philippines and the icy winds of Alaska have been powerless to daunt her perseverance or courage. Wherever she goes she carries civilization, sanitation and humanitarianism, as well as knowledge of the 'three R's' and the English language. She is a pioneer of intrepid bravery, a missionary of devoted fervor and a creditable type of American womanhood."

Files Two Suits

Fred Wright has filed a suit in the circuit court against C. D. Brainerd and others for the recovery of $600 with interest at the rate of 10 per cent from March 9, 1914, and for the foreclosure of a mortgage. Wright also filed a suit in the capacity of executor of the estate of Marcia E. Blanchard, against Fingal S. Hinds and others for the recovery of $800, with interest at 8 per cent from January 12, 1914. Alta King and E. O. Foster are attorneys for the plaintiff in both cases.

OREGON HENS CAPTURE ALL PRIZES AT FRISCO

With Only Three Pens Entered O. A. C. Hens Take First, Second and Third Honors Against Strong Competition.

Unfavorable Conditions Hold Actual Egg Yield Lower Than Those of More Favorable Climate.

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, Sept. 20.—The tenth report of the Panama-Pacific International Egg Laying Contest shows that the three pens entered by the Oregon Agricultural College now stand first, second and third for the entire term of the contest to September 1 and also in the August records. The college white leghorns are first with a total of 1434 eggs. The cross-breds second with 1274 and the barred rocks third with 1227. The leghorns and crosses have stood first and second for the last few months but it was during August that the barred rocks cut down the lead of their competitors, passed them and took the lead by 27 eggs. In doing this they gained 47 eggs on the Canada Wyandottes which they passed and which had led the contest for several months. The leghorns are now 234 eggs ahead of the Canada pen, a lead which practically insures that they will win first place in the term contest.

In the individual records for the term the Oregon cross-bred that has been leading for several months, still maintains her lead, though by the narrow margin of two eggs. Her closest rival, however, is another Oregon hen, a barred rock entered by F. M. Sherman of Lebanon. Among the ten highest individuals the college has another cross-bred hen and three white leghorns, thus taking five of the ten possible places. Another cross-bred hen stands first in the August individual records with 25 eggs, pretty close to an egg a day for the entire month of August. The ten highest records for the period to August 31 are as follows: No. 15—White Leghorns, Oregon, 1434 eggs; No. 16—Crosses, Oregon, 1274 eggs; No. 13—Barred Plymouth Rocks, Oregon, 1227 eggs; No. 25—White Wyandottes, British Columbia, 1200 eggs; No. 30—White Leghorns, New York, 1136 eggs; No. 3—White Wyandottes, British Columbia, 1106 eggs; No. 9—White Leghorns, England, 1099 eggs; No. 23—Rhode Island Reds, California, 1073 eggs; No. 20—Barred Plymouth Rocks, Oregon, 1063 eggs; No. 10—White Leghorns, Washington, 1054 eggs.

A great many inquiries have reached the college in regard to the actual performance of the hens that are doing relatively so well. Among other things it is asked whether the college hens and other hens entered from many parts of the world are making as good records as they have made at other times and in other places. This very matter is taken up as a part of the tenth report issued by the committee in charge of the contest under the direction of the University of California and the facts with reference to this question and the reasons therefor are stated as follows:

"The record of the hens in the egg laying contest has not been as high as it would be in any contest where the hens were kept under the conditions which were more like those found on the ordinary farm. Where thousands of people are passing within a few feet of the hens, day after day, they will never lay as well as they would if they were more quiet and more secluded. They are always disturbed more or less and made more nervous where they are constantly coming in contact with strange faces, strange figures and parties attired in strange clothing. In the Missouri contests no one is allowed in the pens or near the birds but the attendant, and he goes through the pens in the same direction each time, always entering the same door, going from house No. 1 to No. 50, and always attired in the same kind of clothing. Whenever he reverses this course, and goes from house No. 50 to No. 1, the hens are not expecting him at the doors in the opposite end of the houses and they are always more or less nervous and excited as a result. The attendant in the Missouri contest uses khaki suits and whenever he puts on a black suit, the hens look upon him as a stranger. Little things like this have a greater influence on egg production than most people imagine, and for that reason many of the large egg farms require their attendants to always whistle or knock on the doors before they attempt to open them.

At a great exposition like this the visitors expect to and must see the hens, and the advertising value of having your name constantly on a pen for the period of a year is worth much to any contestant. The exposition is located right on San Francisco Bay and very near Golden Gate, through which blows a brisk wind and often a heavy fog. The nights are cold and damp and the climate and conditions are so different from most sections of California and from the states from which the birds come that many of them have been handicapped by these facts, and it is therefore no discredit to any breeder if his pen has not done all that he expected, and all they would have done under more natural or ordinary conditions. The birds have had the best of feed and the closest attention and kept under the most sanitary conditions. They have been handled as directed by the poultry department of the University of California and by two student experts from the institution. Practically nothing has been neglected that could be done to obtain the best results. Hundreds of thousands of people have seen the hens and many have become interested in poultry raising as a result. Many of the hens are now in full moult and we ought to have a good average production during the fall
