

PRETTY WINDOW DISPLAY

Quite a crowd congregated about the window of the F. C. Coffman cigar store Friday night. Someone with what appeared to be an infernal machine seemed to be preparing to do damage to the place. After considerable fussing around on the part of the supposed black hand artist there was a blinding explosion and the above picture taken by A. J. Armstrong was the result. It shows the pretty window display put out by Liggett & Myers, the national tobacco manufacturers. This was the only smoking tobacco to receive a first prize at the Panama-Pacific Exposition.

Mrs. Geo. Hall entertained a party of twenty-four ladies at her home Friday afternoon. The guests were favored with songs by Mrs. Metcalf and Mrs. Des Larzes, and a reading by Miss Van Denburg. An amusing guessing contest added to the social good time. The many good things to eat were one of the pleasures of an enjoyable afternoon; the tables were decorated in sweet peas, and the place cards each had a clever quotation.

Mrs. Elbert Bede entertained the Emanon Club at her home on Jefferson Street Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Frost and Mrs. Ida Vetch were guests. After a busy hour refreshments were served. Mrs. Chas. Beidler will entertain next week.

On Monday evening a surprise was given Joe Smith, it being his birthday anniversary. About twenty of his friends were present and the evening was happily spent in games and chorus singing. Delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. Smith, assisted by Miss McLean and Miss Jessie Smith.

Mrs. Dunton, Mrs. Brund and Mrs. Elbert Bede will entertain the Constellation Club tomorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Jones entertained at a dinner party Saturday evening in honor of the opening of the China pheasant season. The guests present were Mr. and Mrs. James E. Dunton and son Leslie, Miss Laura Smith, Miss Caroline Schelling, Miss Janet Davidson, A. L. Barnhart and E. A. Trousdale.

The entertainment at Masonic Hall Tuesday evening, given by Miss Edna Bertsch, was truly a literary treat. Miss Bertsch is from the Gillespie School of Expression, Portland. Her reading was "Miss Philura," a combination of two stories, written by Florence Morse Kingsley. The story is a delightful illustration of the effect for good one character may have on the lives of every day folks, and was charmingly read by Miss Bertsch. Good music completed the program; the Misses Smith and McCord sang a duet and Mrs. Short a solo, Miss Silsby playing the piano accompaniment.

The M. P. G. Club met yesterday afternoon with Mrs. Chas. Adams. A three-course luncheon was served. Mrs. B. B. Job was a guest. A Christmas gift drawing was held. The next meeting will be held with Mrs. Chas. Beals.

PADS AND FANCIES

A simple and effectual test for milk may be made with an ordinary knitting needle. Dip the needle into the milk and quickly withdraw it in an upright position. If the milk is pure it will stick to the needle; if it contains only a small quantity of water this will prevent even a drop adhering to it.

The best way for using up odd pieces of soap is to put them into a pan with a little water, and let simmer until dissolved. Add enough silver sand to form a stiff paste, roll into balls and set into a cool place to harden. This will be found excellent to scrub kitchen tables, wooden floors, etc.

Put a teaspoonful of common baking soda in a saucer and pour enough kerosene over it to dampen well. Rub this on your silver and it will take the tarnish off with little rubbing. Wash in soapy water and rinse with hot water. Wipe dry and your silver will look like new after only a few minutes work.

To clean a carpet sweeper, remove the brush and, after taking off all hairs, and lint, rub it with a cloth wet in kerosene. Let the brush remain in the air until the odor has evaporated. The sweeper will leave the carpets and rugs looking much cleaner and brighter after this treatment.

If you forget to put the dried fruit or beans to soak at night, pour boiling water over them in the morning to cover. When the water is cool put them on to cook. They will be done as quickly as if soaked overnight.

When eggs are scarce and several are to be used, a teaspoonful of cornstarch may be used in place of one egg.

When boiling haricot beans or dried limas do not put in the salt until they are nearly cooked, otherwise they are apt to split and come out of their skins. They should be brought to the boiling point; that water poured off, and fresh boiling water poured over them.

Pear Salad—Slice pears thin. Arrange alternate layers of pears, bananas and pineapple on lettuce leaves. Sprinkle with crystallized ginger, chopped fine. Serve with French dressing.

Pineapple and Tomato Salad—Shred one pineapple and place on slices of tomato. Arrange on a bed of lettuce leaves and garnish with walnut meats. Chill, and serve with mayonnaise and toasted whole wheat biscuits.

Egg Salad—Chop fine three hard-boiled eggs. Flake one can of sardines and mix to make a smooth paste. Serve on tiny squares of American cheese, with French dressing.

Boston Sandwiches—Into one cupful of grated American cheese beat six tablespoonfuls of chili or chutney sauce and spread between alternate slices of brown and white bread. Use three slices of bread for each sandwich; remove the crusts and cut into neat circles.

If salt and alum are added to white-wash it will stick much better.

Air the blankets at least twice during the "packed away" season.

Awning stripes in silks are used for shirtwaists for morning and sports wear.

Blouses of white organdy, generously tucked and adorned with a bow of black velvet, are effective if worn with black taffeta skirts.

Boil half a pint of linseed oil and after it is cool mix in a half-pint of vinegar, and keep about the house. It will be found ideal for softening shoes or other leather.

Wash and bleach in the hot sun all small linen pieces. When dry and white dip in sweetened water, using a tablespoon of sugar to three cups of water. Boil pieces in heavy towel and iron while wet.

Tiny hand-painted pear buttons and dyed pearl buttons in odd shapes, are to appear on autumn waists.

Navy is often trimmed with a certain light shade of gray-blue which suggests a soldier's uniform.

Sleeveless silk sweater coats are a welcome novelty for they solve the problem of giving a little warmth without giving too much.

The smartest sleeves promise to fit closely at the top and to flare at the wrist. The dressy frock should have the flared collar of lace.

Mulberry, purple, gray, tete de negre, dark green and navy are the favorite color schemes, not forgetting the always distinguished black and white.

Some More Snakes

Silver Lake Leader: Cottage Grove reports the appearance of numerous rattlesnakes in their vicinity, and winds up the statement by saying that "Cottage Grove has always had the reputation of being almost without snakes." That sounds queer while up here in an altitude of 4,200 feet some fellow sees snakes every day in the year.

Oregon Day at the Exposition Set for October 30

Gov. Withycombe and Staff Will Take Part in the Day's Ceremonies—Other Notables Will Honor the State With Their Presence.

Oregon Building, Panama Pacific Exposition, Oct. 4.—Oregon State Day at the Exposition has been set for October 30. This is an Exposition arrangement and on that day all the honors that can be heaped upon the Beaver state by the Exposition officials will be forthcoming. This means that the chief dignitaries, as well as the lesser luminaries, of this greatest of all fairs, will don silk ties and other prescribed paraphernalia, gather themselves into automobiles and with Governor Withycombe in the front car, will follow the Exposition and Marine bands to the Oregon building and there in the shadow of the modern Parthenon wax eloquent over the glorious achievements of the state to the northward. Governor Withycombe, whose business in life has been to make two blades of grass grow where but one has grown before, will probably be asked to plant a tree where none has grown before, and in the name of the great state of Oregon he may receive a plaque, or, more aristocratically speaking, a "commemorative medal." The guns at the big forts will probably boom, the six-inch salutes, flags will fly, Oregon eider will flow and at no time, before or since, will the Oregon building be in such gala attire. After the parade—which the people at the Oregon building and the Oregon Society of California will endeavor to make the largest and most memorable in Exposition history, and all the orating has been done to the delight of the assembled multitudes, Governor Withycombe and the chosen few will be carried away to the California building and there wine and dine until their stomachs as well as their hearts are filled to overflowing. In the case of Governor Withycombe, the wine will be water, of course, but San Francisco water is of such thickness and color that even the diner nearest him will not notice the substitution unless it is announced. After the feast and laudations of the greatest state in the Union by the highest officials of the greatest Exposition that ever happened, there will be a reception at which the people gathered here from the four corners of the earth may have opportunity to greet Oregon through its most distinguished representative, the Governor, and, incidentally, they will get to shake hands with the president of the Exposition and others next to him in official rank. When the shadows have fallen and the Exposition buildings and grounds have taken on the iridescent glow that makes this a dream city, a fairland, the California building will be the scene of a grand ball at which the Governor and other Oregon representatives will be guests of honor. Gentlemen in full dress and ladies in undress "creations" will trip the "merry-haha" and the revelry will continue until exhaustion and the dawn of another day demands a cessation.

All in all, Oregon Day will be some large occasion, and during the entire time Governor Withycombe and his party are here, there will be things doing calculated to be of special interest to Oregon people. At the Oregon building there will be as much social activity as the Governor will stand for, and in every way possible effort will be made to bring Oregon to the front. Crowds of Oregonians here will help very materially and those who delay their visit for the two weeks of which October 30 is the center will find much of interest extraordinary at the Exposition. October 21 ushers in Horticultural Week, which will be a hummer, and at the same time the Fall Flower show will be under way. The Stock Show will be in full blast until the middle of November and November 2 is San Francisco Day. The latter is certain to bring a crowd of 300,000 and the greatest day of special events and festivity of the Fair period. The weather continues perfect, and those who know San Francisco best say that "settled" weather may be counted on until near December.

"Who Pays" Teaching Great Moral Lessons
 The "Who Pays" series that are being shown every Friday at The Arcade are becoming more popular as they go along. The next political story, shows us some true light on who should interest everyone, our laws and officials and the commonwealth. "The Straight Politician.—The Girl With a Conscience.—The Commonwealth." Has the straight and narrow path a traction monopoly on the pearls of life? If Justice has scales on her eyes, can she be trusted to see those in her hands? Does the burnt child love the fire? For just how much of this world's misery are good intentions responsible? These are some of the vital questions we are brought face to face with in this "Who Pays" series.

For Saturday at The Arcade they have a special three-part western drama made by the well known Balboa Company. Marguerite Nichols has never shown to better advantage than in this tale of a mountaineer's daughter who is told by his doctor that he must go up to the mountains if he would recover the health lost in his midnight parties. In the mountains he meets Lucy Bingham. Away from the city influences, he falls in love with this maid of the wilds, and she consents to marry him. Once in the city Lucy finds that her change of the real Lucy. She cannot reconcile herself to this strange, cramped city life with its pretenses and restraints, and longs again for the freedom of her home in the mountains. One morning, unable to bear it longer, she starts away for the great hills, where she again breathes freely. Her husband follows her and once again in the deep solitudes, under a limitless, azure sky, they find love and complete understanding.

Baptist Church Out of Debt

The members of the Baptist Church are very happy and are to be congratulated on the fact that they have paid the last dollar of debt on the building and are now worshipping in a house free from incumbrance. Rev. Grant deserves great credit in securing this result. The ladies of the church are a concentrated band of workers and by their faithful service in Sunday School, prayer meetings and Aid Society, have been true helpers. Rev. Grant will remain as supply until a pastor can be secured. Services will be held as usual; Sunday School at 10 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m.; prayer meeting Thursday at 7:30 p. m.

The church has recently been repaired and a substantial hitching rack placed on the east to accommodate people coming in from the country.

Was on the Vandyck

Wm. Ivins, a young Englishman from London, now a resident of Cottage Grove, was a member of the crew of the steamship Vandyck which was sunk by the German cruiser Karlsruhe. The Vandyck had a cargo of South American beef on board and was bound for New York. The crew was transferred to a passing vessel and arrived in New York without further incident. Mr. Ivins expects to make his home in the United States. His experiences on the Vandyck are certainly interesting as he relates them.

University of Oregon May Cut Out Intercollegiate Athletics

The faculty of the University of Oregon is considering a resolution introduced by one of its members to cut out intercollegiate athletics. A committee of seven members of the faculty has been appointed to look into the matter. Every faculty speaker admitted the necessity for athletics but several argued that interclass and other athletics within the university be further built up to the exclusion of competitions with other universities. An alleged over-emphasis was the principal evil charged to intercollegiate athletics as they now exist.
