District Attorneys Confer at Salem
No plans for the enforcement of the new prohibition law, which goes into effect January 1, 1919, were discussed by the district attorneys at their meeting at Salem Thursday, according to District Attorney J. M. Devers of Lane County. Another meeting will be held at Salem in December for the purpose of laying plans for the enforcement of this law.

The district attorneys, twelve or fourteen in number, gathered Thursday and discussed the Sunday closing law thoroughly. Inasmuch as the supreme court has declared it constitutional and in force, the district attorneys agreed that it was their duty to enforce it the same as any other criminal law.

"Places of business clearly defined and coming within the law will be closed on Sunday," said Mr. Devers. "In cases where there is a dispute or a doubt as to whether or not they come within the law, if there is a complaint the district attorney where these places exist will let the courts decide."

Mr. Devers said that all of the district attorneys present at the meeting have the confectionery stores that serve lunches to contend with. Some take the view that these places are included in the classes of business that must close on Sundays while others contend that they be allowed to remain open as far as their lunch department is concerned but favor closing the confectionery and ice cream part of the business.

"There seemed to be a sentiment among the district attorneys present," said Mr. Devers, "that they are not to be held responsible for saying what places of business are within the law, but to leave this matter to the courts whenever there is a dispute or wherever there is a doubt."

The reason the enforcement of the prohibition law was not brought up at this meeting was that some of the prosecutors could not attend as they are busy in court. The date of the meeting in December will be selected so that all may be present.

Old Pomes Re-Writ
Believe me if all those endearing young charms
And the lovely complexion you wore,
Have faded today, it has caused no alarm—
You can go out and buy some more.

One stroke of a bell in a thick fog does not give any lasting impression of its location, but when followed by repeated strokes at regular intervals the densest fog or the darkest night can not long conceal its whereabouts. Likewise a single insertion of an advertisement—as compared with regular and systematic advertising—is in its effect not unlike a sound which, heard but faintly once, is lost in space and soon forgot.
