FADS AND FANCIES

Delicious sandwiches for the afternoon are made of raisins and nuts chopped together very fine, moistened with a little whipped cream and seasoned with a little salt.

Paste the oilcloth on the kitchen table; it will be much smoother.

When bread is taken out of the oven it should be removed from the pans and placed side down on a wire bread or cake cooler.

When icing runs, put it back on the stove, on top of an asbestos mat, and stir until proper consistency is restored. This can be done after syrup is added to the white of an egg.

Stains on blankets and other woollen goods can be removed by using a mixture of equal parts of glycerine and yolk of egg. Spread this on the stain, leave half an hour and wash.

Cream cheese lends itself to garnishing as well as being palatable. Its softness makes it easy to mold in any shape, and can be mixed with various condiments into delicious sandwich paste.

A fresh mildew spot can be removed with lemon juice and exposure to the sun. If it is an old spot, dissolve a

A modern method of using paraffin for sealing jelly is to put a tablespoonful of shaved paraffin into the glass before pouring in the hot liquid. This will melt, rise to the top and form a smooth, even coating. This is in the line of labor saving; it does away with the melting of the paraffin and washing the extra receptacle. Paraffin is also found to be easier than sealing wax for covering corks on catsup bottles, home-made wines, grape juice and sim-

COUGHS AND COLDS ARE DANGEROUS.

Few of us realize the danger of Colds and Coughs. We consider them common and harmless ailments. However statistics tell us every third person dies of a lung ailment. Dangerous Bronchial and Lung diseases follow a neglected cold. As your body struggles against cold germs, no better aid can be had than Dr. King's New Discovery. Its merit has been tested by old and young. In use over 45 years. Get a bottle today. Avoid the risk of serious Lung ailment. Druggists.

lar products of the home kitchen. Dip the cork first in the melted paraffin and insert it in the bottle. Then pour on more until it is thoroughly sealed.

tablespoonful of chloride of lime in four quarts of cold water and soak the fabric.

Blankets should be washed in soap-suds and rinsed thoroughly in cold water, then hung on the line. When nearly dry beat them with a furniture beater. They will be soft and fluffy like new.

Ribbons and silks can usually be made to look fresher if they are washed in soapy water, dried and ironed. If they are desired stiff they should be ironed while wet. If they are to be soft, they must be first dried, and any wrinkles which refuse to iron out without water can be moistened with a sponge wrung dry.

When a white silk or crepe de chine blouse becomes yellow after much washing it can be tinted so that it will look like new. Buy a bottle of red or green ink or any color you desire, and pour into the rinse water and dip the waist into it. A portion of a bottle of red ink will keep the color in a flesh tinted garment or will give a yellow waist a delicate pink color. Every time the waist is washed it should receive the same treatment. It is such an easy thing to do, and quite a few new garments may be added to your wardrobe by using the dingy old waists.

TESTED RECIPES.

Some Unique Oddities to Serve with Salad—Extra mayonnaise is served in a half lemon skin that has been relieved of the pulp and had a slice cut from the end so it will stand upright. It may also be covered with a fluted paper cap.

The yolk of hard boiled eggs may have pepper, salt, olive oil, a dash of Worcestershire sauce added to them and mixed into paste, then formed into small balls; roll them in powdered nuts and drop them into the salad, using the rings of white for the garnish on top.

Paradise Pudding—Pare, core and grate three apples. Separate three eggs, add to the yolks three tablespoonfuls of sugar and beat until light; add grating of nutmeg and a teaspoonful of lemon juice; stir in a half cup of cold boiled rice; mix with this quickly the apples and beat well; add a half cup of milk; turn into a baking pan and bake thirty minutes. A meringue is made by beating the whites of the eggs into a stiff froth, teaspoonful of sugar, and pouring over the mixture. It is browned in the oven.

For a simple home luncheon the humble pancake with jelly folded inside may be served as a desert and will be appreciated by the family for a change.

Lane Prisoners Must Work. By an order of the Lane county court, the six prisoners now in the county jail have been put to work on the county farm. Clearing and grubbing land will be the nature of the work to be done by the prisoners.

CLOVER AND CORN.

The reasons why so many farmers fail to make money by raising hogs were tersely and accurately summarized recently by R. B. Cogdon, Lane county agriculturalist. "The trouble with the men who are complaining that there is no money in hogs," he said, "is that they are feeding them too much wheat. You can't make money by feeding two-cent wheat to hogs that are selling around five cents. The thing to do is to grow them on clover and finish them on corn."

That, briefly expressed, is the whole of hog raising as a money making proposition. The hog is not a magic profit maker that will return dollars to his owner in spite of unbusinesslike methods of care and feeding. It is not a miracle worker, and if the overhead cost of production is too high it cannot return a profit. The hog raiser who expects to make money must realize this from the start or he will be sadly disappointed.

But there is no need in the Willamette valley to fatten hogs on high priced wheat. The ancient canard that clover will not grow here has long since been exploded and the Willamette valley is now producing clover crops that cannot be excelled. And the same is true of corn. The man who says corn cannot be profitably grown here simply does not know what he is talking about. Yields that far exceed the average in corn countries are common here.

Corn and clover are a splendid combination for the man who keeps hogs, as the experience of dozens of progressive farmers testifies, and when the two crops are properly used there will be no complaint that the cost of producing pork is too great.

New Policy at Rex Theater.

Manager Beals of the Rex Theater is going to keep abreast of the times by discarding the "daily change" which has been such a serious drawback to the picture business in Cottage Grove for a long time. "Better Pictures and Longer Runs" has been the slogan of the picture industry (which, by the way, is the third largest industry in the United States) for over a year and at last it has struck Cottage Grove.

This new policy goes into effect the week of January 10, and the program will consist exclusively of features ranging in length from 4 to 7 reels each. Monday and Tuesday will be shown a Pathe "Gold Rooster" play, the first one will be "Nedra." Wednesday will be serial night and he has secured the best serial on the market, one that is very interesting and also educational, "Neal of the Navy." This picture was taken under the direction of Secretary of the Navy Daniels, and will give us a good lesson on our own navy. Thursday and Friday will be the well-known Mutual Master Pictures. Saturday will be Broadway Universal night and you can always look for something good that night. None but stars that have made their reputation on Broadway are featured in these plays and no expense is spared in producing them.

doldrums and improvement is noted daily. Logging camps and saw mills resuming operations constantly all over the Pacific Northwest states and the hum of the mills means prosperity to the state.

The only noticeable element of the lumber situation that is not favorable is the lack of tonnage to carry the product to market. The Panama canal, stopped by slides, closes what would normally be the big outlet for lumber to the Atlantic coast, and the war has caused such a shortage of ships that tonnage for lumber carriage is extremely short.

The canal will, of course, soon be reopened, and with the close of the war a tremendous revival of lumber manufacture on this coast is expected. Other factors in the situation are declared to be favorable.

POULTRY and EGGS

PROFIT IN DUCK CULTURE.

Quacks Are Easy to Raise and Thrive on Cheap Feed.

Without doubt the duck is one of the most abused of all the domestic birds, writes a correspondent of the Iowa Homestead. Yet, in spite of its unpopularity among the masses, it may be made the most profitable of all in this country in the hands of one who likes ducks and appreciates their good points.

The duck is pre-eminently a meat bird, although with proper handling the feathers can be made to pay for almost all the ducks eat, which is a very important item in handling any kind of animals or birds.

The Buff Orpington duck is a rather new breed in this country, having been originated in England less than twenty years ago. It has the blood of the Indian Runner, Aylesbury, Rouen and Cayuga in its makeup and is the largest of the prolific egg laying ducks, equaling the Pekin in size. This breed is easy to raise, matures quickly and is ready for market at ten weeks of age. The bird pictured is a Buff Orpington drake.

As a rule, it is better not to sell the birds when young, but grow them to maturity and market them in early winter, when prices are always good.

Because of fatal diseases, which are widespread and seem to be under no control, turkeys become scarcer every year, and the goose is not so easily raised, so, without doubt, the duck will in the future be one of the leading table fowls. It is a large bird, and with a good market it has considerable value as a table fowl.

For those engaged in duck culture for profit it will pay to keep only the heavier breeds. There is also a great profit in these when grown and sold for breeding purposes.

Many fall with geese, turkeys and chickens, but almost any one who likes domestic animals and has had some experience with them can succeed with ducks. Duck handling is of the easiest kind, as food, shelter and general care of the birds is very simple. The birds are hardy, free from disease and produce profitably for many years. In a large flock the finding of a dead duck is rare. They can stand much cold and dampness, and a common shed is all the shelter necessary.

A great factor with ducks is that they can be kept on the cheapest kind of food. While pastures are green about all they need is green grass or green forage, bugs, etc. Corn is their main food.

Some do not like ducks around the farm because they claim that they destroy so much. However, this objection may be raised with any class of poultry. If birds of any kind are a bother they should be confined to yards or a range for themselves, and ducks are very easy to confine, as they only need a grassy pasture inclosed with common woven wire. A general hog fence is sufficient to confine them. After corn is two feet high they may be pastured in the cornfield to advantage, as they will eat grass between the rows without disturbing the corn.

As ducks begin to lay early in the spring when the weather is yet cold, it is well to know the nesting places and gather the eggs soon after laid to prevent chilling.

The first eggs of the season should be set under hens, while the duck may be allowed to hatch the later ones. It is always much better to use hens as mothers of the ducklings, as they will care for them much better than the old ducks themselves.

Keep Hens Free From Insects.

To kill off the lice provide a dust bath for the hen, and she generally will keep herself free from lice. If she does not dust her with insect powder, you can buy this at drug stores or you can make it yourself. A very effective and cheap insect powder is made by taking three parts of gasoline and one part strong carbolic acid. Mix these together and add enough plaster of paris to take up all the moisture. This makes a dry, pinkish powder. Dust this on the hen, especially in the feathers under the wings and in the fluff below the vent.

Patch Up the Henhouse.

If a draft is permitted to blow through the openings of the poultry house your birds will probably become sick through having colds. Here is where prevention is better than cure. Shut up the openings so that the drafts will be kept out. A draft is bad in the summer, but when the cold winds commence to blow it is positively dangerous.

WASHINGTON MAN IS TAKEN IN PORTLAND

Portland, Or.—Denying all connection with the looting of the Washington industrial insurance fund, but admitting that he had been in hiding in Portland under the alias of Jack Edwards since December 8, Frank W. Stone, who is wanted in Olympia, Wn., for alleged irregularities involving about $20,000 of state funds, was arrested in this city by Detectives Swennes and Pat Moloney.

He is accused by Washington authorities of being the ringleader of a clique that has been looting the state industrial insurance fund for more than a year by procuring the signatures of fictitious claimants. Vouchers for big hospital bills were signed by men slightly injured, at the instigation of Stone, it is alleged.

Other members of the supposed ring are John W. Gillies, claim adjuster for the state industrial accident commission, and Eugene K. Kearns, a saloon man, both of whom are under arrest in Olympia.

Lewiston, Idaho.—Thirteen residents of Lewiston were surprised to receive for Christmas cash totaling $20.60 from J. M. Lampert, a convict in the state penitentiary. Lampert sent the money to County Auditor Wright with a letter in which he said: "Christmas presents from the penitentiary! Who ever heard of it? I have been somewhat successful in earning a few dollars here and I do not know of any better use I can make of it than to make small payments to those I owe money to in Lewiston."

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. WAR UPON PAIN!

Pain is a visitor in every home and usually it comes quite unexpectedly. But you are prepared for every emergency if you keep a small bottle of Sloan's Liniment handy. It is the greatest pain killer ever discovered. Simply laid on the skin—no rubbing required—it drives the pain away. It is really wonderful. Mervin H. Soister, Berkeley, Cal., writes: "Last Saturday, after tramping around the Panama Exposition with wet feet, I came home with my neck so stiff that I couldn't turn. I applied Sloan's Liniment freely and went to bed. To my surprise next morning the stiffness had almost disappeared, four hours after the second application I was as good as new." March, 1915.
