Snow Brings Wealth to R. R. Giltner.
Portland, Feb. 15.—About three years ago Frank Giltner, who was a veteran of the Civil war and was very deaf as a result of his experience, was killed by a street car in Portland. He left an estate of between $3000 and $4000, a part of which was an old tool chest, which was purchased by R. R. Giltner, who paid $20 for it.

During the recent storm, when the snow piled high, it was planned to make a scraper to be used in clearing the walks. The necessary tools were in the old chest and the chest was under the house, where it had been undisturbed for more than two years.

An effort was made to get at it, but in vain, as the doorway leading to that part of the basement was frozen shut. With the thaw, however, it was brought into the open Monday and examined. While removing the tools, Giltner found an old pocket book containing $300 in $20 gold pieces.

Mr. Giltner is a prominent Portland attorney who is well known here. His wife is a sister of Mrs. D. H. Hemenway of this city.

Democrat Likes Sentinel Spirit.
The Sentinel has received the following interesting letter from a Wisconsin subscriber:

"Please find enclosed P. O. order for $1.50 for your paper for 1916. I am a democrat but like the political spirit of your paper better than I like the present spirit of our present administration and hope, as a good citizen of the United States, that the party your paper advocates will be installed again in power at the head of our country, so that the democrats will have a chance to learn more thoroughly their lesson of conservation and better fit themselves to follow the teachings of Jefferson and represent the people as true democrats and not imitate or mimic mugwump republicanism."

Bad Roads Killed Her.
A few years ago a beautiful woman in the prime of life lay suffering upon a sick bed in a rural community.

It was imperative that she have a physician at once.
The hired man was dispatched for one in haste.
He made the best time possible, but the roads were muddy, and bad, and cut up, and traveling at best was very slow.

He lost much time in going and the physician was equally delayed in his progress.
After many hours he finally reached the side of the sufferer.
But death had beaten him—for death had no bad roads to cover.

Had the physician reached her a little sooner her life could have been saved.
But he did his best and bad roads did the rest.
Bad roads killed this woman.

And bad roads are killing others every day in like manner.
Now isn't this a compelling argument in favor of better country roads?
Or is the life of human being of less value than the cost of a few dollars spent in road improvement?
A member of your own family may furnish the subject for the next story.—Exchange.

TOOZE FOR PREPAREDNESS

Oregon Delegate to Ford Peace Conference Says Party Learned Important Lessons.

Lamar Tooze, university student and delegate to the Ford peace mission, returned to Eugene last week, after a two months' trip to Stockholm, Sweden, where he attended the peace conference called by Henry Ford.

The one lasting and most important lesson that Mr. Tooze received from his trip is the need of preparedness of the United States. Mr. Tooze believes more strongly than he did in President Wilson's plan to have the United States prepared at all times.

"The condition in Europe is grave," he said. "A person here cannot realize the carnage and sorrow that European countries are suffering from the present war. But it is teaching the nations of the world a lesson. It is teaching them to be ready to defend themselves if the occasion arises."

"Holland with its six million of inhabitants has a standing army of 400,000 able-bodied men. Sweden, Denmark and Norway, are all mobilized in nearly the same proportions."

"United States diplomatic relations are strained at the present time. There is the probability that this country may be drawn into a war any time. Nearly all of the delegates decided to adopt the method of 'fighting fire with fire.' I am convinced this country should be prepared."

Mr. Tooze said the success of the Ford mission must be determined in the future. Its primary objects were to arouse nation-wide interest in the peace movement; to enlist active support of the Scandinavian countries, and of Holland, and thirdly, to establish a continuous unofficial neutral conference composed of representatives from Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Holland, United States and possibly Switzerland.

Mr. Tooze says the expedition cost Mr. Ford approximately $500,000. Every possible expense of the delegates was paid, even to tips and laundry charges.
