BONDS CAN'T BE VOTED ON AT PRIMARIES

The $700,000 bond issue for hard surfacing roads in Lane county can not be voted upon at the primary election, even though a separate ballot is used for the measure.

This is the opinion given today by District Attorney J. M. Devers, when asked regarding the law by persons interested in the measure. Petitions have been in circulation for some time and it was rumored today that those interested in the plan were seeking to place the measure before the people at the primary election held May 18.

"I am of the opinion that this action would not be legal," said Mr. Devers. "The primary election is purely a partisan affair. The law says specifically issues involving the bonding of the county for road purposes, as provided by the petitions, must be voted upon at the general election."

OLD NEWSPAPER IS ODDITY

The progress of the world is perhaps no better exemplified than in the progress of its newspapers. Since the invention of printing from movable types in the fourteenth century down to the present, followers of the "art preservative of all arts" have vied with each other to bring the art to as near perfection as possible, and a comparison of what has been accomplished in the earlier part of the nineteenth century and what is being achieved now may be strikingly illustrated in a copy of the London Times of June 22, 1815, and of The Norris City Record of March 9, 1916, both of which may be found at The Record office.

A copy of the London Times bearing date of June 22, 1815, was brought to this office as a curiosity some days ago by William I. McKenzie of this city, who found it while rummaging through a lot of old papers. The sheet is a little less than half the size of the Record, being 17x24 inches, while the Record of today is 24x36 inches. It is a folio of four pages with four columns to the page.

Of course at that time there was no telegraphic news to print, as telegraphy had not then been invented. All the news, except local matter, was sent by correspondents and dispatched by carriers on the swiftest steeds, but even such news would be considered stale in the world today before it reached the reader. In this issue of The Times the "press was stopped" twice to insert later news. We give below one item taken verbatim from that issue.

Notice that mistakes in printing were occurring at that early date, for in dating the item appears June 22, 1825, when unquestionably 1815 was meant:

Thursday morning, 8 o'clock.

We stop the press to insert the following letter received this morning by the LORD MAYOR.

[COPY.]
DOWNING STREET,
June 22, 1825, 1 a. m.

MY LORD,—I have the greatest satisfaction in informing your Lordship that the Hon. Major, Sir PERCY is just arrived with dispatches from the Duke of WELLINGTON, dated Waterloo, the 19th instant, containing the account of a most decisive and glorious victory having been obtained over the whole of the French army by the Allied Forces, on the 18th instant, the result of which has been the overthrow of the French Army, with the loss of more than 200 pieces of artillery, an immense quantity of ammunition and a part of the baggage belonging to Bonaparte.

This loss of the British Army upon this occasion has unfortunately been most severe. It had not been possible to make out a return of killed and wounded when Major Percy left headquarters. The names of the officers killed and wounded, as far as they can be collected, are annexed.

I have the honor to be your Lordships' most obedient humble servant.

BATHURST.

The greater part of The Times was made up of advertising, as is the case with newspapers of today, the difference being that all the ads. were small and no cuts whatever were used. These ads. read rather funny now and were likely furnished by the wealthier class of people.—Record, Norris City, Ill.

JUDGE SKIPWORTH.

Eugene Guard: We are pleased to give credit where credit is due, and believe a rose to the living is worth more than a bank of roses to the dead.

Having carefully read the opinion handed down in the tax case by Judge Skipworth, we are prompted to speak, not only of the prompt, but splendid manner in which Judge Skipworth has handled this case.

It is a contention between good citizens of this county in which all taxpayers are vitally interested and any judge might be pardoned for desiring to avoid the unpleasant duty of standing as judge in the breach between practically all of the citizens of his home county.

Judge Hamilton of Roseburg, Coke of Marshfield and Calkins of Medford have all recently been here and Judge Skipworth could easily have passed the unpleasant duty to either of them and sidestepped it himself; but he did not do this. He accepted the responsibility, faced his duty unflinchingly, heard the case on the very first day it was ready for a hearing and three days later handed down his decision. And an opinion, too, that would do credit to any member of our state supreme court.

His opinion is clean cut, positive, unequivocal and brief. Following or preceding his holding upon each point he gives briefly the statute and case law upon which he bases his holdings. This kind of decision is always satisfactory to litigants and lawyers.

There is no misunderstanding what he means. He uses clean, plain language that can't be interpreted to mean anything other than just what he says, and if either party to the litigation is not satisfied, he has his remedy by appeal to the higher court, with the issues clearly defined and not befuddled by any wobbly, straddle-the-fence language that is so often used to conceal thought rather than to express it.

Four essential qualities are necessary to make a good judge:

First.—Good horse sense.

Second.—Close attention to the court's business.

Third.—Unimpeachable honesty, and Fourth.—Prompt decisions.

Judge Skipworth seems to have all four of these qualities and is making a very fine record as a judge in all parts of this judicial district.
