

Dick Burton Insists a Saving of $10,000 Can Be Made

When I announced myself as a candidate for the nomination for county assessor I did so upon a basis of pure business, stating therein that I could and would, if elected, save the taxpayers the sum of $10,000.00 during the next term.

Up to this time I have not questioned the integrity of my opponent, although the words "malicious design," "deception" and other expressions have been used by him in an effort to belittle my statements, to create sympathy and to evade the question at issue.

But now Mr. Taxpayer let us analyze Mr. Keeney's last published statement and inquire WHY he thinks it necessary to imply, that a man with eight or ten years' experience as Mr. Parker has had, is not able to estimate the cost of any particular department of his office.

WHY does he intimate in such plausible language that someone has prevailed, when he declares that the statement I published was not an authorized one, thereby leaving the impression that it was never made?

WHY does he try to lead his readers, the taxpayers and voters, to believe that his "new system" of writing the assessment rolls was referred to, when he uses a quotation from Mr. Parker's letter, which quotation had reference to the method of WRITING the TAX STATEMENT and to the COLLECTING of the taxes, and not in any sense to Mr. Keeney's part in the work?

WHY does he try to lead you to believe that I have made an attack upon him personally, when I state that I can by using a different method, and by eliminating a head deputy at $1,200 per year, save the taxpayers a specified amount within a specified period?

A bid for sympathy, my fellow taxpayers, does not assure us of a real saving in our taxes.

When the tax collector made the statement he did, it was done sincerely and before there was an avowed candidate for this office, and was discussed in many parts of Lane county.

The FACTS are that the system now in use is an expensive one, and there is absolutely NO DOUBT that the amount I claim can be saved the taxpayers and in the following manner:

Stay on the job myself, and eliminate the useless expenditure of $1,200.00 per year for a head deputy.

So write the tax rolls that a saving of $2,000.00 can be made annually.

Save at least $10,000.00 during the next term of office if nominated and elected.

D. P. BURTON.

now caused by unconscious Artemus Wards and Josh Billings will cease for the simple reason that no one will be able to detect imperfect spelling. We shall all be like the man who challenged a friend to repeat the Lord's prayer and when he heard the words "Now I lay me down to sleep," interrupted with, "Taant'll do, old chap; I didn't think you knew it." It is obvious that if no one knows how to spell, shortcomings in this direction will not be noticed.

But we ought to do one thing or the other. We should either cry down those who spread the impression that perfect orthography is an impossible thing and therefore not worth trying for or we should hasten the time when all spelling will be equally incorrect. The present mixture of theories is absurd and causes much annoyance.

TEN WEEKS IN BED— EMINENT PHYSICIANS FAILED—WONDERFUL RECOVERY

I wish to inform you of the great benefit I have derived from the use of Swamp-Root. I had been a sufferer for more than twenty years from kidney and liver trouble and was almost constantly treated by the most eminent physicians who could only give me temporary relief. I had been in bed ten weeks when I began the use of Swamp-Root. Inside of twenty-four hours I could see that I had been greatly benefited. I continued to use Swamp-Root until I had used several bottles when I really felt that my old trouble was completely cured and I am positive that any person suffering with kidney or liver trouble can be cured by the use of this preparation.

I am now in the best of health, better than I have been for ten years or more. I do not know how to express myself as strongly as I desire, in favor of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, as I am sure that it saved my life and that my good health is due entirely to this great remedy. I heartily recommend it to every sufferer and am confident they can be benefited as I have been. It is a pleasure for me, gentlemen, to hand you this recommendation.

MRS. H. J. PRICE,
1406 Center St., Portsmouth, Ohio.
Personally appeared before me this 13th of September, 1909, Mrs. H. J. Price, who subscribed the above statement and made oath that the same is true in substance and in fact.

TREES IN BOOKS.
Probably the Most Curious Collection of Volumes in the World.
There is perhaps one of the most curious collections of books in the world to be found in a small town on the continent of Europe, says the London Tit-Bits. It is really a botanical collection. Outwardly each volume presents the appearance of a block of wood, and that is what it actually is. But an examination reveals the fact that it is also a complete history of the particular tree which it represents.
At the back of the book the bark has been removed from a space which allows the scientific and the common name of the tree to be placed as a title for the book. One side is formed from the split wood of the tree, showing its grain and natural fracture. The other side shows the wood when worked smooth and varnished. One end shows the grain as left by the saw and the other the finely polished wood. On opening the book it is found to contain the fruit, seeds, leaves and other products of the tree, the moss which usually grows upon its trunk and the insects which feed upon the different parts of the tree. These are supplemented by a full description of the tree. In fact, everything which has a bearing upon that particular tree secures a place in the collection.

THE RUINS ON THE HILL.
Where Richard of the Lion Heart Dwelt in France.
Perhaps the loveliest spot in all the winding miles of beauty along the river Seine between Rouen and Paris is Pett Andely. Ragged and shattered looking, the stony hills rear proudly up above the placid river and sleepy town, and squarely upon its crest looms the ruin of Richard the Lion Heart's Castle Gallant, a great, burst keep and a few bits of massive wall. Once the castle flaunted its menacing leopard standards against the blue and white and gold of the Frankish skies, but that was before Philippe Auguste stormed and smashed it and smashed the townfolk while he was doing it.
Now, ghostly and wan, the stark ruin slumbers upon its hill, with never a single spear to glint from keep or barbican. The spears are still growing far below—the stout young poplars on the river bank and island sentineling through golden days when the river is gleaming jade; in the fiery sunsets, when it mirrors back every sturdy limb and feathery frond, and all the silent blue nights, when the stars bend crackling down to whisper and coquette and the ripples chuckle softly against the rich brown banks.—Arthur Stanley Riggs in National Geographic Magazine.

The Parson Bird.
Among the feathered inhabitants of New Zealand there is a bird called the parson bird, or tuhi. It is about the size and shape of a blackbird, but has a pair of delicate white tufts at its throat and is a glossy dark green otherwise, which looks black in the sunshine. It can be taught to crow, to speak, to whistle tunes, and besides these tricks, it has a repertory which is not often equaled by any other feathered songster. At vespers it has a note like the toll of a bell or the clear, high note of an organ. It can mimic every bird in the bush to perfection. It will break off in the middle of an exquisite melody and indulge in a strange melody of sounds which are impossible to describe, but if you can imagine "the combination of a cough, a laugh, a sneeze, with the smashing of a pane of glass," it will be some approach to the idea.

From Medicine to the Drama.
The earlier part of Victorien Sardou's career was beset with many trials and difficulties. His parents wished him to take up a medical career, and he began his studies with some zeal. The love of the drama, however, was far greater than the love of the pill box, and in the interval of the other work Sardou was busy upon a play. Life was a struggle for him, for he had little money, though he managed to get journalistic work to supplement his more slender income. His first play was a failure, and Sardou rushed from the theater vowing never to enter one again. He fell seriously ill, was nursed back to health by Mlle. de Brecourt, an actress who lived on a floor below, and from that time his fortune was made.

Ship of the Desert.
For safety and endurance in traveling in desert regions the camel has been found unequalled by any other animal. Its foot is a soft cushion, peculiarly well adapted to the stones and gravel over which it is constantly walking. During a single journey through the Sahara horses have worn out three sets of shoes, while the feet of the camel, traveling over the same course, were not even sore.

Not Grasping.
"What a grasping fellow you are, Hawkins! You've bothered me about this bill fifty times in ten days."
"You wrong me, Jarley. I'm not grasping. I've bothered you about the bill, I admit, but I haven't been able to grasp anything yet."

Cholera.
Cholera was first recognized by the Portuguese in India as far back as the middle of the sixteenth century. It has the peculiarity of following a well defined route, with progress just equal to that of an average journey on foot.

Mean.
"It's so hard to buy for a man."
"Yes. I've noticed when you women are doing it you look as though it burts."—Detroit Free Press.
