OUT FISHIN'

A feller isn't thinkin' mean,
Out fishin';
His thoughts are mostly good an' clean,
Out fishin';
He doesn't knock his fellow men,
Or harbor any grudges then;
A feller's at his finest, when
Out fishin'.

The rich are comrades to the poor,
Out fishin';
All brothers of a common lure,
Out fishin';
The urchin with a pin an' string
Can chum with millionaire an' king;
Vain pride is a forgotten thing
Out fishin'.

A feller gets a chance to dream,
Out fishin';
He learns the beauties of a stream,
Out fishin';
An' he can wash his soul in air
That isn't foul with selfish care,
And relish plain an' simple fare
Out fishin'.

A feller has no time for hate,
Out fishin';
He isn't eager to be great,
Out fishin';
He isn't thinkin' thoughts of pelf,
Or goods stacked high upon a shelf,
But he is always just himself,
Out fishin'.

A feller's glad to be a friend,
Out fishin';
A helpin' hand he'll always lend,
Out fishin';
The brotherhood of rod an' line
An' sky an' stream is always fine;
Men come real close to God's design,
Out fishin'.

A feller isn't plottin' schemes,
Out fishin';
He's only busy with his dreams,
Out fishin';
His livery is a coat of tan,
His creed: to do the best he can;
A feller's always mostly man,
Out fishin'.

Hughes, Teddy and Taft are to take the stump together. Thus do democratic hopes go a-glimmering.

WHEN DAD SAYS.

A FEW days ago we heard a short conversation between two boys that had a peculiar interest to us.

Evidently one little boy had asked the other to go somewhere or to do something. The other evidently had asked permission of his father and had received a negative answer.

It was at this point that we heard the conversation. The other little boy was saying, "Come on anyway; what do you care?"

The answer was:
"I guess not; when dad says, I guess
I know what to do."

As far as we know the father of this little chap isn't one who keeps his boys in fear of him. He isn't always using a club to exact obedience. Quite frequently we have seen him playing with them as if he were one of them. Quite evidently the feeling of his children toward dad is one more of love than of fear.

When one of his boys said, "When dad says, I guess I know what to do," he spoke in a natural tone as if expressing something about which there was no possible chance for dispute or argument. It did not seem to be a question of what might happen—for nothing was going to happen—dad was going to be obeyed without any ifs or buts.

We have little fear for the future of a boy like this. A boy who is taught to obey without being clubbed to it has at least one parent (and it should be the father) who will see that he is started on the right course—and the boy who does before adolescence what his dad tells him to do is more than likely, after adolescence, to consider well if his actions are such as dad would approve.

If the word of all fathers was respected like the word of the father of the little shaver we have referred to, there would be much less sorrow in this old world.

SPANKING MEXICO.

IF WE did not have a suspicion that Germany is partly accountable for the trouble in Mexico; if we did not feel that the greed of manufacturers of arms, armament and ammunition are in a measure responsible for the conditions in Mexico; if we did not feel that through blundering diplomacy thousands of our young men must face guns sold by us and loaded with ammunition made by us, we would be more enthusiastic about the prospective Mexican war.

As it is, while we do not doubt that,
for the sake of humanity, war must come; while we must protect Americans against the attacks of greaser bandits; while there is no lack of patriotism, its ardor is somewhat cooled when it is figured that many lives could have been saved by a less vacillating policy on the part of the administration.

However, there is apparently no other honorable way out of the dilemma and we must give our solid support to our army and the administration. That is the only American thing to do.

Here's one from the Corvallis Gazettes that has some real human interest: Speaking of war, an exchange says that the most awkward thing in the world is a woman holding a gun.
Say, brother, did you ever see a bachelor holding a baby.

THE ONCE OVER—AND NEVER AGAIN.

"Have you ever read—that—Once Over—column—by that—Rex Lampman guy—in one of Portland's—daily slopovers?"

—If you have—have you—like me—
—often wondered—where he gets——his ideas—for this column—
—and why—he doesn't—use—
—some of them?"

"I have seen—and heard—
—many men—who couldn't——say—three words—without——swearing."

"And I have—often wondered—if this —Rex Lampman guy—is one—of these —and if—that is—the reason—he uses —so many—dashes—just to get—his dope—past the censors—and let the readers—imagine—what he—would like —to say."

—or does he—write his dope—at home—after supper—like I do—while the—kiddies—are around—and the wife
—is not—away—and do—those—dashes
—which chop—the stuff—up—like—a woodsman—using—a double-bitted ax——represent—places—where—a little boy—asked—

"Pop—whacha—doin'?"
—or wifey—said—
—what all—wifey say—
—'Hubby—dear—have you—
—five plunks—for me—
—for tomorrow—
—and you—think—
—Oh!—!—!
—and—!—!—!
—and—you say—
—'Yes (—!)—darling!—
—just—as sweet!"

"Or—does—the managing—editor—say—
—'Now—Lampie—old boy—just dash me—off—about a—third—of a yard —of—that—stuf—of yours'—and—is this—the way—he does—it?"
—or—does he—think—(a dangerous thing—to do)—that—putting—in—a jerk —is—much like—putting—in—some pep?"
—or—does he—do it—because—he's got—to get—the money—and—doesn't —know—poor fellow—how else—to get it!"

"He'll never—die—rich."
"Have you—I wonder—like me—often felt—grateful—to Lampman—for his column—because—it makes—you—appreciate so much—more—the realstuf—that—gets in—there—when he oversleeps—some morning—and—has to use—the shears—on a—Billy Sunday—sermon—or something—with some—real pep—to it?"

"I have—often—wondered—why he——calls—it—The Once Over—but it comes—to me—just now—
"LISTEN!—he doesn't—want—folks
—to think—that he's—going—to tryto put it—over—again."

Evidently there are chautauqua knockers in other cities. List to this from the Woodburn Independent:

'Tis true that the chautauqua takes money out of town. So does baseball.
So do these outings that so many take.
There are many things not taken into consideration that take money out of town. If the people of Woodburn did not get a chautauqua here they would go where there was a chautauqua, and that also would take money out of the town.

Anything that's worth selling is worth the price of a want ad. to help sell it.

SILK CREEK

(Special to The Sentinel.)
June 23.—L. B. Slagle has finished his work at London. He returned home Friday evening.

Miss Lena Burcham, who taught in Astoria, is at home for her summer vacation.

Curtis Veatch took his wife, who has been quite ill for the past month, to Portland Saturday.

On his way from Lorane Sunday morning Elder Riggs met with an accident. His horse became frightened and ran away. Mr. Riggs lost his hat. He preached at the Methodist church.

Mrs. Frank Woosley and four children left Sunday morning for California to join Mr. Woosley and the other children.

Mrs. I. N. Dresser, of Lynx Hollow,
Mrs. A. L. Chitwood and Mrs. L. A.
Gibson, of this place were visitors at Mrs. Lou Wheeler's home Sunday.

June 24 was Children's Rally day, and a nice program was given by the Seventh-day Adventist church in which every member of the Sabbath school, 68 in number, had a part. The church was decorated with evergreens and flowers. A large donation was raised for foreign mission work, South America being the especial field at this rally.

H. M. Damewood and his mother visited Thursday with friends in Cottage Grove.

Mr. and Mrs. O. Heine drove to Cottage Grove Saturday evening.

The S. Burcham family were guests
Sunday at the Arthur Wooley home.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Gildersleeve, Dora Chitwood, Alta and Zella Fawcett and Mildred Gibson went to Lynx Hollow Sunday.

Varien and Shirley Dresser, of Lynx Hollow, attended the rally day program
Saturday.

Alva Walker has gone to Disston to work.

Leslie and Gertrude Godard left the first of the week for their home in Brush, Colo.

Mrs. John Ashly and daughters entertained eight little girls last Wednesday afternoon.

The Silk Creek aid will meet Wednesday at the Ashby home.

Grant Sweet, of Lynx Hollow, attended church here.

Study Food Values

Food provided for the family table deserves the careful thought of every housewife. Do you use thought when buying baking powder?

The quality of cake, biscuits and all quickly raised flour foods depends largely upon the kind of baking powder used.

Royal Baking Powder is made from cream of tartar derived from grapes. It is absolutely pure and has proved its excellence for making food of finest quality and wholesomeness for generations.

Royal Baking Powder contains no alum nor phosphate.
