

AN EVOLUTION —NOT A REVOLUTION

In the Mitchell Motor we think has been attained the happy combination of simplicity and efficiency. This motor is not a new type with the Mitchell. It has been perfected through use in several Mitchell models. It is L design, a type found in some of the most expensive motor cars manufactured. In this Mitchell motor all valve mechanism is enclosed and operates in a vapor of oil. Not a moving part is exposed excepting the fan shaft and fly wheel. This construction eliminates the possibility of noise and reduces wear to a minimum. The carburetor is extremely high. The intake manifold is cast inside the cylinder block and the air for the carburetor is taken off the exhaust pipe, which insures thoroughly vaporized gas and high mileage. Note the combination of water pump and fan, both belt driven. This is a Mitchell feature which is being paid the compliment of imitation. Also note the Vacuum Feed is mounted on the engine block, no twisting of connections as when mounted on the body. The Mitchell cylinder head is quickly detachable and exposes the valves and pistons for attention. The electrical equipment is the double unit type, generator for generating and a starter for starting, all gear driven.

Of course, judgment of a motor must be founded upon performance. Give us the opportunity of showing what this car will do in the way of pulling, throttling down on high gear and general all around car service, and we will convince you that there is a difference.

State of Oregon, County of Lane, ss. Before me, a notary public in and for the state and county aforesaid, personally appeared Elbert Bede, who, having been duly sworn according to law, deposes and says that he is the business manager of the Cottage Grove Sentinel and Cottage Grove Leader, and that the following is, to the best of his knowledge and belief, a true statement of the ownership, management, etc., of the aforesaid publication for the date shown in the above caption, required by the act of congress of August 24, 1912, embodied in section 443, postal laws and regulations, printed on the reverse side of this form, to-wit:

1. That the names and addresses of

FREE NEWSPAPER SPACE.

Jamesville (Wisconsin) Gazette: When other folks donate a hall, donate the lights, donate the heat, donate the music, donate the speaking, donate the decorations, donate the feed, donate the invitations, donate the programs, donate, in fact, everything connected with the entertainment, and no charge is made for admission, or there is nothing to sell, it ought to be clear to all fair-minded people that then it is perfectly fair to come to the Gazette and ask it to donate its service in bringing the crowd that is necessary to make a success of the affair.

How many times will it be necessary for the Gazette to explain that when a thing happens it is news? Announcing it before it happens is plain and simple advertising, a service which the Gazette is pleased to offer for sale at a very moderate price, just the same as a merchant offers goods for sale. There is no more reason for the Gazette giving away advertising than there is for the merchant to stand behind his counters and give away his merchandise to all who come and ask for it.

Spray Formula for Apple and Pear Scab in Lane County.

No. 1—Lime-sulphur solution one part to 25 parts of water, plus 1 1/2 pounds of iron sulphate (copperas) previously dissolved in water, to each 50 gallons of the solution.

For aphid and Black Leaf "40" one part to 1000 parts of this solution. Apply when leaves around fruit buds are one-half to three-fourth inch in length.

No. 2—Lime-sulphur solution one part to 25 parts of water. Add iron sulphate as in No. 1. Apply just before blossoms open.

No. 3—Lime-sulphur solution one part to 45 parts of water. Add two pounds of the dry arsenate of lead, or four pounds of the paste arsenate to each 100 gallons of this solution, and iron sulphate as in No. 1. Apply when three-fourths of the blossoms have fallen.

No. 4—Lime-sulphur solution one part to 45 or 50 gallons of water, plus iron sulphate one pound to each 50 gallons of the solution. Apply ten days or two weeks after No. 3.

The date for the second codling moth spray will be given as soon as the adult moths appear. Keep all spray material well agitated, and wet all sides of the young fruit.

Iron sulphate does not impair the fungicidal properties of the lime-sulphur solution, but does lessen the danger of spray injury.

Harry Babcock tells about the best cold weather story heard yet. He says that out in Wimbledon, N. D., where his daughter is teaching, a cat and a dog got into a fight and apparently while making a last determined stand against one another, their bodies were frozen stiff, and were found in that attitude a few days later, their eyes wide open and filled with rage. Both had apparently become paralyzed with the intense cold, and rather than give an inch of ground to the other, had frozen to death.

INSTANT ACTION SURPRISES MANY HERE

This grocer's story surprises local people: "I had had stomach trouble. All food seemed to sour and form gas. Was always constipated. Nothing helped me until I tried buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adler-ika. ONE SPOONFUL astonished me with its INSTANT action." Because Adler-ika flushes the ENTIRE alimentary tract it relieves ANY CASE constipation, sour stomach or gas and prevents appendicitis. It has QUICKEST action of anything we ever sold. WILSON DELIVERS HIS WAR MESSAGE

President Declares Germany
Has Forced United States
Into Conflict.

Washington—Reciting the aggressions of Germany which have virtually thrust the United States into the world conflict President Wilson Monday night asked congress to declare that a state of war exists.

To carry on an effective warfare against the German government which he characterized as a "natural foe to liberty," the president recommended:

Utmost practical co-operation in counsel and action with the governments already at war with Germany.

Extension of liberal financial credits to those governments so that the resources of America may be added, so far as possible, to theirs.

Organization and mobilization of all the material resources of the country.

Full equipment of the navy, particularly for means of dealing with submarine warfare.

An army of at least 500,000, based on the principle of universal liability to service and the authorization of additional increments of 500,000 each as they are needed or can be handled in training.

Raising necessary money for the United States government so far as possible without borrowing and on the basis of equitable taxation.

All preparation, the president urged, should be made in such way as not to check the flow of war supplies to the nations already in the field against Germany.

Denounces German Government.

In a dispassionate but unmeasured denunciation of the course of the imperial German government, which he characterized as a challenge to all mankind and a warfare against all nations, the president declared that neutrality no longer was feasible or desirable where the peace of the world was involved; that armed neutrality had become ineffectual enough at best and was likely to produce what it was meant to prevent, and urged that congress accept the gage of battle with all the resources of the nation.

"I advise that the congress declare the recent course of the imperial German government to be in fact nothing less than war against the government and people of the United States," said the president, "that it formally accept the status of belligerent which has thus been thrust upon it, and it take steps not only to put the country in a more thorough state of defense, but also to exert all its power and employ all its resources to bring the government of the German empire to terms and end the war."

Submarine Warfare Without Compensation or Principle.

Referring to the German submarine policy the president said: "The new policy has swept every restriction aside. Vessels of every kind, whatever their flag, their character, their cargo, their destination, their errand, have been ruthlessly sent to the bottom without warning and without thought of help or mercy for those on board, the vessels of friendly neutrals along with belligerents. Even hospital ships and ships carrying relief to the sorely bereaved and stricken people of Belgium, though the latter were provided with safe conduct through the proscribed areas by the German government itself, and were distinguished by unmistakable marks of identity, have been sunk with the same reckless lack of compassion and principle."

The objects of the United States in entering the war, the president said, are to vindicate the principles of peace and justice against "selfish and autocratic power." Without selfish ends, for conquest, or dominion, seeking no indemnities or material compensations for the sacrifices it shall make, the United States must enter the war, he said, to make the world safe for democracy, as only one of the champions of the rights of mankind, and would be satisfied when those rights were as secure as the faith and freedom of nations could make them.

No Quarrel With German People.
"The wrongs against which we now arm ourselves," he said, "are no common wrongs. They cut to the very root of human life."

Disclaiming any quarrel with the German people and anything but a feeling of friendship and sympathy for them, the president declared their government had not acted upon their impulses in entering the war nor with their previous knowledge or approval. "It was a war," he said, "determined upon as wars used to be determined upon in the old unhappy days when peoples were nowhere consulted by their rulers and wars were provoked and waged in the interest of dynasties or of little groups of ambitious men who were accustomed to use their fellow men as pawns and tools."
