Poultry Farming

STARTING WITH POULTRY.

Beginners Should Choose a Breed of Fowls to Suit Their Purpose.

The person who starts out with a fondness for a particular breed of chickens should capitalize on that fondness if it is at all feasible, says H. A. Roberts in the Philadelphia Ledger. For example, we will say that a person is partial to Light Brahmas. That person should make his specialty meat and not eggs. If, on the other hand, he favors Silver Campines to the exclusion of all other breeds, he should make his specialty eggs and not meat. The Light Brahma is one of the best meat breeds either for soft roasters or capons. The Silver Campine is essential to an egg producer and is not desirable for table poultry. When we say "not desirable for table poultry" we mean that it is not in popular demand and not particularly profitable as such.

The person who starts out with a specialty firmly fixed in his mind should make everything subordinate to this end. If he has his mind made up on a broiler plant, well and good. He will do well to choose the Wyandotte, all other things being equal. He might also select the Plymouth Rock or the Rhode Island Red or numerous others, but he would be heading wrong to pick out, let us say, the Hamburg or the Polish.

On the contrary, if this man wanted to establish a specialty in fancy eggs for a select trade and the trade called for white eggs he would do well to raise Leghorns and not Cornish or Red Pyle gamers. If the market requirements demanded brown shelled eggs he must forget about Leghorns and turn to one of the American breeds or English breeds. New York, for instance, is very partial to white eggs. They command premium prices over brown eggs. Whereas Boston favors brown eggs, as do other New England cities.

We now come to the person who has few if any convictions as to breeds or purposes. He will be influenced by his circumstances, of course, the amount of available capital, the amount of labor he intends putting into the project and the locality in which he hopes to make a start.

In extremely cold climates where the winters are long and severe it is sometimes best to adopt one of the heavier breeds, such as the Plymouth Rocks, for these are hardy birds. If the location is adjacent to water, ducks should be considered. If there is an abundance of pasture land geese would be profitable. Where there is wide range in a wood lot turkeys and guineas do well.

HENS FOR BREEDING.

Pullets Should Not Be Forced For Egg Production.

The age at which a hen is most profitable for egg production depends largely on the method of feeding and the purpose for which the bird is kept. In the opinion of N. L. Harris, superintendent of the poultry farm at the Kansas State Agricultural college, "If the object is heavy egg production, without expectation of using the bird for a future breeder, the forcing method is adopted. By this method the hens are kept in a small yard or house and are given a ration which is high in egg producing elements. By this method the reproductive system is worked to its highest capacity. It is seldom that a bird will be able to stand up under such feeding conditions for more than one season. This system of forcing is followed by large commercial egg plants, the object being to get the greatest possible income from the hens in the shortest time.

The forcing habit has given rise to the statement that the pullet year is the most profitable of the life of the hen. As the great majority of hens are kept on the general farm, where the production of eggs is merely a sideline, the general plan being to allow the hens free range and feeding them so as to produce only the normal amount of eggs. Cared for in this way, hens of the small egg breeds will produce nearly, but not quite as many eggs the second season as the first. Those breeds which have a tendency to put on fat readily usually become unprofitable the second year.

Hens that are kept as breeders should never be given highly concentrated feeds. If this should be the case the hens will not be in a good physical condition to produce the best of chicks.

MAKING A BIG STORE OUT OF A LITTLE ONE

No more than you can eat in one day to last you a week, can a business man advertise enough in one week to last a year. The only time to stop advertising is after the store burns down. Even then some sort of advertising should be kept going in case the proprietor intends to open up again. No little store can become a big store without advertising any more than a baby can grow up without milk. Perhaps there may have been a time when a storekeeper could build a retail business to a satisfactory size without printed advertising, but it was possible only then to the few individuals who possessed highly developed business acumen and personal magnetism. In a community where personal acquaintance is productive of steady customers it sometimes happens that a merchant commands considerable trade on account of his personality. But the merchant who must appeal to the entire community upon the merit of his goods and the rightness of his prices can not hope to win success by standing on the sidewalk and buttonholing the passing public. A store must have dignity no less than the merchant must, and good advertising lends dignity to the advertiser. Big stores nowadays are advertising stores. Business men who hate advertising do not remain in business.—Eugene Guard.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

Sept. 3.—Council met in regular session with all present except Aldermen Vench and Garoutte. Minutes read and approved. Reports of recorder and treasurer received and placed on file. Matter of Currin foot bridge referred to street committee with instructions to confer with interested property owners and report at adjourned meeting of the council.

On motion Mr. French was given permission to take and use discarded 5-inch wood pipe near old west side reservoir.

The following bills were read and after being audited were allowed and ordered paid:

J. E. YOUNG, Recorder.

A live community wants a live newspaper. There can be no live newspaper without the support of those who wish such a newspaper. Are you doing your bit?

Society

If you know of a society item and do not inform the newspaper, it is your own fault if it is not printed.

Miss Eva Dell Burton, daughter of Assessor and Mrs. D. P. Burton, of Eugene, and a native of Cottage Grove, was married at Eugene Wednesday of last week to Frank B. Barrow, Rev. W. H. Davis performing the ceremony. The Burtons moved to Eugene the first of the year.

The ladies of the W. R. C. were entertained Sunday by Mrs. Elizabeth Fahrenwald and Mrs. Adrien Bransdal, it being their birthday anniversary. The guests were told to follow the hostesses and presently came in contact with a splendid dinner which had been set out in a grove. Later in the afternoon ice cream was served. Those present were Mrs. McKibben, Mrs. Spriggs, Mrs. Graber, Mrs. Hart, Mrs. Evans, Mrs. Rohde and daughter, Mrs. Tompkins, Mrs. Leonard, Mrs. Hale and children, Miss Frances Hamloth, Andrew, Matilda and Tommy Bransdal and little Miss Georgetta Knowles.

Mrs. Raymond Trask entertained in a most delightful manner yesterday afternoon at her pretty country home in honor of Mrs. Roy W. Glass. The yard was decorated with bouquets and the lawn, where the guests were seated, was neatly covered with carpet. A well was improvised with the old-fashioned bucket and the guests were bidden to drink after the "birds" sang the old song "The Old Oaken Bucket." Delightful solos were given by Mrs. Leon DesLarzes, Mrs. Glass, Miss Jessie McCord, Miss Leah Perkins, and Mrs. J. England. Miss Mae Armstrong gave a piano solo and Miss Eunice VanDenburg a reading. After the program the guests were bidden to enter the house where luncheon was served upon daintily laid tables with huge centerpieces of asters and ferns. Mrs. Trask was assisted in serving by Misses Maud Doyle, Juanita Short, Esther Brieher, Marie Jones, Inez Jones, Hildred Hall and Eva Hartung.

Mrs. George Kerr entertains the Social Twelve club this afternoon.

Hendry-Harding.
Roseburg Review, Aug. 31: A quiet wedding was performed at the offices of County Judge R. W. Marsters this afternoon when Alexander J. Hendry and Miss Violet Harding, of Cottage Grove, were united in marriage. The wedding ceremony was performed by Judge Marsters and was witnessed by Mrs. C. W. Parker, an intimate friend of the bride, and Miss Grace Lloyd, a stenographer in the offices of the county clerk. Mr. and Mrs. Hendry left this afternoon for Cottage Grove, where they will make their future home.

Eightieth Birthday Anniversary Celebrated.

News item in San Diego, Calif., newspaper: More than one hundred invitations were issued by Mrs. R. S. Button and Mrs. T. M. Coghlan for a reception at the home of the latter, 2696 National avenue, Saturday, July 25, 1917, in honor of Mrs. Button's mother, Mrs. E. J. Tait, the occasion being her eightieth anniversary.

The house was beautifully decorated in lavender and white, the color scheme being carried out in the refreshments.

Mrs. M. L. Washburn received at the door and Mesdames G. W. Hoppock and W. W. Jernald had charge of the dining room, assisted by the Misses Coghlan, Wehrman, Marie Coghlan and Mrs. Rol Bleifus.

Mrs. David Moore presided at the punch bowl assisted by Miss Alvina Coghlan.

One group of friends presented the honored guest with a beautiful read rocker made to order, while the Clover Leaf Thimble club, of which she is a member, gave her a handsome lavalliere. Mrs. Tait was also the recipient of many other gifts and tokens of esteem from admiring friends.

The out-of-town guests were Mrs. Frank Leffler, of Porterville, a niece of Mrs. Tait; Mrs. B. Roberts, of Los Angeles, and Miss Margarita Wehrman, of Madera, house guest of Miss Coghlan.

Saginaw Society.
A surprise party was given recently in honor of the birthday anniversary of Mrs. C. C. Moody. Friends and relatives presented themselves, bringing well-filled lunch baskets, and the occasion was much enjoyed.

CATES IN SUCH A RUSH HE FORGETS GASOLINE

The friends of Lew Cates, former publisher of the Sentinel, who was here yesterday on his way to Marshfield, have a good joke on him. He was in a terrible hurry to go on his way and could hardly stop to say howdy. As soon as he could get his rotund avoirdupois around a generous quantity of dinner he hustled his companions into the car and tore out of the city. Three miles south the engine went put-a-put and stopped. After examining everything that could possibly go wrong someone suggested an investigation of the gasoline tank. It was as dry as Oregon is supposed to be, and Lew had to hike a mile to a phone and have Woodson brothers send out their service car and a supply of gas. Lew would better have stopped around town and got a free supply.

Hurt in Fall From Buggy.
Miss Julia Turner, of Divide, was injured when thrown from her buggy when the horse stumbled. Miss Turner's front teeth were loosened and she was considerably bruised. The horse sustained some scratches.

Red Cross and Mess Fund Donations.
During the past week a membership fee in the Red Cross has been received from Miss Gertrude Lockwood, of Grass Valley, Ore., and a $5 donation to the Sixth company mess fund has been received from Hugh Curran, of Juneau, Alaska.

Hospital Notes.
Glen Arne, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Arne, was operated upon at the Cottage Grove hospital Friday for the removal of tonsils and adenoids.

J. D. Crowe is at the hospital for an operation.

Mrs. Ida Gilman, of Lorane, underwent a major operation yesterday.

A chauffeur has been found guilty of polygamy upon the complaint of five wives. The automobile must breed terrible extravagance.

A celebrated physician says that tight lacing causes red noses. Physicians can talk until they are black in the face about corsets squeezing the stomach into the top of the month and the rest of the organs into the most accessible portions of the diaphragm without making any impression upon the gentler sex, but when they can show that tight lacing disfigures the face, their advice may receive some consideration.
