Society

If you know of a society item and do not inform the newspaper, it is your own fault if it is not printed.

The Joker club met Monday evening with Mrs. Clara Burkholder. The evening was spent playing five hundred. No refreshments were served and the club voted to cooperate with the local committee of the food administration. Mrs. Will Hall was a guest of the club.

The seventh and eighth grades of the public schools held a party in the assembly room of the old school building Friday evening. Games were played and apples were served. This was the first of several parties which these grades plan to hold.

The Constellation club met at Masonic hall last Thursday with Mrs. Joe Porter and Mrs. Harry Wynne as hostesses. Hooverized refreshments were served and it was voted to do away with refreshments entirely during the war.

The freshman class party was held in Moose hall Friday evening. Games and dancing were indulged in. A few invited guests were present.

Mrs. G. B. Pletcher entertained a few friends Tuesday afternoon in honor of her guest, Miss Allie Worrell, of Albany.

The Social Twelve club meets this afternoon with Mrs. George M. Hall.

The Emanon club meets this afternoon with Mrs. Van Allison.

HONOR GUARD NOTES.

As members of the Girls' National Honor Guard we are today standing at the crucial point of our existence. Just what the Honor Guard may become depends upon our efforts this winter. We have all read of the heroism and splendid deeds of the women of the Civil war and of Revolutionary times and have wished that we too might have some part in our country's history. Girls, our time is here. In England, France and other countries of Europe it has been proved that their armies could not have taken the stands they have had if it not been for the girls and women backing them at home. Wouldn't our boys who have cheered so lustily for the Honor Guard and its splendid spirit have a mighty poor opinion of the patriotism of the Oregon girls if on their return from service they should ask, "What happened to the Honor Guard?" and some girls would answer "Oh, we got tired and dropped it."

Our organization was started to create a spirit of patriotism and duty in the girls of America. Girls, we have come out strong in expressing our patriotism, but when it comes to duty we just don't know what that means, that's all. Many of us have forgotten that it is our duty to live up to the pledge we signed—to obey the rules and regulations of the Guard, to hold the name of the Honor Guard high above reproach and that it is our duty to serve our country in any way we can, however small and menial the service may be.—Extract from letter of Miss Lucile Danforth, state organizer.

Miss May Riggs and Miss Florence Hickey, with the assistance of Paul Holladay, Ivan Sams and several other school boys, harvested the Honor Guard bean crop planted on the Nichols lot. These beans and others grown on the Newcomb place are yet to be shelled. Volunteers accepted. Come on, girls and boys, and help "do your bit."

The Girls' National Honor Guard will publish a magazine shortly. An associate editor will be appointed to represent our Guard. She will personally request various girls to contribute social notes, stories, jokes, poems, etc. All members who have paid their quarterly dues are entitled to a three-months subscription to the magazine free of charge.

A meeting of the Guard will be held at 7:30 tomorrow evening at the high school auditorium to discuss various matters relating to the Guard. All members are urgently requested to attend.

The Honor Guard girls have occasion to feel proud of their assistance in the bucket brigade which saved the lumber in the disastrous fire which recently destroyed the J. H. Chambers mill.

Military drill has been suspended until the girls feel sufficiently enthusiastic to attend. Mr. Woodruff has obtained the new Plattsburg manual of arms and is fully prepared to do his part.

A live community wants a live newspaper. There can be no live newspaper without the support of those who wish such a newspaper. Are you doing your bit?

AROUND THE WORLD IN EIGHTY DAYS

One of the most novel and clean pictures to come to Cottage Grove is "Around the World in Eighty Days," to be screened at the Arcade Theater on Wednesday, November 14.

This production is adapted from the famous book by Jules Verne and a series of scenes are shown in the cities visited in making the trip. The story which has been exceptionally well told, tells of a tale of Phileas Fogg, who is left heir to a fortune under the conditions that he make a trip around the world in eighty days and come back with a bride. At the time of starting he is suspected of a crime and a woman detective is assigned to trail him. Just imagine this situation and you have the basis for a delightful chase. Adventure after adventure confronted them and all this is pictured with absolute regard to the detail of the book. A real dramatic ending is placed before the audience in which the wager, fortune and bride are won at the last minute.

Klamath Falls, Oct. 26.—The large audience at the opera house last night was very well pleased with the feature play "Around the World in Eighty Days," by Jules Verne. This production is very interesting, as it keeps the spectators in suspense, guessing how the story is going to end. Mention should be made in respect to the photography, which is exceptionally good, and was greatly appreciated by those present last evening.

RED CROSS NOTES.

The Masonic lodge has donated the use of their banquet room for the class in surgical dressings and bandages. Mrs. R. S. Trask, who will have charge of this class, called a meeting which was held at the high school Monday afternoon, a large number enlisting for the work. The first meeting for work will be held at 2:30 Thursday afternoon, November 15.

The Mount View Red Cross auxiliary met Thursday with Mrs. F. J. Helliwell and the time was spent in doing sewing for the Red Cross. Refreshments were served, but in accordance with the campaign to eliminate all unnecessary use of food, no lunch will be served at future meetings. Mrs. Clara Burkholder, Mrs. J. S. Silby and Mrs. G. C. Dye were out from the Grove to assist the members in starting the sewing. Those present besides those from Cottage Grove were Mrs. John Immanuel, Mrs. B. G. Crow, Miss Mae Hamant, Mrs. Hopper, Mrs. George Layng, Mrs. Waldo Miller, Mrs. Art Demorester, Mrs. C. W. Sears, Mrs. L. J. Beidler, Mrs. James Miles and Mrs. Chas. Bales. All the meetings will be held hereafter at the home of Mrs. F. J. Helliwell. The next meeting will be on Wednesday, November 14.

Room 7 at the high school will be available Wednesday forenoon and afternoons. The Friday afternoon classes will meet there as usual.

Membership fees are acceptable at all times.

A contribution of $1.50 was received from a member this week.

Mrs. Protzman has organized a class which meets at her home Saturday afternoons. Thirteen were present last Saturday, at which time 11 tryp cloths and 8 bed socks were made. Work has been planned for next Saturday.

Mrs. R. S. Trask went to Eugene Tuesday to complete her preparations for taking charge of the class in surgical dressings and bandages. From there she will go to Portland to enlist as a Red Cross nurse for home work, when she will be ready to take charge of the class.

Strike Doesn't Touch Cottage Grove. Cottage Grove was not affected by the strike of telephone operators upon the system of the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph company. All the girls here remained on the job and there was no interruption of service.

Oregonian Subscriptions. During the month of November, I will take subscriptions for the Oregonian, delivered by mail, at the following prices: Daily, one year, $4.00; Daily and Sunday, one year, $6.00; Weekly, one year, $7.50. The advanced rates are made absolutely necessary by the increased cost of producing a newspaper.

PECULIAR SOURCES OF MANY NAMES OF PLACES

ROW RIVER HOME OF SCRAP-PERS; WOMAN'S FANCY NAMES SILK CREEK

The Oregonian and the Corvallis Gazette-Times have been having quite a discussion concerning the peculiarity and derivation of the names of places, mountains and streams of Oregon.

The Cottage Grove country probably has as many peculiar names as any place on the coast and there is authentic information as to the derivation of all of them.

Steamboat creek, for example, does not get its name in the manner one would expect. There never has been a steamboat anywhere near this little mountain stream. In the early days gold was discovered along this creek and there was a stampede to stake out claims. While gold has been mined there ever since, the early prospectors were disappointed. The country did not come up to the advance notices and in mining parlance that is called being "steambusted." The creek has ever since been called Steamboat.

Row river, pronounced with short "o," was originally called the east fork of the Coast fork. Two neighbors who lived along its bank were continually quarreling and gradually the name was changed to Row river.

Horse Heaven creek was named in the early 50's. At the head of the creek, which is in the Bohemia district, was a fertile prairie where grass grew several feet high in the summer time. There was but one way in and out of this valley and a pole placed across this trail securely penned in stock put there to graze. The early pioneers called this sunken prairie a horse heaven and that name was gradually adopted for the creek that has its source there.

Silk creek was originally Hazelton creek, but many years ago the wife of a farmer living there became dissatisfied with her lot and wanted better clothes, so she brought a cow to town and traded it for a silk dress. Since then the name Silk creek has stuck.

Frank Brass creek was named after a prospector of the early days. While he and Dr. Oglesby, still a resident of this city, were trailing it into the Bohemia district looking for the source of gold flakes which they had found in the larger stream below, Mr. Brass fell into the creek and his companion there upon named the creek after Mr. Brass. The right fork of the river they named Oglesby creek, but this has since been changed to Sharp's creek, being named after old Bohemia Sharp, early prospector and road builder, now an inmate of the county farm.

Lynx hollow, now one of the finest farming sections of this vicinity, was named in this manner: One night, after dark, one of the early settlers was followed by a neighbor's dog. He thought the bright eyes showing in the dark were those of a lynx and that name was gradually saddled upon the community.

Adams mountain was named after O. P. Adams, an early prospector who died a few years ago. June mountain was thus named because the snow remains on it until that month of the year. Cerro Gordo mountain was named by an Irish pioneer of 1854 who had fought in the Mexican war and he gave it that name because it so greatly resembled Cerro Gordo mountain in Mexico. He also named the valley above Cerro Gordo, calling it Buena Vista because it so greatly resembled the valley by that name in Mexico.

Prayther creek was named after an early settler who had his home there. Layng creek was named after George Layng, still living, and thus the history of the naming of Cottage Grove places and mountains and streams might be carried on indefinitely.

Perhaps the most ravisngly classical name the Cottage Grove country has is Rujada, the lumber camp at the end of the O. P. & E. railway. This is a word taken from a telegraph code meaning a considerable body of standing timber which is available.

The name of Cottage Grove itself has quite a history. In the early days there was no postoffice in this part of the county. Finally one was established at a point east of what is now Creswell. Postmaster Pierce had his home in a cottage in a beautiful oak grove, and named the postoffice Cottage Grove. Later a man named Hamilton got the postmastership and moved the postoffice to a place near what is now Saguinaw. Later a man named Martin, father of N. H. Martin, now a resident of Portland, was made postmaster and he moved the postoffice to Slabtown, now a part of Cottage Grove, the peripatetic postoffice retaining its old name.

The Sentinel is indebted to Dr. W. W. Oglesby for much of the information in this story.

Subscription Rates. After November 20, the following rates will apply upon subscriptions to The Sentinel:

One year, $1.75; six months, 90c; three months, 50c. One year, when paid in advance, or within 30 days after expiration, $1.50 (this special rate applies only upon subscriptions for full year).

The advanced rates are made absolutely necessary by the increased cost of producing a newspaper.

LEONARD MORGAN TELLS OF HIS LIFE IN THE NAVY

Leonard Morgan, who is with a United States battleship, has written his mother and relatives here of some of his experiences. His ship convoyed several troop transports and all got caught in one of the worst storms the ships had ever been in. All came through unharmed. One sailor was washed overboard but was rescued by another, who went over after him with a life preserver. The trip was an exciting one, two subs being sighted in the war zone. Evidently the subs did not care to monkey with the heavily convoyed transports, which opened fire upon the undersea boats. Leonard said he greatly enjoyed the letters from home and copies of The Sentinel.

Those who advertise in The Sentinel deserve your business because they tell you that they want it, and name prices that should get it.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

October 5.—The council met in regular session with all members present. The roll was called and minutes read and approved.

The reports of the marshal, treasurer and recorder were read and placed on file.

The recorder was instructed to file a petition with the public service commission releasing the city from placing advance warning signs at railway crossings.

The proposition of J. H. Chambers and the Cottage Grove Manufacturing company to build a hose house for east side fire truck was read and referred to water committee.

A resolution authorizing the furnishing of the overflow water to the Brown Lumber company was read and after considerable discussion upon the part of the council and citizens present, the following motion was adopted: "Moved that it is the sense of this council that the Brown Lumber company be given the use of the overflow water for a period of 15 years on the same conditions they have had it in the past and that the city will enter into a binding contract with said company to that effect."

On motion a warrant was ordered drawn in favor of J. P. Curran for $75.

as the city's portion of the expense of rebuilding the Curran footbridge.

On motion the water commissioner was ordered to connect up the water for Joe Porter.

On motion the city marshal was instructed to secure lumber for the repair of defective sidewalks where the owners have failed to make the necessary repairs when ordered to do so, the cost to be a lien against the property.

On motion the recorder was instructed to have the north approach to the Milk creek bridge on Pacific highway repaired.

A communication was read from the attorney general giving his opinion that the city could not hold another election until the time of the next state election and that the present incumbents of city offices will hold over until that time.
