SENATOR GUS C. MOSER IS NOW OPEN CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNORSHIP

SUPPORTED ROAD BOND MEASURE BUT NOT SATISFIED WITH RESULTS.

Declares That if He Is Made Governor Will Wish of Himself and of People Shall Be Carried Out.

Gus C. Moser, president of the Oregon state senate, has made public announcement of his candidacy for the republican nomination for governor at the coming primary election which will be held May 17, 1918.

Senator Moser was a candidate for the same nomination four years ago, when there were eight republican candidates in the race, four of whom were from Multnomah county and two from Oregon City. Notwithstanding this divided vote, he carried Multnomah county by nearly 4000 plurality, and stood second in the state as a whole. When he found that Governor Withycombe had defeated him for the nomination, he invited the six other defeated candidates to his office and organized them into what was afterwards known as "The Harmony Club," and this club was largely instrumental in the election of Governor Withycombe over Dr. C. J. Smith, the democratic nominee.

Mr. Moser has been a member of the state senate for the past six years and has had a leading part in all constructive legislation enacted during that period. He was chairman of the senate judiciary committee at the 1913 and 1915 sessions, and was unanimously elected president at the 1917 session.

Senator Moser's preliminary declaration of principles is an able paper and almost a gem of literature. He puts out and out Americanism first and foremost and promises, in the event of his election, that the governor's office shall in every way possible aid the national administration in the successful prosecution of the war. He pledges himself to the elimination of useless boards and commissions and from the experience gained as a member of the state legislature he is in a position to know how this can be done.

The most interesting part of his declaration is that concerning roads and highways, referring particularly to the six million-dollar road bond issue. He says:
 "The last issue, but most important except the war, which I shall mention at this time, is that of highway construction. I am a firm believer in good roads, and at the last session favored the passage of the six-million-dollar bonding bill, but it was my influence as president of the senate which forced an amendment to the effect that it should not become operative until approved by a vote of the people. I was, and am, opposed to bonds, except by a vote of the people. I also favored the bill in the campaign for its approval by the people, and I still favor it, but I am opposed to the way it is being administered."
 "After our new highway commission was appointed by Governor Withycombe, and as a part of their campaign for the passage of the bill by the people, its members promised us that there should be free, fair and open competition in the letting of paving contracts; that we should get 'a dollar's worth of road for a dollar'; that no trust or monopoly, or patented pavement, should be favored as against any other. These promises have not been kept. The Warren Construction company, or someone laying its patented pavement, gets practically all of the paving contracts, and we pay vastly more for our pavements than is being paid either in Washington or California. We are not getting 'a dollar's worth of road for a dollar.'"
 "Our state highway commission, dominated by its chairman, Simon Benson, seems to think that the only pavement that is worth laying is the Warren Construction company's patented bituthite—no matter what the cost. It seems to be wedded to this patented pavement. The national government, and most of the states, decline to pay the royalties these people demand, but not so with our present state administration. The time has come to call a halt. The powerful, secret political influence of the Warren Construction company in Oregon must be forever destroyed."
 "If nominated and elected I will appoint a state highway commission that will carry out the promises which were made to the people by the present one, who will see to it that no bonds are sold below par, and that we get 'a dollar's worth of roads for a dollar.'"
 "Furthermore, because of the scarcity and increased cost of labor and material, caused by war conditions, and their urgent need for war purposes, pavements should be laid only in cases of emergency and where they are necessary to preserve and carry out projects already under way. We all want good roads, but we can afford to wait during the pendency of the war, for permanent pavements, and have something for labor to do when the war is over and materials are cheaper."
