Watch This Space For Bargains in

Used Cars

One of the best ways to learn to drive a car is to get a second-hand one. Then any mishap is not so serious. Then there are many who hang back about buying a car because they do not feel that they can afford one of the new ones. Many of the second-hand ones are just as good as new ones as far as service is concerned and will serve your purpose until such time as you can afford a new one. Anyone can afford a car at the prices we name below on used cars, some of which are in the best of condition. You can go just as far and just as often with a second-hand car and get just as much pleasure out of your trip. Look these over.

Possibly you don't like the idea of buying a new car until after you have learned to drive. How would one of these do for you to practice up on? 1912 FLANDERS 20; in fair condition; not a modern car, but has lots of service left and is going quick at.....$200

1913 PATERSON; 30 h. p. Lots of power and lots of value at only...$210

E. M. F. 30; good tires and a bargain at.....$250

Wouldn't you like to have a car that can show 'em all where to head in at? BUICK SPEED ROADSTER in tip-top mechanical condition and will do 90 miles when the cops aren't looking. Well worth more than the price...$500

If you want class and yet do not feel that you can pay the price of a new car, here is just exactly what you want: 1913 OVERLAND; model 71; self-starter and electric lights; just as good as new for all purposes and in A No. 1 condition. We will move it at.....$600

Any use for a motor truck? If you have, take a good look at the following: STUDEBAKER combination truck; a good tire equipment and car in first-class condition; will soon pay for itself at.....$750

Most any of these cars can be bought with a small payment down and small monthly payments on balance.

A Friend Told a Friend Who Told a Friend of Mine Who Told Me.

The following is lifted bodily from "Red Cross Clippings," that spicy sheet that comes each week from the Pennsylvania division:

"Dear Mr. Editor: For weeks I have been on a mad quest. I have been trying to find the original human being who sewed the five-dollar bill in the sweater, etc., etc.

"Three days ago I traced it to the 'friend who told my friend.' Today I exulted in finding my quarry. My postmaster—whom I asked to become one of the ten million new members—said, 'The thing that hurts the Red Cross is this—' And then I understood him to say that his mother had sewed a five-dollar bill in a sweater, etc., etc.

"'You're just the man I'm looking for,' I said. 'Six million Red Cross members, the intelligence department of the federal government, United States district attorneys—all have been trying for months to unearth the original knitter of that sweater. Give me your mother's address; it will make her famous.'

"Alas! The same answer was forthcoming. 'It wasn't my mother. It was a friend of hers who had a friend who told my mother's friend—'

"And so I submit these few lines in the hope that your readers will commit them to memory and quote them to the next gossip that repeats that story about the five-dollar bill in the pocket or sleeve that Red Cross sweaters don't have:

"Absolute evidence have I none,
But my aunt's charwoman's sister's son
Heard a policeman on his beat
Say to a housemaid in Downing street,
That he had a brother who had a friend
Who knew for a fact when the war would end.

Winter Is When Stock Get Out of Fix—

yet, healthy, thrifty animals mean more to you right now than at any other season of the year. It's because you are producing pounds of pork, beef, butter and milk with grain, hay and fodder, the products of your summer's toil. That's why your stock should be in prime condition and free from worms.

Dr. Hess Stock Tonic

Don'ts for Red Cross Knitters.

Owing to some variations in the manner of knitting, fourteen pairs of socks knit here and forwarded to the Eugene branch of the Red Cross were returned to have the work corrected. As all the help that it is possible to get is needed in the work, the auxiliary here is attempting to get the necessary instructions to knitters so that no work may be lost by reason of having to be done over in part. For that reason the following "don'ts" and "whys" have been prepared:

Don't vary from the instructions which your chapter authorizes. The Red Cross has long had experienced knitters working and investigating to produce the best possible sock for our army and the instructions are made accordingly.

One woman asked, "How in the world did the men use to wear the socks we made if they're not good enough now?" The answer was, "Just as cooking used to be done over fireplaces, though no one would choose a fireplace to cook a meal over in this day of stoves and ranges—wood, gas and electricity." If, from time to time, the chapter issues revised instructions, remember that it is done only with improvement in mind, and accept the change cheerfully.

Don't grumble because you are asked to knit according to instructions and not according to fancy, or the rules you went by years ago. Remember, discipline is the band of steel that holds an army together and makes it an effective instrument rather than an inarticulate mass.

Don't cast on the stitches tightly, but rather, very loosely. The top of the ribbing should measure 15 inches around when stretched out. An otherwise well-knitted sock may become useless if the stitches are cast on tightly, thus making a tight cord at the top. The cord should be elastic and soft. Large needles are used to make this easily possible. Loose knitting not only makes a softer sock, more pleasant to the touch, but decreases the time required to knit the sock and also conserves yarn.

Don't permit any lumps, knots or ridges in the sock. They may cause a blister which, in turn, may become infected with tetanus, gangrene or septicaemia, and the loss of the foot, or even life, may follow. Splice the yarn, in joining, and if any knots occur in the sank, break them out and splice. Splicing is done by running each end into the other for about six inches with a darning needls.

Don't knit a double heel. It hurts some feet. Use sansilk to knit in with the yarn and reinforce heel.

Don't fail to make the Kitchener closing for the toe. This rule is imperative.

Don't fasten the yarn at the end so as to make a ridge or lump. Simply run yarn once down the toe and cut off.

Don't forget to wash and press and fasten socks together before turning them in.

A. S. W. R. to Organize

COMMUNITY COOPERATION.

(Oregon Farmer.)

In these days when all of us are asked to be thrifty and saving, one of the first things we think of is to buy less and to save as much as possible on each purchase when we do buy. As a matter of fact this is a good plan to follow at all times; but there may be a tendency on the part of some of us to carry on our search for bargains too far from home.

We don't want to forget that the trade we take away from our own community helps to build up some other community or city from the growth and prosperity of which we do not ourselves get any benefit. If your home town merchants ask you a higher price than you are asked to pay by outside merchants for the same line of goods, it isn't any more than fair to discuss the situation with your home storekeepers, giving them a chance to explain why their prices are higher than those you can buy for elsewhere. There may be some reason that will be worth while learning about—some difficulty which you can help straighten out to your advantage as well as theirs, if the matter is brought up for frank discussion.

You and your family and your neighbors like to trade at an up-to-date store. If such a store can be made possible by cooperation between you and your neighbors and your local merchants—if a strong pull-together feeling can be established in your community—then that community will be progressive, will forge ahead towards better streets, better roads, better schools, better places of amusement, better and more influential churches, better social and business advantages for yourself and your folks. It is this spirit of community cooperation that almost invariably results in good for all concerned if it is kept alive and actively participated in by all.
