

Kids' stuff (continued)

Pony Rides:

Horses played an important role in Cottage Grove's early history. Cost: $5 per ride

Slabtown versus Lemati Feud Contest:

Returning for the fourth year this ongoing competition is pure old-fashioned fun for children and adults. As we begin the 2015 Feud, Lematians have the bragging rights for their two wins and it's an opportunity for Slabtowners to even the score! Check the BMD website for details on how to join in the fun or visit the Gazebo Stage during the festival.

Train Rides:

The arrival of the train in 1871 was a blessing to Cottage Grove's farmers and miners. The Pacific Power'd BMD Express provides free rides to travel back in time and visit museums, covered bridges and the Victorian home of the town's first doctor. Train guides have free maps to offsite cultural heritage attractions that are easy walking distances from train stops and within a geographic area that's significantly smaller than a Disneyland theme park.

Participation from BMD's young visitors is essential to the success of the Slabtown Vs. Lemati Feud Contest.
