

IN MEMORIAM

Harold W. Remmick 1937-2015

It is with heavy hearts we announce the passing of our beloved dad, Harold W. Remmick. He passed away at home surrounded by the love and care of his family after a hard fought battle with cancer.

While fighting his illness, he still managed to maintain his own "Harold"-style sense of humor. Harold was born in Streeter, N.D., to George and Elizabeth. He was one of 13 children. He is survived by three remaining siblings, his four daughters and numerous grandchildren and great-grandchildren. Throughout his life he enjoyed showing horses, elk hunting at Loon Lake, performing and teaching country line dancing, tending his flowers and camping with his friends and family. For the past 14 years, he worked as an educational assistant in the Harrisburg School District. Being with the students was something that he truly enjoyed.

The family will have a private remembrance and celebration of his life.

Don't settle for stuck in the middle

How do you die to something? You quit feeding it. You see, every time you give in to the desires of your flesh, you feed it. But every time you press through and starve those desires, a little bit of your flesh dies.

I could list hundreds of things I've had to die to over the years, but here are just a few.

Sin: There were things that I knew without a doubt I shouldn't do but I did them anyway. I've learned through my experiences that I can't receive the full blessings of God and live with sin in my life.

Blame: It's almost second nature to find someone to blame when something goes wrong. For example, if I lost my car keys, it was because the kids or Dave misplaced them. I eventually got it that always blaming someone else just made me unhappy and it didn't fix the problem.

Excuses: Deciding that "It's just too hard" or "I'm not like anyone else" is easy to do. But if we will take responsibility for our choices and what we're supposed to do, we will be more positive in general and make progress in our relationship with God.

Self-pity: Feeling sorry for ourselves is the most useless waste of energy on the planet. It does absolutely no good. We can't let our circumstances or what others do or don't do control us. We can decide to be happy regardless.

Complaining: It may seem like it would be a miracle to get through one day without murmuring or complaining. But if we will set our minds to say positive things instead and ask God to help us, we can progressively get complaining out of our conversation. Just think about how much better your day will be if you go to work and don't complain about anything.

Rebellion: Because my dad abused me, I was determined to never let a man tell me what to do. God clearly showed me that I needed to be a submissive wife if I wanted to be effective in ministry. The truth is, if we don't learn to submit to authority, we won't ever learn to submit to God.

Reputation: The more people I reach, the more people there are that have opinions about me. Not everyone loves me, but I have to be okay no matter what they think about me.

Injustice: The unfair things people do makes me want to say, "It's just not fair!" But I have learned to trust that God is a God of justice, and according to Isaiah 61:7, He will give me double for my trouble in His way and in His timing.

For our relationship with God to grow, we have to be willing to die to the things that aren't of God. If you'll press in, do what you can do, and trust God, He'll help you move from a life stuck in the middle to a life full of the best He has planned for you.

Stephen Richard Klansnic, Sr. August 20, 1954 - November 4, 2015

Stephen Richard Klansnic, Sr., passed away suddenly on Wednesday, November 4, 2015 at his home in Creswell, Oregon. He was only 61 years old. A life cut short too soon. He died from complications of Diabetes.

Steve was born on August 20, 1954 in Tacoma, Washington to Richard and Margaret (Hicks) Klansnic. Steve grew up in Enumclaw, Washington and graduated from Enumclaw High School in 1972. He moved to Cottage Grove, Oregon with his parents and siblings that same year and began studying diesel mechanics at Lane Community College. He graduated with an Associates Degree in Diesel Mechanics and began working at Weyerhaeuser, later at ACS Hydraulics, Oregon Bow Company and Computer Memory Disc (CMD). He was an exceptional mechanic fixing most anything and helping others with his talents. In May 1976, he married the love of his life, Glenda Perkins. They could be seen laughing and joking together; making their children, Steve and Leslie the center of their lives. They spent a great deal of time camping, four wheeling, and quad riding. Anything with a motor on it, you would see Steve riding or fixing it.

He enjoyed taking pictures and throughout his younger years he loved coaching KidSports and soccer in Cottage Grove and became the father figure to many, with a lasting bond to the day he died. He even snuck some kids on the team so they wouldn't feel left out! He loved helping others and very rarely asked for help from anyone. He enjoyed helping where needed at My Brother's Farm, owned by the Larson family, raising organic filberts, apples, hops and buffalo, and working on tractors and driving truck.

Steve liked the outdoors and spending time with his grandchildren whom he adored He reconnected with many people on Facebook the past ten years and enjoyed sending jokes and laughing with over 500 friends. More people than you could begin to count loved him. Even with his ailing health, he went to visit his Dad every day in the retirement home, sitting and talking until the day he passed. He was always helping others.

He is survived by his wife, Glenda Klansnic; son, Stephen Klansnic, Jr. and wife Jennifer; daughter, Leslie Swanson; brother, Tom Klansnic; sister, Susan Rikala; 5 grandchildren, a great grandchild, and many nieces and nephews who loved him dearly.
