the first victory of the season for Redmond.

Desbiens was second, followed by Creswell's Raquel Ivie in third. Cottage Grove native Patrick Dills crossed the wire in fourth, while the fifth-place finisher was Dave Hibbard.

The IMCA Modified feature turned out to be a caution-plagued affair. A total of nine stoppages occurred and brought about several restarts. Pleasant Hill's Justin Austin grabbed the initial lead in his Art Hiatt owned entry. On lap four, Craig Hanson made the pass around Austin for the position. Eight of the nine cautions happened after Hanson took the top spot, which meant he had to master the restarts. Hanson was able to retain the coveted position each and every time to win his second race of the year at CGS.

Curtis Towns of Cottage Grove finished in the runner-up position, and Klamath Falls' Nick Trenchard placed third in the Rich and Nicky Biehn-owned machine. Steven Sturdivant from Springfield got fourth and Coquille's Ryan Baker completed the top five in fifth.

The Street Stocks were on the card for a non-point affair. Matt King, now residing in Springfield, paced the field early in the main event. By lap seven, Cottage Grove's Bo Eastman led the charge, but Evan Britton overtook Eastman after a lap nine restart. Britton, who is also from Cottage Grove, dominated the remaining distance to win his first race of the season.

King ended his night second while Troy Chamberlain finished third. Eastman was fourth and Redmond's Scott Lehman got fifth.

Last but not least was the Quality RV Repair Hornets.

Veneta's Brad Moffett led the opening circuit but soon lost it to Josh Corley of Westfir on the second time around. Corley held on to first place for much of the race until he got involved in an incident in lapped traffic on lap 13. This would give the position to Joe Maricle. Maricle, of Veneta, would stay in front of the field to win his sixth race of 2016 and third straight victory.

Moffett was second and Springfield's K.C. Scott crossed the stripe in third. Junction City native Marcel Forte placed fourth, and Goshen's Brandon Norton was fifth.
